takes up a large part of the booth and represents the extent of that industry in the state.

On Oregon day, Saturday, hundreds of pounds of seeds of the various products of the state will be distributed among visitors to the exhibit. Large bags of seeds have been brought to the products exposition for this purpose.

The women who visit the exhibit on Oregon day will be given ferns and holly. Crates of mistletoe also have been brought to the exposition for distribution among visitors.

There will be lectures in the lecture hall in the Armory on the industries and the opportunities Oregon offers. These will be illustrated by slides showing the orchards and gardens from which the products on exhibition were taken. The lectures will be open to all visitors to the show and in addition to the information given by the talks, literature, explaining more in detail the railroads and the relative locations of the various fruit and grain producing districts.

In charge of the exhibit are O. E. Freytag, manager of the Oregon City Commercial club; Mrs. Freytag; C. S. Smith, secretary of the Commercial club of Gresham, Ore.; Morris J. Duryea, manager of the publicity department of the Commercial club of Eugene, Ore.; and S. J. Ellison of Southerlin, Ore. The exhibit is arranged to show that in Oregon, in parts of which the temperature never drops below 20 degrees above zero, there may be grown practically every plant native to the temperate zone.

spected at places where milk is produced and shipped in sealed bottles. Cleanliness and the control of temperature are the only means used to insure its keeping qualities.

The best grade of Pasteurized milk is produced from selected herds, which is shipped in ten-gallon cans to the dairy depot, where each load is tested for sediment, flavor and general conditions. It is then put through the Pasteurizing machine, which calls for a temperature of not less than 140 degrees Fahrenheit, and held for not less than 20 minutes, afterwards cooled to 50 degrees Fahrenheit or below and kept at this temperature. Milk that has been tested in this way is perfectly safe, as all danger from such infectious diseases as scarlet fever, typhoid fever and tuberculosis is entirely removed.

The exhibit will continue all of this week and there is no admission fee. Those from this vicinity going by way of Montavilla should get a transfer to the Russell-Shaver cars which will, in turn, transfer to the stockyards cars. Fare for the round trip is 20 cents from the Villa.

Judging of the stock begins today after which the sale of stock will commence on Thursday. Some of those fine animals should come to this section.

With the whole Northwest interested in the land products show it is one of the biggest and best exhibitions of its class ever held in Portland. The opening yesterday was auspicious, with the transportation club as sponsors for the day's events and the East Side clubs in evidence at night. Through the remainder of the week every afternoon and evening will be devoted to some particular feature or organization. The principal exhibits are made by the railroads, each of which have attractive booths. Private exhibits are numerous some of them under the patronage of the transportation companies. Several counties have displays and there are some from Canada. There are three floors in the building, covering 65,000 feet of floor space. Every foot is occupied not used for the aisles. The admission fee is 25 cents and the location near the foot of East Morrison street makes the show central and easy of access.

Flagged Train with Shirt

Tearing his shirt from his back an Ohio man flagged a train and saved it from a wreck, but H. T. Alston, Raleigh, N. C., once prevented a wreck with Electric Bitters. "I was in a terrible plight when I began to use them," he writes, "my stomach, head, back and liver was in bad condition, but four bottles of Electric Bitters made me feel like a new man." A trial will convince you of their matchless merit for any stomach, liver or kidney trouble. Price 50 cents at all Druggists.
