Portland Breaks Record.

Portland is said to have broken all records as a grain market during the last week. All previous records were eclipsed by 290 carloads and there is every indication that further records will be broken in the immediate future. For the week the receipts at Portland were 890 cars, compared with 680 cars a year ago, the previous high record. For the season to date Portland received 4011 cars of wheat, compared with 2903 for the same period in 1911. This is by far the greatest amount of grain ever received here.

Local grain interests are much elated at the huge increase in the marketing of wheat at Portland. The volume of increase has been so great that the capacity of the trade has been taxed to handle the supplies during the week.

The Science of Farming.

If the world's attention determines the importance of a science, the science of farming is receiving deserved recognition. For the world is certainly giving much attention to the farm and the people who work upon it.

This is not to be wondered at, for upon the farm and its products depend all other industries. Without this science all other things must fail, whereas the farmer could, if necessary, make a fairly good shift at doing without all the rest.

Knowing how is just as valuable on the farm as in any other branch of industry. The subject of dry farming is an illustration very much in point. One man experimented until he learned the secret and as a result many people have profited. What he learned does not seem very wonderful, but it was the thing needed to be known, and in the semi-arid west, where crops are being grown by his method, they deem it quite an achievement. It always pays to study one's business.—Pine Valley Herald.

Some of the most valuable courses for those interested in dry farming at the Oregon Agricultural College are those in the agronomy department in which soils, field crops, irrigation and drainage, farm mechanics, and farm management are considered. In each class, besides class room and laboratory work, the students are given actual field practice. Experimental crops are grown under various soil and climatic conditions, and the work at the different experiment stations and demonstration farms in dry farming regions is discussed in detail.

Argument for the Initiative Millage Bill.

Every thoughtful voter will surely vote for the bill favoring a single board of regents for the O. A. C. and State University and placing their support on a millage tax basis.

The initiative bill, providing for six tenths of a mill tax, four sevenths for the use of the Agricultural College, and three-sevenths for the use of the University, and providing also for a single board of regents, was prepared by a joint committee from the governor's special commission appointed to solve Oregon's higher educational problem, and from the boards of regents of the two institutions working in conjunction with the governor and with the presidents of the two institutions and is offered as a substitute for all the present legislative bills for support and government of the two institutions.

This bill does not increase the average rate of taxation for the support of the two institutions as shown during the last ten years. The average during this period is a trifle over six-tenths of a mill.

The state of Washington is at present paying for the same purposes seventeen hundredths of a mill more than the Oregon bill calls for. Namely, forty-five hundredths of a mill for the University and thirty-two hundredths of a mill for the Agricultural College.

The growth of the two institutions will certainly keep pace with the growth of wealth in the state, as has been shown by the experience of all other states using the millage basis of support.

This bill expressly repeals the $500,000 appropriations of the legislative session of two years ago, now submitted to the voters under the referendum (official numbers on the ballot, 372,373,374,375,) for their approval or rejection.

The present standing appropriations to be continued for one year are most urgently needed to give the institutions a start in buildings and to carry them through the period while the mill tax is being collected.

The passage of this bill will take the University and Agricultural College out of politics. The efficiency and dignity of the institutions demand permanency of support and freedom from political entanglements.

Through the unified control of the single board, hearty co-operation of the two institutions will be insured. The advantages of a combined institution will be secured, and the advantages which come from segregation will not be sacrificed.

Since the millage bill involves the question of taxation, it should be taken directly to the people. It is therefore not an abuse but a proper use of the initiative law, and the bill should be voted upon its merits.

Long habit has made men think in terms of dollars. Long habit has made women think in terms of husbands, children, and unborn babes. Men vote the terms they think in. Women will vote the terms they think in. That is what the women did in Colorado. They voted in terms of the home.

Traveler Praises Fair

It is the unexpected that relieves life of its monotony, and keeps alive the spirit of interest and progress. It has been my fate to be somewhat of a globetrotter, my business taking me along the Pacific coast from the Mexican to Canadian line since coming from the East and being somewhat of an observer I have naturally formed conclusions regarding different locations which I have had occasion to visit. For several weeks I have been under assignment to visit Gresham and I deferred the visit as long as possible under the impression that it was a lonesome little burg like some inland hamlet in the Ozarks of Missouri, but imagine my surprise in coming into a live, wide awake up-to-date little city that a king might be proud to call home.

I almost forgot business in my eagerness to see it all, and to find a fair, the exhibits of which equal if not excel many of the best counties of the Eastern states, fairly took me off my feet and even an Oregon rain could not dull its lustre. Being an old Granger I found myself at home with the several grange exhibits and was particularly interested in the Russellville show which I understand has been awarded first prize, but Lents, Multnomah, Evening Star and Pleasant Home were equally strong on exhibition. I think Russellville won largely by its artistic arrangement of exhibits for the show from door to door could not be excelled anywhere.

Every visitor from the East or elsewhere for it not only demonstrates what the valley or county can produce but it shows the superior class of people who till the soil and are developing the country. I noticed also that manufacturing interests are not neglected in some parts at least. No better saddle could be asked for than that from Lents. A wonderful picture painted by a young lady from Lents would win a place in the art circles of the East. The dairy and livestock interest will be a surprise to many, and poultry—why, nothing finer ever had wings than are on exhibit at the fair at Gresham.

Now this is the impression I, a stranger, have of Gresham and I believe I am not an excitable na-
