"The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins."

Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the post office at Gresham, Oregon, under the act of March 3, 1879.

Every loyal citizen will surely fall in line tomorrow and clean up his premises and the street in front of his property. It is likely the street committee will cooperate by furnishing a team to haul away material that cannot be burned.

Lents is the latest town to fall into line with Estacada on an annual clean-up day. Oregon City saw the light some time ago and scrubbed. Lents is to follow suit—Estacada Progress.

Now it's Gresham's turn and the Progress can add one more name to the list.

The current year, it is said, will prove one of the best periods in the history of the lumber industry, the demand for forest products of Oregon being the best since the period following the San Francisco fire, when the forests of the Northwest were drawn upon heavily to rebuild that city. Prosperous conditions in the lumber trade will be felt generally throughout Oregon, so widespread is this industry.

The Outlook very much appreciates the fine letters sent in by our correspondents. These are surely an indication that Gresham is surrounded by enterprising communities, and in these communities are people public spirited enough to let others know what they are doing. We are always glad to give space to items of real interest to the people. Business changes, the coming of new people, improvements in all lines, crop prospects, matters of social and religious advancement and many other things might be mentioned as subjects worthy of note. We would urge that an effort be made to send in news letters earlier than most are doing, but send them any way, and make free use of the telephone.

Estacada citizens are taking up in earnest the county division project and expect to see it through to a finish. A bill is being prepared and petitions will soon be circulated for its initiation that the question of county division may go on the ballot for the fall election. It is proposed to name the new county Cascade county, and Estacada will likely become the new county seat—if. But that's a big if. The county division measures of two years ago, and there were several, fared poorly at the hands of voters. So long as it is left to the whole state it is more likely to fail than to carry. If county division were limited to the territory affected in the matter there might be more hope for it.

New Course in Dairy Farming.
A new course in milk production is to be offered by the dairy department of the Oregon Agricultural college next fall. New colleges separate the manufacturing and production features of the dairy instruction, but at the Oregon Agricultural it has been decided to offer two separate courses, so that students may specialize in either branch of the industry they desire, or take both at once.

The new work will take up in detail the care, management, breeding and feeding of dairy cattle to the end of gaining the largest possible milk production, and will also give the student a thorough knowledge of the history of pure-bred dairy cattle.

The college hopes in the near future to be able to establish in connection with this work a dairy demonstration farm of about 80 acres on which the students can gain actual practical experience of the management of a dairy business. It will be made entirely self supporting in time, as all of the feed for the cows will be raised on this tract, where they will be bred, grazed, and cared for as on any commercial dairy farm.

The equipment of the dairy laboratories has just received the addition of another steam turbine Babcock's tester, made necessary by the growth of the department since entering the new building.

Preliminary work for the construction of the north jetty at the mouth of the Columbia river will commence at once, plans having been approved at Washington and forwarded to the local engineers during the past week. The approximate length of the proposed jetty will be two and one-half miles and it will require about five years for construction. It is expected to add materially to the depth of the ship channel across the Columbia river bar.

The Stuff Successful Men Are Made of

The International Correspondence Schools are NOT closed in summer. All of our truly ambitious students those who think more about the increased salaries their studies will qualify them to earn, than of the imaginary discomforts of summer study—devote a part of each week to their studies all summer.

A student who will only study in cold weather punishes himself. Why? Because he takes two or three times as long, in preparing himself to earn more money, as the student who studies from a half hour to an hour per day all the year round. We have enough letters on file to make several very large books, the general purport of which is: "Oh, if I had only taken up that Course when I first wrote you about it! I have just missed a fine position, at largely increased wages, because I wasn't prepared to fill it. I lacked just the special knowledge I could have had from the Course." The writers of these letters never have to be coaxed to study in summer NOW. They know what delay costs. Why not profit by THEIR experience, instead of taking the same bitter medicine yourself?

Persons that suffer most from the heat are those that have nothing else to occupy their thoughts. A man who is interested in his studies doesn't know how hot it is. He has no time to fret about the weather. He is looking ahead a few months to the time when he can demand advancement in position and salary, because his special education will have made his services of more value to his employer. "It is no harder to read an Instruction Paper in summer than to read a newspaper. How many summer days are hot enough to prevent you from reading the daily news?"

The man who promises himself that he will enroll next fall is only trying to deceive his conscience. He may not know it, but he is weakening his will-power, and it is will-power—power to do what one knows he must do to succeed—that makes the man. A man of weak will—one who will study some day, but not now—will always be down in the world; always in "hard luck," frequently out of work, and when employed, it will always be at low wages. He knows that a knowledge of certain subjects will fit him to earn more; yet, he stills his conscience by promising to start later. Such a man isn't truly ambitious. He is one of the kind that always does the hard, menial work, and draws small pay all his life. Are YOU one of that kind. Are YOU truly ambitious to earn more and make something of yourself? If you won't study in summer, you are NOT if you prefer to fret about hot weather, rather than forget it by studying, you are NOT.

The dangerous habit of "putting off" has ruined the lives of more promising young men than drunkenness. It is so easy to say "yes, it's what I need; I'll start tomorrow—next week—some other time." The difference between the man that makes a failure of his life and the man that succeeds is simply this: The failure is going to begin "tomorrow"; the success begins today.

The men who "get there" are those that study for self-improvement in summer, or whenever they have time. They don't let the weather keep them in inferior positions, at small wages. They don't make excuses to themselves when they ought to be up and doing. They don't work for wages barely enough to keep soul and body together either.
