

COURT DECIDES ROAD QUESTION

The contention of George F. Honey, that he owns to the center of Wallula avenue, following a straight line along the west side of the street from the Section Line road, to the Powell Valley road was upheld by the county court on Friday last in a decision upon the question raised in a petition to retain the road where it had been graded over 35 years ago.

When Mr. Honey bought the Fieldhouse property and began making improvements he employed a surveyor to establish his fence line with the result that he found a curve in the road that took about 30 feet from his own property and that of John Roberts about midway in a distance of three quarters of a mile. The corners, at each end of the road were correct, but a rainbow roadway gave the property on the opposite side too much land, which had been lost to the Honey-Roberts property for all the time of fully 35 years since the road was established.

Mr. Honey improved his property with a concrete and iron fence to the line established by the surveyor, while the telephone company and the electric company have set their poles to correspond for the entire distance. As it now stands the road is only 30 feet wide at the middle, widening to 60 feet at each end.

Property owned by N. L. Smith, principally, and two others, will be affected by the loss of more than an acre of valuable ground, besides the loss and inconvenience of moving fences and costs of grading and improving the road to the newly established west line.

It is reported that the owners of the property along the west side of the road will await action by the county to dispossess them of the ground, as they claim the county is responsible and to blame for the unfortunate situation.

MR. LAVER MARRIES MISS PORTIA OSBORNE

One of the prettiest home weddings of the season occurred at the home of Mrs. L. S. Osborne when her daughter, Portia, was married to G. G. Laver of Carlton, Oregon, Rev. Geo. F. Hopkins, officiating.

The home was decorated in green and white and the archway under which the young couple stood, was a bower of white clematis. During the ceremony music was played by Miss Bessie Osborne, sister of the bride. The bride was dressed in a white linen dress with a sash of heavy lace. The groom was dressed in the conventional black.

After the ceremony a sumptuous four-course dinner was served. Only the near relatives and immediate friends of the bride and groom were present.

While Mr. and Mrs. John Palmblad were returning home Sunday afternoon from a visit at their daughters, Mrs. Swan Magnuson's, on the Lusted road, their light rig was run into by an auto. One hind wheel was broken off and the rig nearly tipped over, shaking up the occupants badly. Fortunately the accident was not more serious.

BORING LOSES GAME TO ANDERSON, 7-6

BORING, July 30.—By a score of 7 to 6 Boring was defeated here Sunday by the Anderson team. Both teams played fine ball and it required ten innings to decide the score. Hendrickson and Rauw both pitched a good game but Anderson hits came at opportune times which netted scores. The game was featured by a home run by J. Collins and the heavy hitting by both teams. Batteries Hendrickson and Sadler, Rauw and Heitsman. Umpires, Hemmer and Donahue.

Rev. A. B. Calder and Mrs. Calder attended the reception given to the new Methodist bishop, Richard Joseph Cooke, at the Taylor Street church in Portland last Friday evening. Mr. Calder reports that he was agreeably surprised at finding three families of his Minnesota parishioners living in Portland and that he enjoyed his visit with them very much.

The Bramhall mill was compelled to close down Saturday owing to the breaking of some of the machinery. Foreman Bennett and Oscar McClung took the parts to Portland for repairs Saturday evening and hope to be able to start running again the first of the week.

Reports from farmers in this locality are to the effect that the prune crop will be a total failure. Rev. A. B. Calder is again able to use his driving horse which was injured about three weeks ago.

Farmers in this vicinity are getting ready for the wheat and oats harvest. All indications point to a bumper crop. Having had a first class crop of hay and with potatoes looking their best the farmers have good reasons for wearing the smile that went off.

J. W. Maulding and family returned last week after an absence of two weeks spent at the seaside. Mark Wilmarth and Truman Richey left last week for the eastern Oregon harvest fields, making the trip on horseback.

Miss Stella Stone visited friends in Portland a few days last week. Merchant S. E. Card made a business trip to Portland. Ivan Thompson has returned home after a two weeks outing at Seaside, Oregon.

Claude Danielson was a Portland visitor Saturday. Frank Roseboom and wife of Portland were here Saturday shak-hands with old friends.

Chas. Palmer and wife went to Portland Saturday to see Mr. Palmer's father, O. A. Palmer, who is reported to be seriously ill. The dance given by the "Jew" orchestra Saturday evening was an enjoyable affair and was well attended. A large crowd from Portland and surrounding towns made merry until about 3 o'clock in the morning. The hall was neatly decorated with sweet peas and evergreen. A chicken supper was served at the Cross restaurant.

Mrs. John Jonsrud who has been very sick for several weeks, is reported as being better.

One of Emmet Donahue's livery teams furnished an exciting run-away Monday morning. Mr. Donahue gave chase in his auto and succeeded in catching them about

R. THORPE WEDS MYRTLE JENKINS

Ransford W. Thorpe, only son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Thorpe and well known all over Eastern Multnomah was united in marriage at the Methodist parsonage on Sunday evening last to Miss Myrtle G. Jenkins of Fairview, Rev. G. F. Hopkins officiating. After the ceremony they went to the home of the bride's mother where a reception was held and a farewell wedding dinner was enjoyed before they left for a bridal tour to the Sound and Victoria. The bride was gowned in crepe du chine and the decorations were Oregon grape entwined with evergreen ferns. The favors were red carnations.

The groom is a locomotive engineer on the Northern Pacific with headquarters at Seattle and the young couple will make their home at one of the division points on the railroad near that city.

Those attending the reception were Mrs. H. Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Thorpe, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Downing, Miss Hester Thorpe, Miss Edith Jenkins, Miss Beulah Jenkins, Miss Laura Dolph, Everett Downing, Clarence Downing and Dolph Jenkins.

Lewis Shattuck is an expert at window display among other things, as will be seen by a glance at his window space. The variety and attractive arrangement show fine skill and taste in display. His ad also suggests much that is seasonal.

FAIRVIEW LOST SUNDAY'S GAME

Just to break the monotony (there is no other explanation!) Fairview forfeited the game last Sunday to the visitors by a score of 7 to 11. The game was to have been with the Studebakers but the Timm's Cress boys came out instead and took the Fairview redoubtable by surprise. There is no other explanation except that the home team yielded to the influence of the hot weather and took a rest.

Next Sunday afternoon the game will be with the Maccabees No. 17. The game will be called at 2 o'clock.

Think It Over.

Here's the place for your nickels and dimes. You'll never appreciate the size of a nickel, never know the might of a dime, till you see what it buys at The Novelty Shop. We're after the dimes because there are more of them to get and we're going to get them by making them Buy More. That's why nickels and dimes do double duty here. It a mile south of town. Fortunately there was no one in the buggy and no damage was done to either horses or buggy.

J. W. Roots and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rehberg motored to Clackamas station Sunday, returning in the evening.

A gentleman from Seattle has been here the past week buying cattle for the Seattle market. W. H. Boring disposed of six head.

CREAMERY AT SANDY STARTS WITH SUCCESS

SANDY, July 29.—The Sandy creamery has been operated successfully for over a week. The first batch of butter was 462 pounds of excellent quality and retailed at 70 cents per brick.

Herman Ritterbusch and Mary Kehres, both of this place were married at Oregon City, Tuesday. They will reside in Sandy.

L. H. Hoffman is confined to his home by sickness. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cornogg are the parents of a son, born in Portland last week.

J. W. Dixon will move the Firwood Lumber Co.'s plant on to Jim DeShazer's place soon.

H. Curtis of Seattle is foreman at the Sandy creamery. He will move his family here soon.

Wm. Polifka of Portland is staying on his place near Sandy.

W. L. Winkins and son Warren are spending a week in the mountains.

Uncle Joe Willig is sojourning in Europe. He will spend some time visiting in the Alsace-Lorain district.

Leigh Barber of Portland spent Sunday with his parents.

Joe Jarl has a new binder.

Potatoes hereabouts promise a big crop.

W. J. Wirtz lectured at Cherryville Sunday afternoon and at Firwood hall in the evening. He will talk at Firwood in two weeks and all are cordially invited to attend.

The Sandy brass band gave an open air concert at P. B. Gray's Sunday evening.

C. F. Barber made a business trip to Portland Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ritterbusch spent Sunday in Boring.

MRS. TODD "CAPTURED"

Mrs. Margaret Todd was given a pleasant surprise last Friday evening, when a number of her lady friends invaded her home and captured her with their kindness. Ice cream and cake were served at the close of the very enjoyable evening. The ladies made it the occasion of presenting Mrs. Todd with a beautiful brass fern bowl in token of their friendship. Those present were Mesdames J. J. Robertson, Fred Todd, Dr. Todd, Allen Cook, Leonard, M. Shoemaker, D. R. Shoemaker, Iva Davidson, E. Davidson, Hood, Atterbury, Lane, R. Gibbs, Peterson, John Brown, Wostell, Holiday and Misses Robertson, Cook, Dickey, Edna Shoemaker and Beth Shoemaker.

Mr. Trambly, of the C. C. Store, certainly has the ability to make attractive displays of the various lines of goods he handles. Every inch, it might almost be said, of his commodious store is utilized to the best advantage. With an overhead office, he finds a good space at the back of the store for a shoe room. It seems as if anywhere you turn, when in this neat well stocked store you see something you want.

'BERT' LINDSEY BUYS NEW STORE

A. E. Lindsey, who recently withdrew from the firm of Shattuck & Lindsey, has purchased the dry goods and ladies' furnishings store of A. W. Regner & Co., and has taken possession.

The family will occupy rooms in the rear of the store, and Mr. Lindsey will devote himself to the special lines started by Mr. and Mrs. Regner.

Arthur Regner, while making this his home here, will go on the road for the Tad System, an advertising plan recently installed in his store at Gresham. He will introduce the system throughout the state.

ROUGH ROAD SAYS SMITH

C. S. Smith, who with his family returned last Saturday from an auto trip to Cresswell, says that he encountered bad roads between Salem and Albany and also south of Albany. In fact, Mr. Smith hasn't much to say in praise of such a trip.

He broke two axles and nearly wore out a set of good new tires, beside the damage to the physical man from the jolting—he thinks he has lost his liver entirely. He was asked if he saw any good crops or fine scenery and replied that he tried the first day to take in the sights along the way but after being nearly jolted from the car several times he decided to keep his eyes straight ahead in the dusty road. "The chuck holes are something fearful," said he, "and so hard to see." The dust settles smoothly over them and you think it safe to hit up the speed, when suddenly your machine drops from under you a foot or two, and as you begin to go down to find the machine it hits you as suddenly as the bat does a ball and knocks you in the opposite direction. After a few hours of that sort of tossing around you feel pretty well battered out and are ready to leave the field."

Mr. Smith is able to walk around again but still complains of sore muscles.

Family Reunion in Wyoming.

The following account of an enjoyable family reunion was sent to the Outlook from Sheridan, Wyoming:

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Brown out at Rapid Creek ranch, Sheridan, Wyoming, was the scene of a large family reunion, ten children, five boys and five girls, all of whom live in Sheridan, with the exception of three. Mrs. H. A. Schnearing, Eugene, Oregon, Mrs. Walter H. Johnson, Gresham, Oregon, and Mrs. Lee W. Henry, Plainview, Nebraska.

There were also four grandchildren and three daughters-in-law, Mrs. George H. Brown, Mrs. T. O. Brown, and Mrs. James R. Brown, jr., and one son-in-law, David W. Jones present. The other three sons-in-law, H. A. Schnearing, Walter H. Johnson and Lee W. Henry, not being able to attend.

It was indeed a very happy occasion.

YOUNG LADY NEARLY ENCOUNTERS A BEAR

GRESHAM, July 29.—To the Editor—The following is an account of our recent trip from Seaside to some of the most interesting points, down the coast: The party consisting of Messrs. R. R. Carlson, E. G. Kardell, Mrs. F. W. Fieldhouse, Charlotte Martens, Emma B. Wilke, and F. W. Fieldhouse, left Seaside Saturday, July 20, at 6:30 with a livery rig, for Arch Cape, passing through Elk Creek and down Cannon Beach. About half way from Elk Creek to Arch Cape we passed by the cottage where Mrs. J. M. Short and children are spending their outing. We found them having a pleasant time.

After passing around Hug point we visited the seat of the old cannon and its beautiful grounds covered with English daisies. This cannon, from which the beach derives its name, was at one time picked up on the coast and placed in its present location.

At Hug point we had to leave the livery team, as one of the horses would not go over the road hewn out of the solid rock, around the cliff. Therefore, we continued our journey on foot about two miles to Arch Cape, where, after lunch at a spring, we took the trail over the mountains to Nehalem.

Equipped with alpen-stocks and a saddle pony we wound our way up the side of the mountain, along the top and down again into a canyon, where beside a beautiful mountain stream, we rested and had lunch. While some of our party were easing their weary feet, waiting for the arrival of the others, Mrs. Martens, who had lagged behind, breathlessly rushed up and exclaimed, "I saw a bear running through the underbrush and heard his startled 'woof.'" Since we had no rifle, we concluded to leave the bear in peace, and started onward towards Necarney mountain.

After a climb of about three miles which brought us out to the front of Necarney mountain that extends out into the sea, we wound our way along the trail which, we were told was about 1200 feet above sea level.

The view of the ocean was one inspiring of grandeur. As one of our party, Mr. Carlson remarked, that if he had known that there was such a beauty spot on the coast of Oregon, he would have visited it, with his wife, years ago. At this point the mountain is barren of trees, but covered with grass, bracken, and flowers. The trail, we had just passed over, was one continuous stretch of beautiful forests of cedar, spruce, and hemlocks.

From here, the ladies of our party continued their journey to Lane's ranch, where we stayed until Monday morning, which is situated near Manzaneta Beach overlooking the ocean. We spent most of the Sunday on the beach which is beautifully located just south of Reed's ranch and Necarney mountains. The Manzaneta Beach company is making great improvements in graded streets and water system.

The men continued their way on to Nehalem, across the bay, in a gasoline launch to Wheeler, where they met H. H. Ott and took the train for Tillamook.

Sunday morning they took a livery rig to Netarts bay, and up the coast by the seal rocks and Cape Meay lighthouse to Bayocan Park and across the bay to Garibaldi. All except R. R. Carlson returned to Nehalem that afternoon, and joined the party at Lane's ranch that night. After dark a huge bonfire was lighted on the beach and we spent a pleasant time chatting and listening to the ocean's roar.

We left Lane's Monday morning, after thanking them for their many courtesies shown us during our stay there, and returned to Seaside.
