GRESHAM, MULTNOMAH COUNTY, OREGON, FRIDAY, MAY 24, 1912

$1.50 PER YEAR

JERSEY CATTLE HIGH PRICED

Gresham Jersey cattle breeders were heavy purchasers on Tuesday at the Scappoose sale. This sale is an annual event conducted by Harry West. Mr. West imported during the past year sixty head from the Isle of Jersey. He is an old breeder and made his selections personally.

Among those present from this section were B. C. Altman, Chas. Cleveland, and Joel Jarl.

Mr. Altman purchased three head, two of these were three-year old cows, the other a seven-months' old bull. The cows are of the typical island type, and persistent milkers, one of them having given as high as 45 pounds of milk a day. Her name is LaBelle Siberiense, and she was first prize winner in the two-year old class at North Yakima and Spokane last fall. The other cow, Even Queen, is equally good in all respects.

This was Mr. Jarl's first experience at an annual sale and he and his wife have become enthusiasts in the thoroughbred Jersey class. Mr. Jarl bought a two-year old cow and a yearling heifer. The latter was first at Yakima and Spokane and junior champion at both fairs. She is a heifer of great promise.

Chas. Cleveland purchased two young bulls. They are the very finest stock and will be added to the Cleveland Jersey herds.

Mr. Altman stopped off at Gresham yesterday on his way home and showed his new stock to a few friends. He says the sale was a success although in general the prices were low, barely covering Mr. West's expenses. Mr. West says he will however, try it again next year. The highest price, $850, was paid for a yearling bull by W. O. Morrow of Independence. F .E. Lind got the grand champion prize cow for $600. She was never defeated in the show ring. Her calf, it is said will be worth $300. The decision of three judges in the Northwest circuit last fall gave her first place in every instance. She has the same high record on the Isle of Jersey.

Who Are They?

Who have read the Bridge of the Gods, that have not wondered in what favored spot in Oregon Wallula waited for Cecil and along what stream wound the trail which led Cecil to the one whose heart had been beating fast, anxiously waiting his presence, only to be told he must go, that she should never see him again. Indians, like Big Indian Tom, who recently died at Klamath at age of 105 years told tradition that has come down through their people, of a time when there was a mghty noise within the earth, tongues of fire flew from Mt. Hood, mountains fell in to the Great River Then it was that Cecil wound his way along a little stream to meet Wallula—this stream was what is now known as Beaver Creek leading from the Sandy river near Troutdale and having its source in what is now known as "Delate Illihee," a tract recently platted in the famous Powell Valley two miles east of Gresham.

It was here, from an advantageous point of view that Cecil and Wallula watched the turmoil of Mt. Hod and St. Helens.

It was on this favored spot that the great Chief Multnomah congregated his people thinking it the land of all lands with water unexcelled.

After Cecil left them, the Bridge of the Gods fell, Wallula passed away,the great chief Multnomah followed her, and the chief of the Molala's danced his last war dance where now stands the two story schoolhouse of Powell valley near which is seen the sign "Delate Illihee" meaning in the Indian language." The land of plenty."

"Delate Illihee" is platted in ten acre tracts and lies east and north of the Powell Valley school and is so platted that there is a road in front of every tract. Five of these tracts have running water, two of them a perennial spring on high ground, all have nice trees on some portion of the tract, and all have some cleared ground, these tracts are being sold at figures that will permit of a young man or woman buying same and after making first payment pay for balance from the products of the land. Those who do not care to work the ground at present will find no trouble in renting for pasture or for garden purposes.

Some of the tracts are being sold as low as $150 per acre and only 10 per cent of price is required in first payment, balance can be paid monthly, quarterly, or semi-annual payments making the tracts very desirable for salaried men and women from whom there is already considerable inquiry for investment or future homes and to whom some of the tracts have been sold.

NEW RAILROAD ASSURED SANDY

SANDY, May 23—The so-called Multnomah and Eastern railroad extenssion to Sandy appears to be a sure go at the present writing. Messrs. Bosholm, Dixon, Eddy and Esson of the Sandy Commercial club have been eminently successful in securing the entire right of way, and Manager Ernsberger promises to push the grading and construction work as rapidly as possible. The distance along the right of way from Cottrell to Sandy is only five and one-half miles. The road will be of great value in developing this section and will insure the rapid growth of Sandy village. Arrangements have been made with local saw mills to furnish ties and bridge timbers.

The new county bridge across Cedar creek is completed.

Attorney C. D. Purcell of Portland has opened a law office in the Eddy building.

A. L. Deaton and Newton Schminky are selling the Pomeroy general merchandise stock for the Clackamas county bank.

Sandy public schools close for the summer vacation June 7.

The Sandy creamery building is completed and the butter making machinery is being installed.

Edward Bruns has the new city bastile nearly completed. The front room will be used for a council chamber. City Marshal Davies will soon be able to lock up disorderlies instead of being compelled to run them out of town.

The surveying crew for the new railroad is running lines from Sandy up to Salmon river.

A banquet supper was given at the Sandy hotel Wednesday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wolf, who have returned from their honeymoon.

J. R. Carnogg is building a house on his ranch.

Welcome rains this week are doing lots of good hereabouts.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Wolf will begin housekeeping in one of Proctor's bungalows.

New Drug Store

The Johnson Drug Co. has opened their new place of business in the First State Bank building on Powell street. Mr. Johnson has expended a great deal of time on his new business home, with the result that one of the most up-to-date drug stores in the country is in Gresham. The latest ideas are embodied in this store, and it is a great credit to this city. Over $4000 have been spent in stock and in the soda fountain. The shelving is of hard wood, beautifully stained, with a large amount of drawer space. At the rear of the store is the ice cream parlor and prescription room. Mr. Johnson has taken great pride in the equipment of his prescription room and has finished it with modern appliances including Torsion Balance scales.

TRACK MEET TOMORROW

Everything is in readiness for the track meet of the county public schools tomorrow in this city. The track is in fine condition, and fair weather is predicted, insuring a success of the first annual meet. The contestants will assemble early as the preliminary tryouts will be held promptly at 11 a .m. These preliminaries are made necessary in order to weed out the large number of entries, and only those who secure a place in these are eligible for the the finals. The final program will commence at 1 p. m .sharp. It is expected that there will be over 100 entries, and of these 30 will be from Gresham.

A large crowd of teachers, parents and friends are expected, and a good time is the order for the day. A good band will provide music from 11 a. m. to 12 m. and in the afternoon beginning at 1 p.m. It is reported that the girls will show up strong in their scheduled events, and at least three Gresham girls are expected to carry off first prizes. The list of events with prizes were published in the Outlook last week. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged to the Athletic grounds.

Mrs. E. A. McLean was given a surprise party and dinnner last Monday at her home in Gresham, the occasion being her 59th birthday. Those uniting in the affair were her husband, D. L. McLean, her children and near relatives. They were, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Michel, Misses Margurite, Gladys and Mabel Michel, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lawrence, Miss Grace Lawrence, Mr. annd Mrs. E. W. Alysworth, of Gresham, Mrs. Ethel Miller of Salem, Mrs. Lester Thompson of Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Robertson and wife of Scenic, Mr .and Mrs. W. T. Hartley and Miss Winnifred Osburn of Gresham. Among the many gifts presented to Mrs. McLean was a beautiful gold watch.

MRS. S. A. EVANS TALKS TO CLUB

The Women's Civic Improvement League entertained about sixty at its conversazione last Tuesday.

The subjects discussed were of general interest and the efforts of the League to bring its members and guests together for an informal and social evening succeeded.

Miss Hessel favored the company with a song and ice cream and cake were served at an attractively decorated table.

Mrs. Sarah A. Evans, president of the Federation of Women's clubs of Oregon, came out from Portland to address the meeting of the league She spoke informally and most interestingly for about 45 minutes upon the purpose of women's clubs and civic leagues and told what had been and was being accomplished by such organizations in different parts of the state. Her remarks in general were as follows:

The purpose of mankind, individually and collectively should be to do something for the world—something to make it a better place to live in —something to make its people better to live with, and to this end we must work together, must have organization. Club work may be classified in four parts: Science, utility, morals and art; under the heading of science fall such matters as sanitation, protection of health; under utility, transportation, etc.; under morals, matters of the public conscience; under art, the beautifying of cities and towns, by improving present conditions and planning for future improvements. All these great movements have come about through the activity of women. They are responsible for pure water, pure milk, play grounds, clean streets, waste disposition, protection of trees, transforming of vacant lots and unsightly back yards, market inspection and pure food, making living cheaper, the elimination of bill boards, and the institution of annual city cleaning days. This movement is a kind of home mission propaganda; it makes for a higher order of citizenship. Junior city leagues are being established with the purpose of helping the children to become more useful citizens.

Mrs. Evans then told something of the work which was being done in many of the Oregon towns by women's clubs. At Roseburg, an unsightly rubbish depository has been transformed into an attractive park; at Hood River, the club has obtained better streets; at Forest Grove, vacant lots have been beautified; at Cottage Grove an annual sweet pea day has been instituted; the Portland Women's club maintains a bed at a sanitorium. The splendid work of the Neighborhood House (Portland) where the poor children are given opportunities for education and recreation, as a result of the co-operative effort of women. The Federation of Women's clubs is responsible for obtaining free libraries in Oregon; for the child labor law; for better transportation for the insane; for establishing a home for the feeble minded; and is now raising a scholarship loan fund out of which girls are helped to obtain college educations.

The Gresham League was invited to join the Federation of Women's clubs and to attend their annual meeting in Portland. At some time during the summer the Federation expects four of the world's eminent women to address them: Frances Squires Potter, an educator of prominence; Helen Boswell, whom President Taft sent to Panama to establish women's clubs; the Baroness von Suttner, the second woman to receive the Nobel prize for her service in the peace movement; and Mary Wood, the famous woman lawyer of New York. At least one of these, Miss Boswell, will come out to Gresham to share with us the fruits of her experience.

The League plans to have other club and public workers who will have something interesting to say at its open meetings once a month, and it is hoped that the women of Gresham will avail themselves of the opportunities thus given them to keep in touch with what women are doing in the world.
