

GRESHAM CROWD AT MANZANITA

Interesting Report from the Beach Resort by Emil G. Kardell.

Emil G. Kardell spent Sunday and Monday of last week at Manzanita Beach, and while there found every body busy getting ready to care for the many people who are expected to spend their vacation at this most beautiful spot on the Pacific ocean. There are now several buildings under construction and several contracts has been let for more to be erected as soon as the carpenters now at work can get to them. J. C. Peterson, E. C. Lindsey and John Parker are building a 17-room hotel for Miss Babcock, the present landlady of the Lane hotel. It will be opened for business on the 15th of June.

Arthur and Fred Fieldhouse are completing the store building owned by Mr. Kardell, which will be opened up as a grocery about the first of June. A telephone exchange and postoffice will also be established within a short time. Good water can be found anywhere on the tract at from 5 to 12 feet. Mr. Kardell found the Gresham colony nicely located in their snug tents of from one to three rooms. Mrs. Fieldhouse, Cecil Metzger and Mrs. Martin in two large tents in a nice grove of Silver Spruce and Manzanita, the later all in bloom. In front of their tent they have a nice little garden put in to vegetables and dahlias. J. C. Peterson, E. C. Lindsey and John Parker, were found as nicely located in another beautiful grove, all within sight and hearing of the mighty ocean.

In every tent was found relics from the ill fated ship Mimi, which was wrecked about two miles south of Manzanita, and which has been pounded to pieces in the surf. Mr. Kardell found a relic in the shape of carpenter plumb and level, which had floated ashore, and upon examination was found to be in perfect condition.

The beach for nearly two miles is completely covered with wreckage. Those who were eye witnesses, say that the sight was awful—to see those poor men aboard the ship frantically waving their hands for help before she finally disappeared. The most gruesome relic found was at John Parker's tent—a rough box in which the remains of Wilhelm Biedermann, a German sailor, were laid in when found by Parker, on the rocks near Neakanie and held by him until the arrival of the corner.

None of the inhabitants at Manzanita has time to get lonesome, for besides their regular vocations each one has some specific duty to perform.

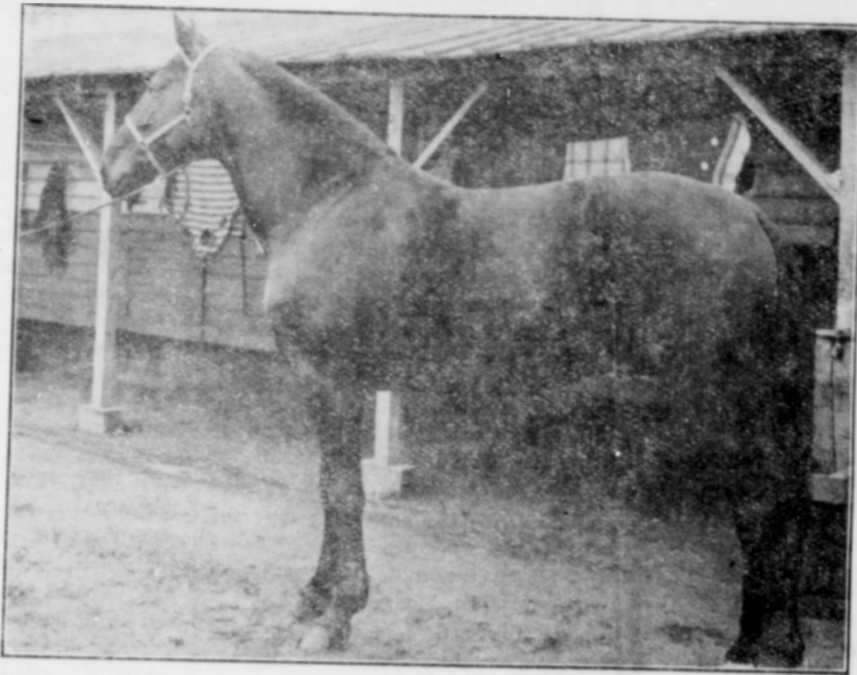

Fred Fieldhouse in the capacity of harbor master, is kept busy in the early morn, patrolling the beach, while Arthur as the leading man in a dramatic play to be put on soon, rehearses his part while carrying water from the new hotel pump and Cecil Metzger as the game and fish warden is always on the run for some poor sucker at Edward's Lake. City Engineer L. S. Miller has a job on his hands trying to move the Nekania mountain so as to get the flat side of the mountain towards the ocean, making another quarter of a mile of ocean front. Mr. Lane, city chemist, is always on the lookout for specimens of Nehalem wax and ambergris. Any one finding any peculiar substance either on the beach or on the mountain should consult Lane, before disposing of same, (it may be one of the two or both.) J. C. Peterson, official pilot on the Nehalem bay, is laying out a new route to the beach. He has made several descents into the deep. Last time he went down he took a barge with him, (the barge has not returned.) Our friend E. C. Lindsey takes life easy as superintendent of public construction, on account of the heavy fog he has not been able to be around much. The salt water seems to be doing him a great deal of good.

John Prker, undertaker, reported business very dead.

The new dramatic club composed of Arthur and Fred Fieldhouse, Mesdames Martin, Babcock, Lane and Miller, will give a rehearsal in the new Glenburry on June 1st.

Mr. Lane's banty rooster shook hands with friends one day last week. Kardell was one of them.

LIVESTOCK A PROMINENT FEATURE OF COMING FAIR

PUBLICATION NOW READY

Book Printed in Sixteen Days, along with Other Work, Finished.

The seventh annual premium list of the Multnomah County Fair association is out. The first completed book was bound and stapled today and they are now being turned out by the hundreds as fast as busy hands can fold the printed sheets.

The printing of the book is a triumph of speed and skill for a country office. Everything was in readiness to begin the actual publication of the book on the morning of April 20th. It has been printed in just sixteen days of hard work during which time the Outlook has been published regularly twice a week; another weekly newspaper has been printed on time for an outside town and the Multnomah Booster was given its regular monthly send off from the Outlook press.

In addition to these newspaper publications a 30-page pamphlet has been set up for the city of Troutdale and all the various job printing orders that have come in have been turned off to the satisfaction of those who ordered them, averaging more than two a day for all that time.

The secret of the ability of the Outlook force to do so much work in such record time lies in the capacity of the linotype. All of the premium list matter that necessity required should be set in small type was set by the machine. All the newspapers and the pamphlet were set in the same way. Only the advertisements and headlines were set by hand. The presswork was a mere incident requiring close attention but the presses were not in operation all the time. They were capable of much more had there been anything to keep them busy.

The book is an attractive one of nearly 100 pages. It has been entirely rearranged in its make-up but is the same size and shape of last year's premium list. The cover is yellow, printed in red and black, with a half-tinted of Mount Hood on the title page. The index shows that 88 advertisers have made announcements of their business or professions, one feature being full page advertisements of the Commercial clubs of Gresham, Fairview and Troutdale. Pleasant Home is represented in a full page announcement by Umbdenstock & Larson, while the P. R. L. & P. announces the O. W. P. lines and gives the special rates for fair week.

Altogether the book is a good one and is issued early in order that advertisers may receive full benefits from their announcements.

Secretary Kardell has ordered several thousand envelopes which will be sent out, each containing one of the books, and there is sure to be a hearty response from subscribers for the coming fair.

GRESHAM POTATOES SOLD IN CINCINNATI

A Cincinnati dispatch yesterday stated that Oregon potatoes, presumably from this vicinity, were advertised for sale by a large grocery store out of that city. The potatoes were found to be a portion of those sent to flood sufferers and the grocery firm had advertised they would sell 10,000 sacks of western potatoes at about half the regular price or 36 cents a bushel. The buyer for the firm said they had been offered him at a low price by a member of the flood relief committee who had told him the committee received huge shipments of potatoes from the west, and that because the tubers were a perishable commodity the committee had decided to sell them. He said the price at which he bought them enabled his firm to sell them at a small profit at 36 cents, though the prevailing price of potatoes in Cincinnati retail market is now 60 cents a bushel.

OREGON STATE GRANGE COMMITTEES NAMED

State Master C. E. Spence, of the Oregon State Grange, has completed the committee assignments for the coming session which will convene at Albany next Tuesday. The delegates from Multnomah county have been given the following places: Finance, R. P. Rasmussen; forestry, G. N. Sager; by-laws, J. W. Black; Good Roads, T. J. Kreuder; Dormant Granges, Mrs. G. N. Sager; Appeals, Mrs. R. P. Rasmussen; Resolutions, Mrs. T. J. Kreuder. Mr. Sager and Mr. Kreuder are chairman of their respective committees. The session will last four full days. All persons going will be able to get a one and one-third rate over all transportation lines except the local electric roads.

The special committee on by-laws has prepared a report embracing some amendments, the principal one of which proposes to elect all state grange officers by the preferential primary system. From present indications there will be no change in the method now in operation.

NO REBATE TO OWNERS

Preferential Rates Abolished and all Patrons Must Pay Alike.

Preferential rates for stockholders in the Multnomah & Clackamas Mutual Telephone company have been discontinued. In other words the owners of the telephone company must hereafter pay the same yearly rental for phones as the subscriber.

Discrimination has been shown the stockholders in the matter of rentals on which the difference has been considered a dividend. Renters have been paying the sum of $15 a year in monthly payments. The stockholders were paying $10 a year in two installments. This adjustment of rates was made by the owners of the lines and has been a satisfactory arrangement but the law of Oregon has called a halt and says that everyone must pay alike.

Those who put their money into the concern are entitled to first consideration and the profits, if there are any, so it will only be a matter of taking the money out of one pocket and putting it into another. The same yearly rates will have to be paid by everyone who has a phone, but the company is allowed to declare a dividend and pay back the excess money.

Just how long the stockholders will have to wait for their dividends is an unsolved problem, and it seems to be a bit of foolishness to have to pay that in and then have it back. But that is in the law the sovereign people of the state voted for last November when it was decided to place the regulation of such matters in the hands of the railroad commission under the guise of the Public Utility act.

Every stockholder in the company is getting or will get the following letter from the secretary of the Telephone company accompanied with a notice that the rent from May 1st to Nov. 1st will be $7.50.

Dear Sir:—The following is an extract from a letter received from the Railroad Commission of Oregon, and explains the advance in rates:

"By the Public Utility Act approved by the people November, 1912, the Railroad Commission of Oregon is charged with the duty of regulating all the public utilities of this state. It is evident, from the tariffs received by the commission, that a large number of the telephone companies are violating the provisions of this act, e. g.:

1. By granting a different rate to stockholders than to non-stockholders.

The first discrimination mentioned is not justifiable, as any return for money invested should come through dividends, rather than through preferential rates."

HIGH SCHOOL STUNTS SCHEDULED FOR 17th

Gresham high and Estacada high are going to have a high old time on Saturday, May 17.

The athletic divisions are working hard, doing daily practice for the several stunts that they expect to pull off at that time down on the Gresham race track. There will be all the usual athletic feats, including foot races from 80 yards to half a mile. Pole vaulting, hurdle jumping will be indulged in; and there will be ball throwing and several other exhibitions too numerous to think of until the official announcements are made. Its going to be a great day for the high schools of the two towns.

YELLOW PERIL SEEN BY WELLS

How the Little Brown People are Capturing Multnomah County.

Portland, Ore., May 2, 1913.

To the Editor:—From personal investigations in Multnomah county I am of the opinion that the yellow peril in Multnomah county is not much longer to be ignored. Take for instance the single settlement at and about Russellville, on the Base Line road. A few years ago here was conducted a prosperous school with a large attendance of more than 100 children. This has largely passed away. The school has dwindled to nearly nothing. All because of the invasion of Japanese aliens. They leased the most of the best garden lands of the Russellville neighborhood. Owners of the tracts there found that they could get a larger income by renting their holdings to the Japanese than by working their own land.

The frugality, thrift and industry of the little Japanese could extract more from the soil than the owners, and hence we have the remarkable and somewhat startling spectacle of a neighborhood partly depopulated of whites and the yellow men taking their place.

There is no discounting the ability of the Japanese to do things in this line. Suave, polite and urbane when not in power this subtle race have been working their way into our social and economic affairs more deeply than may be supposed. The gun is not necessary for the Japanese to get in here. Silently he has leased lands throughout Multnomah county to a startling extent and yet so quietly as not to attract attention up to the present time; but he is here. A trip along the Base Line, the Section, the Powell Valley and the cross roads of this county will tell the story better than types and words. I recently made this trip. I saw the Japanese and their families on every road covered in my trip. Their black-eyed children may be seen along the roads and in the yards of the farm homes. At one farm east of Gresham I saw a family of six children, ranging from one year up gathered on the front porch. This is one instance. There are hundreds of others.

I don't say that they are a menace for they are not, but it is startling indeed, to see these silent little people absorbing one of the most important industries adjacent to Portland—taking the place of our citizens—crowding them out because of superior capacity to do things, and ability to get more out of the soil than we can.

Where will it end? Will they monopolize the garden industry about Portland, the great market for these land products?

Can there be a remedy for these conditions in this county alone? The Russellville grange demonstrated with the owners of land in that district against leasing their holdings to the Japanese, but these owners went right on and rented their land to the little men, and have been living off the income with the toil incident to the intensified cultivation.

It is my judgment, from the slight investigation made recently, that conditions in this county should be looked into at once. There is nothing sensational nor alarming in present conditions, but I am of the opinion that a complete statement of the extent of Japanese leases in Multnomah county alone would be a revelation, alone. It might be well to go further and institute an inquiry all over the state of Oregon.
