"The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins."

Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the post office at Gresham, Oregon, under the act of March 3, 1879.

LACK OF INTEREST.

The good citizens of Gresham evidently were not much interested in the opening of the reading room Sunday afternoons, affording one good safe public place where a stranger or a few restless young people could spend an hour or two reading to advantage. Even some of the older people who enjoy reading and do not have much spare time days or evenings, enjoyed the Sunday afternoon privilege. Aside from four or five persons, few if any cared either for their own benefit or that of others and after a few weeks trial the Sunday afternoon opening is discontinued. The movement was in the line of progress and should have had better support.

WEST AND CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

Governor West has already declared that he will not enforce the law in regard to the execution of murderers as it now stands on our statute books. This law is the people's law and the last legislature refused to amend it on the governor's recommendation. Now the governor wants the people to say whether they want this part of the law enforced or not. If they do he will enforce it. This seems to be the situation. The move to have the people vote on the abolition of capital punishment is a good move. If it is abolished it should be by the people and not the governor. The governor is doing a little stage performance when he suggests the hideous idea of making December 13 a general hanging day for all murderers which accumulate in the meantime, provided the people on November 5, vote to retain capital punishment.

THE BEST RESOLUTION.

The Oregonian under the heading, "A Resolution for the New Year," goes to the heart of the matter and recommends a resolution that will include all others and make all other duties easy. It says: "Why not fix on one supreme resolution which will include all lesser ones and fill the whole coming year with good if it is carried out? There is one such, supremely good, supremely beautiful, supremely potent over evil. It is the resolve to spend a little time every day in communion with the power that rules the universe. He does not care by what name he is addressed, nor for the ceremonials by which he is approached. All he asks for is the contrite heart and the open mind which will permit his power to flow in and take possession. With his power comes peace, the peace that passeth understanding, because it is infinite, and with his peace he gives all the other blessings of life. God has money, power, learning, happiness in store for every human being. Each can get his share by opening his heart to the inflowing rivers of Almighty love."

"This nation is not improbably within a year of the consideration of drastic wage reductions—the incident which comes just before the end of that series of successive economic phenomena which constitute industrial depression. Before that time comes, while manufacturers are studying their cost sheets to determine what makes the prices of all commodities so high that their is a halt in the country's ability to buy, it is worth while to inquire whether the excessive tribute exacted from business by certain forms of inflated capital has not at least as much to do with it as the high wages of labor."

Now is the time to get rid of your rheumatism. You will find Chamberlain's Liniment wonderfully effective. One application will convince you of its merits. Try it. For sale by Gresham Drug Company and all Dealers.

From Farm to College; From College to Farm

A few years ago we saw a young man who had been reared on the farm where wheat had been the main staple produced. His horizon of thought at that time was limited to the experience of his days on the farm and a common school education. So far as making farming his life work according to old methods, there was not very much to attract and keep him on the farm.

This young fellow made up his mind to take an agricultural course in the college in order to find out whether he could improve on the old methods of his father. He has been studious and alert and his mind has been broadened to an remarkable extent. We saw him but a few days since and we scarcely knew the young fellow. He is a gentlemanly appearing young man, with an earnest eye and a buoyant, business-like air about him. The possibilities of farm life are now to him something glorious. Already the income from his father's farm has been increased one-third. The farm home is more to him than ever before and he intends just as soon as he completes his course, to return to the farm and make the place produce better results.

Once in awhile an old-timer is found who ridicules the idea of college farming, but he is getting to be rather scarce these days. He does not realize what a back number he is. If he will but awaken and devote a week to the investigation of that which has been accomplished within the last decade in soil and crop improvement in every state in the union, he will find out what advanced methods are accomplishing, besides, the good work has just fairly begun. If he but knew it, he is far behind the Chinese as an agriculturist. A short study of the reasons why the northwest has been brought into such prominence as a fruit country, should convince him of the great benefits to be derived from advanced methods. Slipshod, hap-hazard methods in all lines of business are beginning to be a thing of the past, and the business of farming is no exception to the rule.—Deschutes Valley Tribune.

Doings Elsewhere in Oregon

Forest Grove is organizing an 18-piece band.

Hood River has five feet of snow and the Columbia at that point is frozen over.

The Astoria Centennial celebration held last September was a financial success, leaving a balance on hand of $6,278.

Milton will hold a big poultry show on January 29-31. The country surrounding that point will send in prize fowls for the exhibition and a splendid showing is expected.

R. D. Inman of Portland, who is so widely known in this part of the county as an automobile enthusiast was married in Portland Saturday. His bride was Mrs. Clara A. Richards.

Mayor Henderson of Astoria is encouraging a public market for the city by the sea, emphasizing the need for such an institution in his annual message to the council. He believes it will reduce the cost of living by bringing the producer and consumer together.

Oregon editors will visit the Pendleton Roundup next fall in a body. The plan is to take the scribes by special train from Portland, where the annual convention will be held, to Pendleton for the two final days of the Roundup. On the Sunday following the editors will probably be guests at Hot Lake.

Twenty-eight counties of the state and eighteen states of the union are represented in the present registry in the collegiate branches at the State University of Oregon. Of the counties, Multnomah leads the list with 170 resident students and Lane, the home county, comes next with 153.

Recent census reports show that Multnomah county, the smallest county in Oregon, has the densest population, being 501.7 persons to the square mile. All the central and southeastern counties, and Curry county, have less than two persons per square mile. Harney county has less than one.

Retail merchants in the state will gather at Medford January 17 and 18 for the sixth annual convention. The program has been made up and is filled with discussions of subjects of vital interest to the merchant. Competent speakers have been secured to deliver addresses of value to the retailer.

The Forest service is mapping the forests of the state, and will show the ownership of each piece of standing timber of any account in Oregon. By this means it is expected to increase the efficiency of the present system of fire protection during the dry periods of the year when the annual loss reaches a big sum.

The opening of the Celilo bridges spanning the Columbia river at Celilo Falls, is a notable event in the record of Oregon's development. It is on the line of the Oregon Trunk, the Hill line to Bend. It was christened Friday and trains now pass over it. The bridge is 4000 feet long and cost approximately $1,000,000.

Another train robbery occurred in northern California Friday morning when two yegmen bound and gagged three mail clerks, requiring them to open the registered mail pouches and deliver over the money and valuables found. The robbers rode about 35 miles, taking the places of the clerks at several stations and handing out the mail sacks. At Redding they quietly stepped off and disappeared.

The five Chinese students at the Oregon Agricultural College, representatives of prominent families of the celestial kingdom, have been excused from classes this week at the request of the Young China association of Portland, in order that they may assist in the universal celebration of the new era of China just entered upon.

Several prominent Oregonians have been engaged to address the students taking the short courses at the Oregon Agricultural College. Among these are President Ackerman of Monmouth, President Newell of the State Board of Horticulture, H. M. Williamson, secretary State Board of Horticulture, C. E. Whistler of Medford, E. C. Thompson of Hood River, and Prof. W. H. Lawrence of Hood River.

The Southern Pacific Traffic department will encourage farmers in the Willamette Valley and Western Oregon to grow barley as a feed for dairy stock and to fatten hogs and cattle. To farmers who will plant an acre or two experimentally, the railroad company offers to supply the seed. The Agricultural College recommends barley as a stock feed, believing that when grown extensively, it will become as valuable for that purpose here as corn is in the Middle West.

Progress is being made in the campaign to interest children in agricultural education in Oregon. State Superintendent Alderman is sending out letters to breeders and producers of the state asking for prizes to be awarded to school pupils who shall make the best exhibits of farm products at the fairs next fall. C. D. Nairn of Amity, has been the first to respond and he will give a thoroughbred Scotch collie as a first prize for an exhibit of vegetables, corn, etc., at the state fair.

Short Course Enrollment Increases.

An increase of over 55 per cent in the number enrolled in the winter short course at the Oregon Agricultural College over the registration at the same time last year is reported by Dean A. B. Cordley, and the prediction of Dr. James Withycombe, director of the experiment station, that the number would reach 1,000 by the end of the farmers' week looks to be well within probability.

This is the fifteenth year the special winter course has been offered, and the added facilities in new buildings and laboratories, additional faculty and equipment, will aid in making it by far the most interesting and useful to the farmers, orchardmen and stockmen of the state of any course in the history of the institution.

Many of the lectures are to be summarized in mimeographed or typewritten form for the students to take home with them, so that they may have them in a permanent form to refer to. Five times as many have enrolled from Hermiston as last year, and two men have come all the way from Omaha, Nebraska. A number of others have come from British Columbia, and the states of Washington is well represented. Large delegations have come from the Hood River and Rogue River districts, also, as well as from almost every part of Oregon.

For soreness of the muscles whether induced by violent exercise or injury, Chamberlain's Liniment is excellent. This liniment is also highly esteemed for the relief it affords in cases of rheumatism. Sold by Gresham Drug Co., and all Dealers.

Give Your Wife a Vacation.

Ava B. Milam, professor of domestic science at the Oregon Agricultural College, pleaded the cause of the women on the farm, in a recent address at Salem before the Threshermen of Oregon. She urged the members to give their wives vacations from the endless routine of home duties at least twice a year, to give them some spending money without their having to ask for it, and to put labor-saving devices into the houses as well as into the barns and fields. She was applauded to the echo.

Profits in Poultry Raising

The profits are there, and the profits are great, but to get them you must apply right methods. You cannot learn from a book. Rules of thumb methods take time and often end in disaster. The right way is to be guided by poultry experts who have already "made good." That is the kind of instruction the International Correspondence Schools offer in their course of 24 lessons in poultry raising. The course covers everything on poultry raising, from eggs to profit. It doesn't matter how few or how many you start with, this is the only true way to do it and make it pay from the word "on."

The value of this course to you is beyond mention. You soon get the price back, and more in increased profits, and the knowledge that will keep those profits coming your way. Start your poultry raising right, this way, then there'll be no failure—no halfway success—but the promised success. For free descriptive circular, write to:
