

POSTOFFICE PROBABLE AT PLEASANT HOME

Postmaster General Burleson has directed an investigation of the candidates for the position of postmaster at the proposed new postoffice at Pleasant Home.

Postoffice Inspector H. G. Durand will take the names of all applicants for the position who will be under the civil service rules and will make a recommendation for the appointment of the one he deems most capable.

While the efforts being made at Pleasant Home for the establishment of a postoffice there have not yet been successful to the extent of having the prayer of the petitioners granted, yet it is evident that the department is favorable to the plan. There is scarcely any doubt but that an office will be established and a rural route in connection therewith, which will have some effect on route number two from Gresham. Maps have been made and the petitions for both office and route have been sent to Washington.

Only remains for the postoffice department to take such action as it sees fit, and the order to investigate the abilities of the candidates seems to be in favor of an early disposition of the matter, and that favorably.

By an order from the president, made public on Wednesday, all postmasters of the fourth class drawing a salary of over $180 a year, must pass an examination the same as others in the service. Those who will draw under that sum must be certified to by an inspector before being appointed. As it is not likely that the receipts of Pleasant Home will be over that amount for awhile the order to the inspector will be carried out. Mr. Durand will give notice to the applicants when the date for his investigations has been set.

Pleasant Home

Mother's Day will be observed at the Methodist church next Sunday evening, the service beginning at 8 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Wilson will preach a sermon appropriate to the occasion. Mrs. Margaret Lawe of Gresham will sing. A white carnation, the badge of the day, will be presented to each one entering the church by the Women's club.

The opening baseball game of the season was played last Sunday by the Pleasant Home boys, with the Crescents of Portland on the home grounds. It was a close game and resulted in a score of 10 to 6 in favor of the visitors. Wagner and Emery each made two base hits. Pleasant Home made five hits and the Crescents four. The game was lost by errors in judgment and wild throws. A 10-piece brass band furnished music. After the game dinner was served to the Crescents at Mr. DeHaven's. A return game will be played on June 8th. Next Sunday the boys will play another crack Portland team here. Everybody boost for the boys.

Last Monday night a surprise party was given to G. O. Wynne by about 25 local people. Games were played till a late hour, when refreshments will be served.

J. Fred Larson of Umbdenstock & Larson, Mr. Stanton of Meier & Frank's and C. M. Prentiss were in town Wednesday.

PROSPERITY AND FUN AT JENNE STATION

Now that the weather has about settled again (so we think), farmers here are beginning to feel a little more at ease as to the planting and growth of crops, and really, one can almost see an occasional smile floating around Jenne station. If the saying, "April showers brings May flowers" be true, we ought to have quite a supply of the latter this month.

Misha Peltz, and a few of her friends were seen around here last Sunday.

A fine piece of engineering work was done on the part of the road called the Springhill boulevard last week by Ed. Simonson of Gresham. Mr. Simonson is there with the goods when it comes to building roads and is an all around expert in that kind of work.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cline, of Portland, were out looking over some property which he intends buying in the near future if things looks suitable to them.

The newly erected home of T. S. McDaniel, a Portland capitalist, is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy in several more days. Contractor W. Horn, of Portland, is now doing the fancy act at the completion of the house. We can justly say that after the house is finished that it will be the best home around here. In the way of comfort and conveniences. Mr. McDaniel expects to move out from Portland about the first of June.

J. M. Mann helped himself to some muscle exercise on the Springhill last Sunday and really says he enjoyed the exercise.

W. Brown and son Ole, are quite busy these days in plowing, planting and doing general spring work.

Hans Hine, the "head-works" of the Mountain View Nursery company is still occupying his time quite a lot in setting out rose bushes and shrubs. Hans has things looking like the garden of Eden at that place now and we're about inclined to believe that he is some nursery man all right.

R. W. Forbes, the guy that does things, is contemplating building a new store with cement basement some time later in the season (maybe). It will be remembered that "Dick" recently joined the Jenne station club and has already made himself quite useful in many ways in this club.

Geo. Middleton made a business trip to Portland the latter part of the week. Mr. Middleton is one of the progressive farmers at this vicinity and is in front of the line regarding improvements.

A joyful evening was spent on the Springhill farm last Wednesday by a number of Portland people. Everybody got so interested in games, story telling (fish stories included) and general fun, that it got to the hour of midnight before thoughts for refreshments and of going back to Portland occurred to any of them. Among those present were: Mrs. E. Woodburn, Mr. and Mrs. Kehl, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Mann, Miss Woodburn, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lang.

Frank Morasco, the poultry man, is doing some rushing business these days. The increase of his flock caused him to build another house for the accommodation of his birds.

This excellent weather makes it a busy week for Plato Jenne in the way of plowing, sowing grain and planting a few early potatoes.

Mrs. Josephine Regal, proprietress of the Way Side Inn, is doing some excellent business and has served many hundred people during the past two months. It is hard for any of those Portland folks to go by the Way Side Inn without stopping to satisfy their palate.

Levi Obenheimer of Cedarville, inspected the Springhill for a few hours last Sunday.

Maurice Mann and Lester Woods are trying out their new motorcycles and according to the amount of dust raised, it must be working in good order.

CURTIS FARM SOLD AT POINT OF INLET

While nothing has been said about the dredging of the Columbia slough or the opening of a channel from the river so as to give a current to the sluggish waters, for the past few weeks there is evidence that the work is going to be done.

It has not been generally known just where the intake will be that will turn a current from the river into the slough, but it is reported that it is at a point directly opposite the north end of the Rockwood road. That is the logical place for it, as a natural inlet already exists and a small amount of work would bring about the desired object.

Color is lent to the prevailing idea that the inlet will be at the spot mentioned, because of a sale of the property there this week. It formerly belonged to Mrs. Curtis and comprises 46 acres, all bottom land and of very little use as a farm. It is reported that a man named Pinkney is the buyer. With the proposed channel from the Columbia river there is going to be some extensive developments of different kinds, but whether the recent sale has anything to do with improvements or is merely a speculation is not known.

There is great probability that the work will be commenced this summer, as it has been settled that the drainage of a vast territory should be done soon. It would be cheap sewerage for the peninsula and would save the property owners a large sum of money as well as enhancing the value of Columbia slough property.

LIBRARY OFFERS ITS ASSISTANCE

Many Books Are Available on Seasonable Topics. Here Are a Few of Them.

During these pretty, sunshiny days everyone's thoughts turn toward the garden. Already the flowers have commenced to put forth their sweetest and brightest blossoms. To assist all whose fancies and thoughts are so occupied the library can provide material aid.

W. Robinson's "English Flower Garden" is especially adaptable to the Oregon climate and Part I takes up designing, hardy flower, cut flowers, bulbous and tuberous flowers, annual and biennial plants, wild spring and summer gardens, etc. Part II is a dictionary of these flowers, shrubs and trees, describing them, giving cultivation and positions most suitable for them in the gardens.

F. A. Waugh's "Landscape Gardening" is a treatise on the general principles governing outdoor art, with special suggestions for their appreciation in the commoner problems of gardening.

L. H. Bailey's "Manual of Gardening" is a practical guide to the making of home grounds and the growing of flowers, fruits and vegetables for home use.

P. Henderson's "Gardening for Pleasure" is a guide to the amateur with full directions for the greenhouse, conservatory and window garden.

C. V. Sewell's "Common Sense Gardens" is designed to point out to the owners of small and unostentatious places, a way to plant their grounds and make their gardens at small expense.

Helena R. Ely's "Woman's Hardy Garden" is intended to tell briefly of a few shrubs, hardy perennials, biennials and annuals. Hardy gardening and preparation of the soil, laying out of the garden, planting, the water, walks, lawns, etc., are discussed interestingly.

Chas. H. Curtis' "Sweet Peas and their Cultivation" for home and exhibition, has already been used for the sweet pea contest.

Other volumes on these subjects can be secured. It has been said that—"Through the various channels of science and of art There's something in the hand-made thing That stirs the throbbing heart."

So all the various ideas in fancy work must necessarily stir the hearts of woman kind. Books on crochet, cross stitch, stenciling, bead work and punch work have been received and are filled with new ideas and old ones employed in new ways. All women who are interested will enjoy looking them over.
