BOOKS FOR TEACHERS

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Alderman has compiled the following list of books for the teachers' reading circle, as required by law passed by the last legislature. According to the law, teachers must read at least one of these books during the year and failing to do so will not be entitled to have their certificates registered. The last three books mentioned in the list will count as one.

Allen: Civics and Health.
Betts: The Recitation.
Chubb: Teaching of English in Elementary and Secondary Schools.
Foght: American Rural School; its characteristic, its future and its problems.

McMurry: How to study and teaching how to study.
Palmer: Self Cultivation in English.

Smith: The Evolution of Dodd; a pedagogical story.

Wray: Jean Mitchell's School.
The books on the required list are all to be found at the Gresham library.

Other books at Gresham of special interest to teachers are the as follows:

Barry: Hygiene of the School Room.
