A Remarkable Hen.

The humble hen has been held up to us of late as the greatest wealth producer of the country—the automatic provider of health, support and breakfast. It has remained, for New York to present this simpleminded but industrious friend of the farmer in the role of a hired hand. Finding her master—we hate to say—busy buying a chicken coop—presumably for occupancy—Biddy waited about until the man in the case dropped a nail. Turning to pick it up, he found that Biddy had already forestalled him and was standing by the coop with the nail in her bill, held ready for driving. Thereofore until the homely, necessary task was done, man and hen worked in profitable and pleasant alliance. This is all true, too, because it was printed in the paper.

Tomorrow morning our rural carrier will start on his amended route. There was an error in our last description of the route, so we have been informed. The carrier will touch the Base Line at the Russellville school house, traverse the Base Line to Russellville store, turn south and gets to Base Line at the corner of Buckley avenue or Corners roads and Base Line, thence west to Russellville school house, then getting back to Base Line at Rockwood. In the near future the department will be asked to change the route so it will again leave the Base Line one-half mile east of Rockwood, then by serving several families at their doors who now have to go from a quarter of a mile to 1 from a quarter of a mile to 1 mile for their mail. This request will no doubt be granted if the people along this road will remove two or three gates and repair the road, which they have agreed to do. Very little work is done by the Cleone carrier along the Base Line and all this work should be done by the Gresham carrier. People along the Base Line should not enjoy double service while others have to walk a mile for their mail when they can be reached by rural wagon.

Immense preparations are being made for Christmas festivities by the two churches and our school trees and program, with a two weeks' vacation for the scholars, is the topic of the day.

Mrs. Ledora Dickinson, a former resident of Rockwood, is spending the week with Mrs. Mary Schram. Irving Province spent several days in Portland on business and pleasure this week.

Koemer; treasurer, Walker Quisenberry, and trustee for three years, Andrew McMillan. Installation will take place Thursday evening, January 4, 1912. District Deputy J. Brown, officiating. Our neighbor, Miles Grimshaw, and family are surely having their share. Their oldest daughter is just recovering from typhoid fever, and another little girl and Mr. Grimshaw are now stricken down. Mrs. Grimshaw shows symptoms of it, and it has been necessary to hire a nurse. The sympathy of the entire neighborhood is with the family.

T. A. O. Stensland of this place has opened up a new industry here which will no doubt furnish him ample means for a bounteous Christmas. That of taking and filling orders for Christmas trees in Portland. He has orders from some of the largest hotels and churches, as well as several private families in the city, and is busily engaged in getting them out for delivery. He finds that every little fir bush does not make a Christmas tree.
