Pleasant Home

Laura Shipley's friends tendered her a surprise party Saturday evening, October 14, at the home of her parents. The occasion was in honor of her sixteenth birthday and, as is unusual, was greatly surprised when the host of friends arrived. Many games were played, after which several songs were sung and instrumental solos rendered. In coupling off for supper it was found that there were more boys than girls but a few of the more imaginative boys came to the rescue by acting well the part of girls. An excellent supper was given, after which the young people departed, leaving many good wishes for another happy year.

Epworth League was very well attended Sunday evening and Miss Mildred Brower led an interesting meeting. We were encouraged by a talk from the pastor, who commended the attendance. The league is planning to give a pumpkin pie social in the near future.

The Orient school boys who played a practice game of football at Gresham Saturday afternoon with the Oregon City high school boys made a good showing for beginners. None of them had played before this term and this was the first game with an outside team. They expect to have a strong team by the end of the season. Glenn Harris, who has the strength and persistence of a giant, was not easily stopped when he made for goal and the Gresham high school team were so impressed with his playing that he will be put on their team. Irvin Neibauer also showed aptness for the game, being so quick and wiry. He will also be put on the Gresham team later. Principal Quicksall was very proud of his small boys' showing against large high school boys.

Church services Sunday evening were well attended. Rev. A. B. Calder has had prayer meeting topic cards printed and distributed among the congregation and hopes to revive a new interest in the prayer meeting which is held every Friday evening.

William Murray from Portland visited his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Murray, Sunday.

Mrs. M. Lannartz and daughter, Anna, and sister have gone to California, where they will spend the winter. Another sister from the east will meet them in San Francisco and spend some time with them.

Messrs. Stevens and Gray from Portland, old friends of Mr. and Mrs. Moore, were out Sunday and Mrs. Moore returned to Portland with them to secure some employment by which she could support her family.

A birthday party was given at the home of Forrest Louderback Saturday evening, but owing to the other party at the same date, many of his friends were unable to attend, as the invitations were already accepted.

Mrs. Jane Stevens and daughter, Alice, attended the wedding of Mrs. Blanche Flemming to Mr. Fitzgerald of Troutdale. The wedding took place in Portland and the couple will probably make their home near Corvallis.

Lumber has been hauled for the sidewalk from the corner here to the depot. Nearly everyone donated towards it as they realized what it meant to the town. Road Supervisor Hillyard is also grading this piece of road and will gravel it soon. Other winters have made it very muddy, being only a dirt road.

Mr. and Mrs. William Carpenter and Lizzie Taylor visited Mr. Carpenter's sister, Mrs. Josie Lake, Tuesday.

Mrs. Dale O. Northup and daughter were Lents visitors the first of the week.

D. D. Jack and Charles DeHaven have sawed all the wood here with their gasoline wood saw.

O. A. C. Gets Art Exhibit.
The Chicago Art Institute has just presented a collection of 200 pieces of drawing and painting to the art department of the Oregon Agricultural college. These will be exhibited at the college about Nov. 1st, and will be used in the instructional work. As there are six courses in architecture among the art courses this year, the large number of architectural drawings included in the gift are of particular value.

The dance given by the Live Wires on Saturday night was a decided success. There was a nice crowd, good music and everybody seemed to enjoy themselves.

The new electric lights were turned on Monday and all worked fine. This is a great improvement to our thriving little town. Who said sidewalks next?
