IS THERE A MEDICAL TRUST?

There is some trepidation among the men and women of some of the medical associations lest there will be set up a medical trust under the new administration. Woodrow Wilson recently attended a gathering in Hoboken, N. J., from which reporters were excluded, at which he was reported to have said, "one of the things that has political embarrassment is the health department project." By that statement, as he afterward explained, he meant that the government would not be committed to any serious proposal to put any particular school of medicine in charge of the national health. To this statement the Christian Science Monitor makes reply by saying:

"If the president-elect has not seen any serious proposal to put any particular school of medicine in charge of the national health, it is because no such proposal is necessary. A particular school of medicine is now, and has been for years, in charge of the national health, so far as it is and has been within the power of the government to confer such authority. The allopathic school dominates the federal medical service. It exercises, and has exercised for years, a close monopoly in this respect. No other school of medicine has recognition or opportunity worth mentioning in any of the departments of the national government, civil or military. It is all but stamped as the state school of medicine; it is all but empowered to drive out all other schools of medicine; what is necessary to impose allopathy upon the nation to the exclusion of every other method of healing—so far as law can regulate the popular conscience and direct and control the popular will—is not to put any particular school of medicine in charge of the national health, but simply to create a department of health of which the allopathic school, already dominant in every respect, may take possession."

In our opinion it is a matter of numbers, not of choice. The allopathic school has the greatest number enrolled and it is the most widely known of them all. Therefore it is politically embarrassing to have to meet the insistent demands of the others for recognition. In the strengthening of the various governmental agencies relating to pure foods, quarantines, vital statistics and human health, the assistance of all the medical cults may be considered and probably will be, including Christian Science.

Professor Hallock's discovery that Oregon held the garden of Eden, reveals the fact that it was also ruled by a woman. Oregon is therefore entitled to the distinction of being the first woman suffrage state in the world. History repeats itself, and the women have again come into their own.

A convict at Folsom prison claims to have solved the problem of perpetual motion and promises to have a model of his machine at work within two months. Had he lived in Oregon and been sent to the pen he would have been paroled and the world would have lost another genius. But perhaps he is working for a parole which should be given him only if he makes good on his assertion.

The statement that the first week of parcel post business saw 4,000,000 parcels distributed in the United States does not reflect the workings of the system. There was probably an increase of several hundred thousand parcels, many of them of greater weight than before, but there would have been a big business in fourth class matter just the same had there been no parcel post. There is no such a thing as fourth class matter now, hence the parcel post has not grown to such an extent as some may imagine.

Did you ever know or hear of a small town with an improvement club of some kind that didn't talk fruit cannery at its first meeting? The subject is always forgotten in a short time, but it is the one that holds the boards at first and furnishes the motive power for several lengthy evenings of talk-fest and reams of correspondence. As a means of filling up the columns of the local papers it beats the north pole and a presidential election. The available news space of the Outlook is now awaiting to be filled up from Boring and Fairview and all the other places that are going to build a cannery this season.

Governor West seems to have been aggressor in a flistic encounter which occurred in the corridor of the state capitol last Friday. The other party was Frank L. Perkins, a Telegram reporter at Salem. Accidentally meeting in the corridor, it is said the governor attacked Mr. Perkins and threw him to the floor. Bystanders ended the affair which might have resulted more seriously. It seems West had a grievance against Perkins for some criticisms he had passed upon the governor's policy in pardoning two men who were being punished for breaking the game law, they having been arrested by Perkins, who was a chief deputy game warden in Linn county. It was, to say the least, an unfortunate and unnecessary affair, belittling to the governor of Oregon.

W. R. C. and G. A. R. Installation.

The W. R. C. and G. A. R. met last Saturday in their regular February meeting. The installation of officers, which had been postponed from the January meeting because of the snow storm, was held Saturday. Mrs. Harding of Oregon City being the installing officer for the W. R. C. Mrs. Aldrich and Mrs. Fox both of Oregon City were guests. The newly installed officers of the corps are as follows: president, Mrs. Emery; S. V., Mrs. Crow; J. V., Mrs. Bates; secretary, Mrs. Jack; treasurer, Mrs. Shultz; conductor, Mrs. Lusted; chaplain, Mrs. Sherwood; guard, Mrs. Bond. A sumptuous dinner was enjoyed by the members of the Post and Corps.

Injured by a Fall.

"Father" John Flynn, in his 97th year, dean of Methodism in the West, fell down the basement steps to his home in Portland last week, and is suffering injuries from which it is feared he may not recover. A committee, consisting of President C. C. Rarick, B. G. Hoadley and R. H. Hughes, editor of the Pacific Christian Advocate, was appointed to carry the sympathy and affection of the brotherhood to him. "Father" Flynn, as he is affectionately called by his friends, arranged for the first religious service held in Portland, and for more than 60 years has been a familiar figure in Methodist circles of the Northwest. Possessing remarkable vitality, he had, up to the time of his accident, attended church and other public meetings, and was a devoted attendant at the preachers' meetings, where his voice was often heard in prayer or in discussion of some vital topic of the day. He lives with his wife and daughter in their home, 710 Holladay street. He will be 97 on March 26.

When Father Flynn was in Gresham a few years ago he climbed to the top of Gresham Butte, and otherwise showed remarkable vitality for one of his great age. His many friends here hope for his speedy recovery.

W. Pool, a well known Grand Army man, died at his home in Portland yesterday, aged 67 years and 10 months. He was a member of Sumner post. The funeral will be held from Dunning's chapel on East Alder street, tomorrow afternoon; interment in Lone Fir.

GRESHAM LOCALS

S. Landsborough of Park River, N. D., is visiting with his old neighbors W. F. and Geo. Honey and families. Mr. Landsborough has spent several weeks in Portland and vicinity, and is pleased with climatic conditions here.

An unusual degree of interest seems to be manifested in the revival services that are now in progress in the Free Methodist church. The services have been well attended the past week, with such favorable weather, together with the sound gospel sermons that Bishop Pearce is giving out, and are increasingly interesting, as well as beneficial, the crowds will undoubtedly increase.

A subscription paper is to be found at the Gresham Drug store for the benefit of B. F. Bauer, whose leg was broken by the hose cart at the time of the Hartley house fire. About $40 has been subscribed up to the present time.

Mr. Dunbar, of Portland, who has been here about three weeks trying to work up a woodwork business in connection with McDougal & Olson's blacksmith shop, has given up his shop and returned to Portland where he has employment in view.

Those who have not heard Bishop Pearce of the Free Methodist church, have missed a rare opportunity. He is a man of keen intellect and deep spirituality. His sermons are clear and forceful and delivered in a very pleasing manner. He is preaching every night at the Free Methodist church.

John Wright, wife and baby, who have been for several months with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wright, expect to go this week to their home in Indiana.

Lewis Shattuck is preparing to make a quick disposal of his remaining stock by means of an auction sale which will begin on next Thursday afternoon. See page announcement in this issue.

Ross Marston has his new 5-room bungalow in Whitehead's addition well under way.

Mrs. Louise Howard, mother of L. D. Howard, who has been spending the winter here, will go Thursday for a visit in Seattle.

A. S. Anderson has recovered from an injury received by a kick from one of his horses.

When to Spray Trees.

"An almost universal practice in this state—and a good one—is to spray the orchard, whatever the kind of fruit, with lime-sulfur fat some time when the trees are dormant," says Circular Bulletin No. 13, Crop Pest Series No. 3 on "Orchard Spraying" by Profs. A. B. Cordley and H. S. Jackson of the Oregon Agricultural College.

"While this application is made primarily for San Jose scale, we believe there is no other which has such a generally beneficial result. It is the annual 'house-cleaning' of the orchards.

"The best time for this winter spraying is immediately after the leaves drop in the fall—even before they are all off—or before the buds open in the spring. Personally, we would prefer the latter were the orchards seriously infested with San Jose scale; the former were it badly infested with anthracnose.

"It should be noted, however, that since the introduction of the use of lime-sulfur as a spring and early fall spray for apple scab and apple tree anthracnose, there is much less need of winter applications. In fact whenever the spring and all applications of lime-sulfur are made, all winter spraying may be omitted, except in the case of orchards which have been badly neglected."
