"The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins."

Official paper of the Town of Gresham, Oregon.
 Official paper of the Town of Fairview, Oregon.

Entered as second-class matter March 4, 1911, at the post office at Gresham, Oregon, under the act of March 3, 1879.

Taxes should be less next year, as the household exemption law enacted last month by the people is retroactive and applies to the 1912 assessment.

The Mount Tabor carline is now finished eastward to Eighty-eighth street. Mount Tabor cars will be running through to the terminus by the first of the year. Several costly residences are being built along the line and more will follow. It is only a question of time when the road will be extended further eastward.

W. S. U'Ren has been discharged by Joseph Fels as a paid employee of the single tax commission. He is now in a position to get onto the majority band wagon before he begins his campaign for governor. Nothing short of a complete renunciation of single tax and conversion to the ideas of the people will avail him, however, if he expects to be elected.

WHICH ONE WAS RIGHT?

Nearly 40 years ago two boys in Portland were inseparable companions for a long time. They were poor lads and had to "rustle" for all they had, doing odd jobs and sleeping where night overtook them. Sometimes it was in a cheap bed when fortune favored them, at other times it was on the docks or in stables or on steamboats, but they trained together and shared with each other through thick or thin until finally one was given a place in a livery stable and the other was taken in charge by a wealthy merchant.

Here their lives separated, but it was noticed that the two were dissimilar in all their actions. The one who went to the livery stable was rather shiftless, rough in actions and language and never gentlemanly. He found his level and remained there for nearly forty years, never rising above his position of a hack driver in which position he became well known but never thoroughly respected.

The other boy was careful in his actions, always polite and pleasant and showed a desire to rise above his surroundings. He was being watched, unknown to himself by a rich wholesale merchant, and after more than a year of buffeting with the world, friendly and alone except for his companion, he was offered a very subordinate position in the merchant's wholesale house on Front street. He "made good" and is today one of the most trusted employees of the establishment. He was given an education and appreciated it; he was promoted from time to time and given good wages; today he is a respected citizen of the big city and has influence in trade circles, and all because he kept away from bad influences and was always a gentleman, even when tempted by adversity and dismal surroundings.

The fate of the other boy—one who could not resist the temptations of vice—is recorded in the Sunday Oregonian:
 "Death came yesterday at the Multnomah county poor farm, near Troutdale, to Barney McCough, well known among horsemen as a race track follower. He will be buried by the county."

Poultry School Is Profitable

Portland's chamber of Commerce maintains a chicken school, and in his report the secretary claims that it has been worth $500,000, to the Pacific Northwest during the three years of its existence. This is encouraging and shows that the "back-to-the-land" movement has economic forces propelling it. The ideas of rural existence to be gained even in a chicken school will ultimately set city-bred boys to studying farming, and that in turn will give prominence to ideals and subordinate money-making to love of nature and the longing for a life of independence.

During the past 15 years philanthropic agricultural schools have sprung up all over the country. One near Philadelphia has performed the miracle of turning Jewish boys from the cities into successful farmers. A Catholic agricultural school in New York is doing the same with out-cast Irish boys. The Billings Polytechnic school in Montana is fitting the sons of cowboys to cope with the conditions caused by the change thereabouts from grazing to farming. The Y. M. C. A. everywhere is achieving most helpful results in this field.

These facts and conditions are given herewith to show the needs for a practical and thoroughly equipped agricultural high school, and there is no better place in Multnomah county for one to be established than in Gresham. Boys and girls, in such a school, would be taught the elements of agriculture and it is reasonable to suppose that at least 20 per cent of them would take up their occupations as farmers, thus changing conditions somewhat.

The handling of cows, horses, pigs and poultry equips the juvenile farmers with the practical education that keeps the children on the farms and produces positive results in fitting them for a life-work.

Reverting back again to the subject of an agricultural school for Gresham: There is every reason why one of them, at least, should be located here. The authority has been given and it only remains for the people to do their part. An earnest, concerted movement at the proper time will bring it.

Grange Elects Officers.

Rockwood grange is the first one to report election of officers for the coming year, as follows: Master, John Richmond; overseer, F. H. Crane; lecturer, Mrs. Mary Richmond; steward, Martin Multhauf; chaplain, Mrs. V. A. Lovelace; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Richmond; secretary, Miss Hester B. Thorpe; gate keeper, Thomas Rowan; Ceres, Mrs. Cora Robertson; Pomona, Mrs. Mary Clute; Flora, Miss Lillian Richmond; executive committee, F. H. Crane; Martin Multhauf, Sr., and E. L. Thorpe; assistant steward, Joseph Multhauf; lady assistant, Mrs. Mary Crane.

By the results of this election both F. H. Crane, the retiring master and Mrs. V. A. Lovelace, secretary, close a period of nine years in their respective offices. There has been but one other master and one other secretary since the grange was organized just ten years ago.

Both Mr. Crane and Mrs. Lovelace gave up their offices voluntarily, as they could have been elected again, each refusing a renomination. The new master and secretary are both experienced members of the grange and will undoubtedly give satisfaction.

This is Farmers Week

Farmers' week at the O. A. C. is on, two days having passed with interesting exercises before large classes from all over the state. The program will be continued the remainder of the week, as follows:

Tomorrow there will be a visit to the domestic science and art classes, "House Furnishing" by Mrs. Brooks; "Infectious Children's Diseases" by Prof. Beckwith; "Some Problems in Home Nursing" by Mrs. Alice Marks Dolman; "Feeding for Eggs" by Prof. Dryden.

Thursday's program opens with Dean Bexell's talk on "Household Accounts"; followed by Prof. Beckwith on "Typhoid Fever"; a talk by Mrs. Ida Kidder, college librarian and Dean Crayne on "The Bath, Prof. Beckwith on "Patent Medicine Fakes," demonstrations of invalid cookery by Mrs. Dolman, and a talk on "The Title to your Farm," by Attorney E. E. Wilson.

Friday Dean Calvin will demonstrate the proper methods of bread making; Dr. Crayne will speak on "The Physical condition of the School Child;" Prof Beckwith on "How to Re

"Tuberculosis;" Miss Esther Seleen on "How to Recognize Poor Fabrics," and Mrs. Kidder will speak again, probably on Children's Books. The last day will be given to "Principles of Food Preservation" by Miss Lewis; "Farm Butter Making" by O. G. Simpson, and "House Aprons and Kitchen Aprons" by Miss Anna Robinson.

Representative Lafferty has introduced a bill to further amend the three year homestead law by reducing the period of residence required each year from seven months to six months. He will urge the passage of this bill upon the ground that many people who work on salary would be able to prove up on homesteads if allowed to be absent working at their trades or professions six months out of each year. The Canadian law only requires six months presence on the land each year.

Drives Off a Terror.

The chief executioner of death in the winter and spring months is pneumonia. Its advance agents are colds and grip. In any attack by one of these maladies no time should be lost in taking the best medicine obtainable to drive it off. Countless thousands have found this to be Dr. King's New Discovery. "My husband believes it has kept him from having pneumonia three or four times," writes Mrs. George W. Place, Rawsonville, Vt., "and for coughs, colds and croup we have never found its equal." Guaranteed for all bronchial affections. Price 50 cts. and $1.00 trial bottle free at all Druggists.

Pleasant Home

Mrs. Stephens and Dr. O. S. Murray spent several days with the Fitzgalds near Boring. Jim is an expert in dehorning cattle, so the neighbors say.

More lots were sold at Pleasant Home during the past week. Other houses are planned for building soon.

The stores are doing a good holiday trade and the future looks encouraging from a business view.

A patron-teachers' association was formed on the 6th to meet once a month for educational advancement. The meeting will be in the evening and a lecture will be given on a live topic. Prof. Quicksall, H. G. Mullenhoff were appointed a committee to draft by laws. Chas. Johanson is chairman and Mrs. W. Hilliard, secretary of the organization.

The Ladies' Aid bazaar was in every way a success. There was a good attendance during the afternoon and a splendid crowd in the evening. Nearly all articles were sold and the chicken supper, served cafeteria style, was a success, $87.00 being raised which will be used toward the installation of a new lighting system for the church.

A thimble party given by Elsie Stephens Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock to dress dolls and make quilt blocks is of great interest to the little folks and deserves a good word. Alva and Leonard Lauderback have contracted to cut wood and load on cars for Portland during the winter. They cut all the wood from the old home place. They will go to housekeeping during the holidays in Pleasant Home.

Notice.

Having sold our stock of lumber to M. D. Kern we wish to thank our patrons for their favors in the past and solicit for Mr. Kern the same liberal patronage.
