

APPLES ARE LIKE IVORY AND GOLD

Big Show Reveals Unexpected Resources of Soil in This County.

Apples that shine like burnished ivory, scintillating under the electric lights in all the shades from creamy white to deepest garnet, and reflecting every object before them, are to be seen at the land products show, where the horticultural beauties of the Northwest are now the greatest attraction of the big city, is what we saw yesterday.

And we saw more than apples, for every booth had other things to admire and wonder over, from grains and grasses and potatoes, and other kinds of fruits to squashes that serve a big hotel singly for one full meal, and to turnips that go 50 tons to the acre. All these things are there and many others, but the greatest pride of all to the residents of Multnomah is the display from a little nook in our own county not a dozen miles away from Gresham.

It is the exhibit of P. O. DeMoss of Rooster Rock. Almost under the afternoon shadow of that great natural pillar of basalt and shale is 35 acres of tillable land. From it he is displaying nearly 100 varieties of farm produce. During the past few years he has been operating under the direction of the agriculturist of the O.-W. R. & N. Co., with the agreement that the railroad will guarantee him a profit on all his crops if he but follow instructions. It is due to the railroad company to say that the results have always exceeded the standard. Farming is easy with a railroad company behind the work, but the object lesson is the same and the results show that the same thing can be done anywhere in Multnomah county soil.

Judging of exhibits began yesterday and was completed today. The honors went all over the Northwest for particular excellence in different lines.

DON'T KNOW THEY HAVE APPENDICITIS. Many Gresham people who have chronic appendicitis, which is not very painful, have doctored for years for gas on the stomach, sour stomach or constipation. Johnson Drug Co., states if these people will try simple buckthorn bark, glycerine etc., as compounded in Adler-ika, the German appendicitis remedy, they will be surprised at the QUICK benefit. A SINGLE DOSE relieves these troubles INSTANTLY.

WHICH AUTO ROUTE WILL BE CHOSEN

Considerable interest attaches to the proposed automobile roads from Sandy river to Hood river, one of which starts from Troutdale and passes up the Columbia river parallel to the O. W. R. & N. Company's track. The other route crosses the Bull Run reserve from near the headwaters of the Sandy river after passing through Gresham and the other towns in Eastern Clackamas. This last route would cross the mountains west of Mount Hood into the Hood river valley to the town of Dec but it was held up by injunction last summer and work was stopped.

Now the other enterprise has also been stopped by injunction but it is highly probable that the injunction will be dissolved and the work will proceed. The railroad company prevented the road from going ahead in this last instance, but it is thought that the court will allow the construction of the road.

The route over the mountains through Gresham is really the best of the two, and it would seem that its promoters should be encouraged to continue. The route is free from snow to a greater extent than the one up the Columbia. The government has already established a six-foot trail over the entire distance, which in no place has a grade to exceed five per cent, and the route will not cross the Bull Run water shed; therefore there is no danger of it polluting the Portland and Gresham water supply. The people of Multnomah and Hood River counties, interested in this matter, should make an effort to have this road built, as well as the other, thus making two automobile roads to Hood River instead of only one.

TRIBUTE TO OREGON FROM MINNESOTA

New Words of Praise from Minneapolis Journal. Carrol S. Smith Tells of Great Crowds at Land Show. Has Attack of Lame Arm.

Minneapolis, Nov. 17, 1912.

Editor Gresham Outlook:—So far the Land show has been a howling success and I am sure that we will all get great benefit therefrom if you could see the show and see the number of people who are visiting it and who declare that they are interested in the West. You would be surprised. People of Oregon or the American Northwest do not fully realize the importance of this show as a means of advertising, but could they see the way it is carried on and the number of people it attracts they would be glad indeed that they were making the effort.

I do not know how many people there have been who came up and voluntarily express the opinion that Oregon has the greatest exhibit in the whole show, and also comment on the poor showing of last year, expressing surprise that they should, in one year, come forward from the poorest exhibit to the very finest exhibit in the whole show. We have nearly everything that can be grown in a temperate climate on exhibition in the Oregon booth, and instead of it being entirely a work of art, it shows in what great quantities it can be produced, and so many remark "It must be real, as it shows it as gathered from the fields and gardens." What seems to amaze the most, is the fact that we can grow and mature corn, and we have some fine specimens. Potatoes also attract considerable attention, one man remarking to me "How many bushels did you sort over to get all those large ones, I'll bet you went through about 100 bushel."

Our flax grown by Gust Peterson near Pleasant Home is also a thing of wonder, especially the fiber which is admitted to be excellent.

It is also surprising how many think it rains in Oregon all the time. This apparently keeps many many people away.

The coming week is to be a busy one, each of the six remaining states having their day. Oregon's day was last Saturday and we surely put "Oregon" on the map, if the other states do as well it surely will be a great week.

First consignment of booklets received and have been handed out to those interested, and I am expecting more today. Nearly everyone of these go into some home and are read.

I am sending you a clipping from the Minneapolis Sunday Journal, giving a short account of Oregon Day, which may be of interest to all.

Very truly yours, C. S. SMITH.

From the Minneapolis Journal the following extracts concerning Oregon day have been taken:

Oregon day came on the fifth day of the show and on a Saturday, when Minneapolis, a football town, had one of the biggest football games of the season in the playing. Oregon men who had noted with pleasure the heavy morning attendance, looked for a falling off in the afternoon because the game was on. Instead, there came so many people that the exposition hall was filled, men, women and children crowded the Oregon displays, the three great crates of mistletoe that had been rushed east by express for the occasion, were given out, one sprig to every caller, and C. S. Smith, secretary of the Commercial club of Gresham, one of the clubs exhibiting got a lame arm from shaking hands.

By the time J. A. Sawhill, who is here as special representative of Governor Oswald West of Oregon, and Professor Thomas Shaw, who was asked by Governor West to speak, got around to the making of their addresses and the Minneapolis Ladies' quartet had given some songs the late afternoon crowd began to come, and there was a jam about the Oregon headquarters that taxed the diplomatic abilities of O. E. Freytag and M. J. Duryea to handle. Both the Oregon men showed wonderful tact and good nature in getting the people to keep moving that the aisles might not be permanently blocked.

The lineup of Oregon people officially identified with the land show, including those in the state's exhibit proper, and those otherwise connected with the show who are from Oregon, brought together Mr. Freytag, who represents the Commercial club of Oregon City, Mr. Smith from the Gresham club, Mr. Duryea from the Eugene Commercial club, and Mr. Sawhill, who is from Bend, away down in the new part of the state. It also brought in Mrs. Freytag, who accompanied her husband to Minneapolis, and A. L. Gove member of the Commercial club of Creswell, Oregon, and L. W. McDowell, of Portland, from the regular exhibition booth.

Leon J. Chapman, who is with the Western Colonization exhibit, is from Ontario, Ore., and Mr. and Mrs. John B. Stinson of the same exhibit are from Prineville. The Hood River elder men, W. E. and N. F. Donnelly, are from Portland. C. S. Smith had shaken hands, he said, with at least fifty Oregon people before the crowds had fairly begun to come. "I never thought there were so many from the state in Minneapolis," he said.

He was taken into custody by Sheriff Stevens who was called from Portland, was tried and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

COMING ELECTION MOVES FAIRVIEW

Candidates Nominated for the Various Offices. Election Tuesday, Dec. 3.

FAIRVIEW, Nov. 14.—A mass meeting of citizens was called for the purpose of placing before the voters a ticket to be elected on Dec. 3rd, 1912. Mayor Whitney called the meeting to order, when Postmaster Wilcox was chosen permanent chairman, with J. H. Schram as secretary. The chairman read the call and asked for nominations for mayor, which placed in the race for this chair for two years, William Butler and E. A. Whitney. For councilmen of which there are to be five elected, Ira Brooks, D. S. Dunbar, Edwin Burlingame, J. W. Moller, D. W. McKay, Mrs. E. E. Heslin, Cedric Stone, Cal Shepherd, John Burlingame, E. T. Green and Mrs. A. B. Moller, all entered the race determined to win out. J. H. Schram for recorder, Roy Stone for treasurer and R. Hunter for marshal will have no trouble in winning out as they were considered too strong for any one to oppose them. Of the large attendance of ladies present, there were only two who were willing to put their shoulders to the wheel and help manage the affairs of the town. A large delegation turned out Saturday afternoon and registered and declare they will show their colors at election, and they will.

It is reported that Mr. Hall has bought 15 acres of land near Clatskanie, and will dispose of his stock here and move his family there to make that their future home.

Mr. and Mrs. Simonson of Hood River came down Saturday afternoon to spend Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Province.

The east wind was a godsend to those who still had potatoes in the ground, and there are thousands of bushels still undug, but farmers are rushing every moment available.

For the past month the whole topic of the town has been the liquor question and amendment to the city charter regarding the sale of liquor in our town. Now the question is surely settled for some time, at least until next November, according to an opinion handed down on the 16th inst, by the attorney-general of home-rule amendments. This decision was handed down at request of officials of Waldport and Newport, and effects our city the same.

The citizens of Columbia View are very much dissatisfied with the way they have been turned down regarding the road running east from the Barker road to the Burns road during the past wet spell the school children were compelled to wade in water to and from school. This is now a county road and all the people asked for was that the brush be cut and a chance given to get around the worst places. The rural carrier has reported this road several times but of no avail, as a heavy milk wagon now travels this road and it is getting badly cut up and in a horrible shape for the small children, of which the school is principally composed of, to traverse. The matter will be taken before the county commissioners by the citizens of that locality and ask for some relief on this road. They do not ask for a graded and macadamized road at this time but will ask that the brush be cut and piled each side giving a chance to get around the worst places and that the road will not become blockaded with brush during our silver thaws which closed the road to the carrier the past two winters. The cost will not exceed $50 and they will ask for this.

The Rebekah lodge of Rockwood is in a flourishing condition and new members are being added right along. The lodge will give a Whist social on Wednesday evening, Nov. 20, with a nice lunch served.

FAIRVIEW, Nov. 21.—Mrs. H. M. Shaw and daughter, Mrs. Harry Donley and Miss Ruth, returned on Tuesday from a trip to Los Angeles, where they have been for the past month.

Blaine Turner was down from Corvallis, where he is a student, to spend the weekend with his parents, A. L. Turner and wife.

Mrs. Laton of Portland, a former Fairview resident, was visiting Mrs. C. Shepard, the last of the week.

Mrs. J. T. Stillion and family of Gresham were Sunday guests of Mrs. Stillion's mother, Mrs. Amanda Clark.

Mrs. E. G. McGaw is in Good Samaritan hospital where she underwent an operation the last of the week.
