D. McMillan drove through our place the other day. He says he is tired of the city and longs for a little corner in our burg. His son Andrew talks of moving back to his farm and building a new bungalow.

The Cedarville lumber yard has met with some improvements. It is fenced and a roadway into the yard has been graded and graveled for the auto truck, the truck brings in the ties at quite a lively rate, and for awhile it looked like a case of over production.

Mr. Cogswell's dog is something of an epicure, fifty cent eggs being none too good for dessert.

School children at Orient school are again on a vacation this week.

The Mt. Hood railroad has a crew of men putting new cattle fences in at their crossings, a much needed improvement, as several cows have been run down.

The Baptist Ladies Aid met on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Cline and spent a pleasant and profitable afternoon.

Mrs. Kellogg is enjoying a visit from her father.

John Nelson is getting his land opposite Orient store into good shape and this week is busy getting ditches dug for tiling.

On Tuesday night what might have been a serious accident on Mt. Hood railroad was only averted by the promptness of the engineer of the train which leaves Montavilla at 5:55. At Rook's crossing a delivery rig belonging to Nelson & Johansen, the horse having started from Gillis, when Walter Johansen was in a house with goods, just cleared in front of the train which was running at a good speed, and the engineer noticing the runaway having at once applied his brakes and brought the train to a stop.

The Sunday school children of the Methodist church are busy practicing for their Xmas tree entertainments under the able instruction of Mrs. Lannartz and Miss Bramhall.

It contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given to a child with implicit confidence. Sold by Gresham Drug Co., and Dealers everywhere.
