CHINA'S AWAKENING.

An article on China, by Rev. eo. F. Hopkins is published in this issue of the Outlook. Mr. Hopkins is well posted on the situation in the great Chinese Empire. The eyes of the world are on China. It may not be classed among the empires longer. Her walls of seclusion and exclusion are tumbling. Let us hope that she will be guided in the formation of her new national policies in lines of true progress and permanency. The Chinese are a peaceable and industrious people. Once they are freed from despotic oppression and permeated with a new national ideal, their progress will be rapid.

A recent writer on China, Sir Henry Arthur Blake, says that when the Chinese people do move the advance will be probably steady and will be certainly maintained. The awakening of China means her entrance into strong competition for her full share of the trade of the world. With her great commercial energy and enormous productive power she will be able to a large extent to supply her own wants and will certainly reach out to distant foreign markets. Given machinery, cheap labor, unsurpassed mineral deposits, and educated determination to use them, China will prove a competitor before whom all but the strongest may quail. The only competition for which she will never enter is a competition in idleness. Every man works to the full extent of his capacity and the virile vigor of the nation is intact."

GRESHAM'S WATER SYSTEM.

Now that the connections are being made with the Bull Run water pipes, and our cast-iron system is being installed, the advantage that Gresham will have in its water supply is beginning to dawn upon our citizens.

Gresham will have the best water supply for all purposes of any town in the state and as good as any large city anywhere. It will be an unending supply of the purest water, under strong pressure, by gravity systems, distributed through the most approved system of iron mains.

There will be no reservoir or stand pipe or pumping station needed. A tap having been secured on both Bull Run pipe lines, there is no likelihood of water being cut off. The engineer has said that the mains now being laid will be sufficient, with the necessary extensions, for a city of twenty-five thousand people.

The women of the faculty of the Oregon Agricultural college, through their organization, the College Folk club, will communicate to the city council their disapproval of the proposed Sunday opening of the moving picture shows, which is to be discussed at the next meeting of the council.

The Oregonian is about right in saying that the county court is right in refusing to pay the bill for entertainment of W. Cooper Morris, convict, while in Portland. Eight dollars a day for room and board with incidentals in proportion, may be the proper thing to take from frenzied finance, but not from the frenzied taxpayer.

Oregon apples grown at Talent by Houston Bros., captured a big prize at the recent National Apple show at Spokane. These growers got first prize for a carload of Yellow Newtown apples. They carried away $300 cash, merchandise worth $200 more, besides banners and cups.

Alfalfa seed has become one of the profitable crops of the Ontario region. More than $30,000 has been realized from the sale of seed this season. Most of the product goes to eastern markets.

Chicago Honors Oregon.

Chosen as one of 50 honor students out of 3,000 in the Chicago Art Institute, Miss Laura F. Pratt of Mound City, Mo., attributes her success to the excellent training she received under Prof. F. D. McLouth at the Oregon Agricultural College. In writing him of her work, she speaks of her selection as one of two out of a class of 25 to be given special landscape work under Frank Phoenix. Although she entered as a second year student, her work is placed in competition with that of the third and fourth year students. Her special study is the relation between music and color harmony.

California Wants Entomologists.

State Horticultural Commissioner A. J. Cook of California has written Dean A. B. Cordley of the Oregon Agricultural College asking him to recommend two men for assistants in the commission. One is to act in the insectary as assistant, with a salary of $1,800 a year, the other as field deputy at the same salary with expenses, traveling through Mexico, Tahiti, and the like districts collecting and breeding predaceous and parasitic insects for economic studies.

The Awakening of China

China, the old, age long nation has awakened. She has slumbered for a thousand years. She yawned, stretched and rubbed her eyes open a few years ago, but in the year of our Lord, 1911, she suddenly awoke and today China stands as the newest, yet oldest nation of the world.

Japan tickled the sleeping monster with a straw of war. Western nations twinged an ear or the nose, or tormented her a little, but after the Boxer movement and the Russo-Japanese war, unmistakable signs of wakefulness were seen. But the revolution of her own people this year has fully aroused her. No longer will she remain self-contained, aloof from the world, and in haughty carelessness of the regard of others.

Her 400,000,000 of people, though now divided on dynastic and economic questions, will no longer tolerate the meddling of other nations. It is now and will be henceforth, "China for the Chinese". She has already discontinued her ancient educational examinations in old classics in those boxlike stalls where gathered the very old gray-haired men as well as the youth of her land. She prizes education just as highly, but finds new subjects necessary to be taught in accord with western learning.

These new schools have developed a new national life, wherein she is conscious of latent power. To Japan, to the United States, and to Europe her students go in larger numbers yearly, to return to stand for their own country and its development.

The question is likely to be, not what will Russia, or England, or France or Germany or any other nation do with China, but what will China do with the rest of the world. The "Yellow Peril" is not Japan, so much as it is the new China. A people who for centuries wore their hair in long queues to indicate that they had been conquered by a kindred race of Manchus, and who, when aroused, make the cutting off of the queue a mark of conformity to the new ideal of national life, will make a good account of themselves to the world.

The present revolution is remarkable in its restraining powers by all classes of the people, who, thought in rebellion, not only to effect a dynastic change, and put a true Mongolian on the throne or else erect a republic, but are also warring because of the rulers making railroad loans with foreigners; yet they have refrained so generally from taking the life or doing serious injury to the many foreigners in their borders. True a few have been attacked and killed, but there seems to be a general understanding among leaders and the common people everywhere, in a growing and spreading revolt, to hold sacred the peoples of other nations. Care seems to be taken constantly to not do anything that would in the least call for intervention by other nations. The world awaits results with anxiety, till China has settled down again to a new, yet fully awakened national life.

Persons of middle age, now living, can remember the awakening of Japan and her rapid coming into her own until she is now a world-power to be recovered with. So it will be with China.

Profits in Poultry Raising

The profits are there, and the profits are great; but to get them you must apply right methods. You cannot learn from a book. Rule-of-thumb methods take time and often end disastrously. The right way is to be guided by poultry experts who have already "made good." That is the kind of instruction the International Correspondence Schools offer in their course of 21 home lessons in poultry raising. The course covers everything on poultry raising, from eggs to profits. It doesn't matter how few or how many birds you start with, this is the only true way to do it and make it pay from the word "go."

The value of this course to you is beyond estimation. You soon get the price back, and more, in increased profits, and the knowledge that will keep those profits coming your way. Start poultry raising right this way, then there'll be no failure—no halfway success—but the greatest success. For free descriptive circular, write the
