Why Not Have Fresh Water In Your House

The comfort and convenience of a sanitary water system are not luxuries but modern necessities. Their successful operation depends on the delivery of water with a force or pressure. At a comparatively small expense water can be delivered under pressure in any isolated country home.

We are handling the Fairbanks Morse System, have installed several which are giving excellent satisfaction.

Death of Lottie Allebach.
 A telegram from Brookville, Penn., announced the death there on Wednesday last of Miss Lottie Allebach, niece of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Thorpe. She went to Pennsylvania two years ago from Portland and was taken sick a few months after her arrival there. During her illness she was cared for by her brother whom she went to visit, but grew steadily worse until relieved by death. Miss Allebach was born at Vancouver in 1885 but lived a greater portion of her life in Portland. She was a frequent visitor in Gresham and Rockwood and will be kindly remembered by a large number with whom she became acquainted when here. Her remains were buried at Brookville.
