"The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins."

Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the post office at Gresham, Oregon, under the act of March 3, 1879.

ONE YEAR OLD.

With this issue the Outlook begins a new year of business. Its little barque of enterprise was launched one year ago in an upstairs room with a few staunch friends to encourage its beginning. So far as is known not one of those pledging their support at the start, has been lost and hundreds of new ones have since given the promoter the glad hand.

J. C. Hessel was the first name entered on the list as a subscriber. Dr. A. Thompson was the first to pay a subscription. Upwards of a hundred had spoken for the new twice-a-week paper before the first issue. The list has now grown to about seven hundred names, nearly all of them in Gresham and surrounding towns and country.

The Outlook started out with new ideas and methods in regard to a country newspaper and has received unnumbered compliments on the attractive appearance and newsworthy character of the up-to-date paper. The paper has appeared regularly twice a week except one issue while the plant was being moved to its present location. Everything has confirmed the opinion, expressed in our motto, that the Linotype way is the way that wins.

So, here's for another year of newspaper work to help advance every worthy business and interest of this section of fair Oregon.

"Blessed are they who have the gift of making friends, for it is one of God's best gifts. It involves many things, but above all, the power of going out of one's self and seeing and appreciating whatever is noble and loving in another."—Henry Van Dyke.

"If I ever reach heaven I expect to find three wonders there: First, to meet some one I had not thought to see there; second, to miss some one I had expected to see there; and third, the greatest wonder of all, to find myself there."—John Newton.

"If, instead of a gem, or even a flower, we would cast the gift of a lovely thought into the heart of a friend, that would be giving as the angels give."—George McDonald.

Recognized the Error.

An Irish lawyer addressed the court as "gentlemen" instead of "your honors," says Collier's. A brother of the bar reminded him of his error. He arose to apologize, thus: "May it please the court—in the heat of debate I called your honors gentlemen. It was a mistake, your honors."

"Lend me a five and I'll be everlastingly indebted to you."
 "That's what I'm afraid of."

Kelso

A very successful Parent-Teachers meeting was held at the school-house on Monday afternoon. Quite a number of parents attended. A short program was given by the school, an instructive talk by Supervisor Anderson, which was followed by remarks from the parents. Several persons expressed themselves strongly in favor of a high school at Sandy. There was an excellent display of school work.

Lewis Hauglum and Miss Julia O'Neill were united in marriage in Portland, February 19.

Gordon Browne and Miss Annie Jarl were married in Portland, February 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Browne spent a few days last week visiting Mrs. Browne's mother, Mrs. Sindall. Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bickford, a baby girl, Friday, February 23rd.

Damascus

Leslie Dallas has returned from an extended trip to southeastern Oregon. He is pleased with prospects there.

Cliff Hazlewood has taken a claim near Medford. His wife has gone to him and they are now happy farmers.

The gospel meetings will be resumed on the coming Sunday afternoon by the Evangelists, Revs. Jamieson and Johnson.

The Poultryman's Reputation.

The fact that different people regard the poultry business from different viewpoints, and that there are so many lines that will admit of specialization, and that some line appeals to most every person stronger than does any other line or anything else accounts for the fact that so many people become fascinated with the work says, H. L. Blanchard in Northwestern Horticulturist.

When one once suitably prepares for the work in one or more lines as indicated, and comes to regarding same as an important line of agriculture or business, made so by the great and growing demand as well as the increasing popularity of properly marketed poultry and poultry products, he finds the same not only one of the most delightful occupations but exceedingly fascinating and remunerative as well. The poultryman should realize that a good reputation for his products, whether it be eggs or fowls, is his most valuable asset in his business. That reputation is only secured by the quality of the article being offered to the consumer, with regularity and persistency. One of the best known and most successful apple-growers of our state, who by his methods of doing his business and the quality of the fruit placed by him on the market, has won for him a nation-wide reputation for honesty and fair dealing, only needs to label his fruit with his name, as having been produced in his orchards, which is all the guarantee that the commission men or the consumer exact. Thus a reputation for an honest pack and square dealing becomes the producer's most successful selling agent. Let our poultry people take a lesson from this famous apple-grower's methods and they will surely profit thereby. Say what you please about 'doing business' and 'getting the best of the deal,' anything that you may do, when becoming known, that is calculated to mar or to destroy a good reputation will surely prove in the end to be an expensive experiment. Let's use a solid rock for the foundation in the development of our poultry business, and let's name it "honesty and a square deal" at all times and with everybody.
