

ACETYLENE LIGHT FACTORY HERE

There is at present good prospect that Gresham will soon have a factory, a real manufacturing enterprise, which, though unpretentious in its beginning, gives every promise of growing into a large and profitable concern. Reference is made to the Beaver Acetylene Light Works. During the past week the Cleveland building on Main street, used for a real estate office, has been leased by the company of local men and is to be fitted up and enlarged for a factory and show rooms. A machine will be put in operation so that its good features may be shown at any time.

In connection with this a shop will be fitted up for the making of the generators. The company is composed of several Gresham men, with C. R. Keller, president and manager and John Brown, secretary and treasurer. C. L. Crenshaw is the inventor of this new acetylene light machine, having had years of experience in making acetylene generators. This one is said to be a great simplification of anything on the market. It is all in one machine, and can be quickly and safely recharged while the lights are kept burning. It is claimed a child can do this easily and safely, so handy and simple are the arrangements.

Several machines have been installed in this locality during the past six months and are all highly recommended by the users.

The latest installation was made at Cherryville a few days ago, in Dr. Botkins' new house. This installation is very large and complete with electric spark igniters, so that by the touch of a button or buttons, the entire house is instantly brilliantly lighted with the purest, whitest, cleanest light ever used.

The company expects to have an exhibit at the coming fair.

Naturally Gresham people are proud of this infant enterprise and in view of the greater utility, simplicity and reduced cost of the product, over others of its kind, those who have investigated predict a rapid growth of the business and an ever extending field for the disposal of its output.

HONEY BROS. GET WATER

The Honey Brothers are feeling very much elated over getting Bull Run water at their places on Wallula avenue. Water was first turned on last week, being about two weeks since the vote by which their territory was made a part of the city. A two-inch pipe was laid from Powell street to the property, and is piped into the two residences by 3-4 inch pipe. Mr. Honey says the pressure is very good and entirely sufficient for all purposes. Mr. Honey feels that he can safely go ahead with his improvements and landscape work and expects to develop a beautiful residence park on the slightly hill.

Portland's wheat exports of 6,829,943 bushels, valued at $5,895,993, during the fiscal year ended June 30, were the greatest dispatched from any shipping port in the United States, according to a bulletin of statistics compiled by the Department of Commerce and Labor. New York was a close second with a shipment of 6,748,516 bushels. Baltimore was third in the list for the year with a shipment of 4,803,141 bushels. The combined ports of Puget Sound came fourth with a shipment of only 3,191,983 bushels or less than half that from Portland alone.

YOUNG FOLKS CLIMB HOOD

A number of the mountain climbers are already returning. One party arrived last night after about ten days of roughing it, fishing, hunting, taking long tramps, and last but not least, climbing to the summit of Mt. Hood. They report a splendid time, and say that the conditions for mountain climbing were unusually good. The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Robinson, Miss Gertrude Holmes, Miss Lila Parmely, Miss Nellie Bartholemew, Miss Christine Johnston and Will Johnston. On last Friday, July 26, all the party, except Miss Parmely and Miss Holmes, made the ascent of Mt. Hood. Though the trip was hard, and the descent especially trying to some, all agreed that it was well worth the effort. The view to be had from the summit, at an altitude of nearly 12,000 feet, cannot be surpassed in beauty and grandeur.

CONGDON HOTEL IN NEW HANDS

The past few days has witnessed another important business change in town, W. H. Congdon selling his interest in the hotel by his name to Mrs. Winnie Whalen, recently of Spokane, who takes possession at once.

Mrs. Whalen has been in the hotel business for the past 16 years, and recently sold the Justin hotel at Spokane. She came to Portland and expected to retire from business for a while but through a friend, a Mr. Taylor, came out to Gresham and was so pleased with the place and the hotel proposition that she got busy at once with the result that she is now in possession.

When the Outlook reporter called on her this morning she said she was very much pleased with what she had seen and anticipated a good business. Mrs. Whalen has two sons who are in good positions in banks in Washington, a third who will be a high school student here, and two daughters, one a student and one married.

Mr. Congdon expects to develop some of his properties here and will probably build a fine home here in the near future.

VACATION A GLAD MEMORY

Joe. Pateneau is back and all are glad to see him. He has been away nearly a month and missed celebrating the Fourth. On that great day he was stalled at or near Miles City, Mont., by a flood, which delayed him several days. Mr. Pateneau spent the time mostly at his old home in Wisconsin, but visited other points and motored through Wisconsin and Michigan. He reports the finest crops ever in all the sections he visited. Joe says Oregon looks best to him. He resumes his duties at the Gresham Drug store. Arthur Dowsett expects to take his vacation soon.

The two large columns, ordered from the Elks' carnival management, have arrived and are laid down at the entrance to the grounds. They will be erected, and an arch built connecting them. They are wired and ready for the globes. The cost of the columns was $12.50 to cover freight and drayage.

Dairymen look forward to the Pacific International Dairy Show, which will be held at the Union Stockyards November 18-23. It will be the biggest exhibit of dairy stock, products and machinery ever held in the Northwest and it is believed it will do much to stimulate interest in the dairy industry. At a meeting during the past week to complete plans, it was stated that with proper encouragement, the dairy output of this state should amount to $20,000,000 annually.

BIG CROPS LEAD, BIG BIZ FOLLOWS

Reports of fine crops and greatly improved trade conditions come from all over the country, according to Dun's latest weekly Review (July 27) and there is every indication that business generally is on the up grade. Boston is about the only large city that reports dullness, where it is said "the usual mid summer dullness has fairly set in." The same is true in some measure of most eastern cities. As usual the western and middle western cities are showing recuperation from the dullness first. St. Paul, Minneapolis, Denver, Kansas City, St. Louis and Pacific coast localities with one voice report excellent crops and trade conditions encouraging.

In speaking of the Pacific Northwest, Dun's Review says: "The first influence in importance is, of course, the promise of an unprecedentedly heavy yield of all kinds of cereals, the estimates for the three states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho being of wheat 75,000,000 bushels against 64,000,000 bushels last year, of barley 12,300,000 bushels against 10,750,000 bushels, and oats $3,000,000 bushels against 26,750,000 bushels, for which there is certain to be a good demand at profitable prices. The value of the fruit crop of the three states is placed at $19,979,000 against $13,919,000 last year while the yield of hops in Washington and Oregon is expected to amount to 130,000 bales against 94,000 in 1911. Wool and mohair growers have also done well, the value of their product aggregating $8,362,000 as against $7,814,000 for the previous season.

"The lumber business, conditions in which also have an important bearing upon prosperity in the Northwest, has been marked by a notable renewal in activity, an increase in demand being reported of from 10 to 25 per cent, while at the same time there has been an advance in price from 10 to 15 per cent."

NEW NAME ON CARS

The name Cazadero on the through cars of the Springwater division, P. R. L. & P. Co., has been painted off and the cars will hereafter bear the name Estacada. This seems to have been brought about by our enterprising Clackamas county neighbor, Estacada, candidate for county seat of Cascade county. This will commend itself to everyone on the line as a reasonable change.

Estacada citizens, becoming tired of the annoying tinkle, tinkle, clang, clang, of the cowbells, sheepbells, and horsebells, disturbing their nightly slumbers, have decided to go half way and order stock kept off the streets at night. Evidently stock running at large does not annoy them enough during the day to lead to their making it a 24-hour law. That time will come, then they will wonder how they stood it so long.
