GRESHAM

The Outlook recently stated that John O'Reilly had been appointed temporary trainmaster at Gresham. We are informed that the position is permanent and all are glad to greet him in this new capacity.

Mr. Clough, manager of the Arlington Lumber company, is looking for a location for a lumber yard. He recently visited Gresham and may decide to come here.

Last Saturday a party of eight gentlemen and two ladies and their chaperones visited Aschoffs at Marmot, going by way of Bull Run over the Mt. Hood railway. They stayed over Sunday and enjoyed a splendid time. In the party was Wm. Blonder of the Mt. Hood railway company. One of the ladies was thought to be Mrs. Blonder and Mr. Blonder had difficulty in persuading his hosts that it was a mistake. The young lady is the daughter of a building contractor of Portland and is very popular. Word of the amusing circumstance preceded Mr. Blonder all along the way to Portland where he has been jollied by his many friends about it. The Outlook makes all allowance on account of this being leap year.

The Understock & Larson Syndicate of Portland has purchased many valuable tracts along the Mt. Hood railway line, intending to open several townsites this spring. One of these is at Pleasant Home, which is now being surveyed. An effort will be made to get business concerns to locate at Pleasant Home and other advantageous points as well as new residents all along the line.

The Mt. Hood Railway & Power company evidently expects to enter Portland by its own electric power line within a few months as is shown by the fact that the company has placed an order with an eastern concern for more electrically equipped cars.

The Y. M. C. A. Ski club of Portland is arranging for a trip to Mt. Hood on February 8th. Special arrangements are being made with the Mt. Hood Railway & Power company for their transportation to Bull Run. Thence they will go to Marmot, Rhododendron and Government Camp.

The subject for the Epworth League meeting February 4, is "False Security of the Unrighteous." Leader, Miss Gilbert.

The statement in last Tuesday's Outlook that the plans for the new Jacobson building were drawn by a Portland architect, was incorrect. The architect was Arthur W. Regner. Mr. Regner is the designer of several buildings in Gresham and now has a brick and cement block under construction on Main street on the Regner property.

W. H. Addis, expert orchardist and florist, is trimming Mr. Dammair's fine young orchard this week. Mr. Dammair has about two acres mostly Baldwins and Gravensteins. They are seven years old and bearing well. Mr. Addis will work with M. O. Nelson's orchard soon.

W. E. Dabney and wife of Hood River were in town yesterday looking for a location for a home and business.

Jesse Belleu is taking a two weeks vacation from his meat route and will visit his place near Alderdale, Washington, and also will visit his son Harry at North Yakima. He will take in the cities of Seattle and Tacoma on his trip. Will Hockinson will drive the meat wagon during Mr. Belleu's absence.

gives the ecumenical conference address as all Methodist churches the world over will do the same. In the evening the sermon topic will be "The New Name." A welcome to all.

Miss Irene Smith of Portland spent the day yesterday with Miss Alida Culy and attended the art exhibit at the schoolhouse.

Ed. Aylsworth is right up to date in the lines he handles and the way he does business. He is unpacking his first shipment of spring suits today and they are attractive in cloth and style. Better get next to one of them.

Mrs. Ida Burgess of Rockwood, who formerly had a restaurant here, has purchased machinery for a laundry and expects to locate at Gresham. She is getting ready to start up next week. This is a business greatly needed here and Mrs. Burgess should be well supported in her enterprise.

Hog Houses.

To show the students and visiting farmers of the state how a model hog house may be built at low cost, Prof. E. L. Potter of the animal husbandry department of the Oregon Agricultural College has erected on the new farm added last summer to the college holdings an ideal hog house.

The total cost for lumber was but $225 and for labor $100. At the end are the feed rooms, and each side six pens, 8x10 feet, with a wide alley the entire length between. Outside are 8x12 floored pens, both inside and out, are on the same level except for a four inch slope from the center of the building to the far edge of the outside floors. This is just sufficient to carry off all water and assure dry pens. Each pen has a window 2x2 feet, and at the end of the building is a larger window, set high to give plenty of light.

Material used is ordinary rough lumber, with a shingled roof. The boards are set close together, but the cracks are not battened. For districts having extremely cold weather warmer quarters could be provided. With the free circulation of air allowed there is practically no odor. Each pen has a gate into the alley, making it easy to change the hogs from one pen to another. The partitions are of the usual height. Both the ordinary and the automatic feed troughs are being used. Experiments as to the best automatic trough are being conducted, as well as a number of experiments in different kinds of feeding.
