THE NEW HIGH SCHOOL.

Yesterday's action by the voters of School District No. 4, in deciding to erect a high school is a step in advancement. Those who opposed it were conscientious in their opposition and were not actuated by any narrowness of spirit or ideas, but rather with the idea of economy and a feeling that the district could wait a few years longer. The crowded condition of the present school building will be more seriously felt before the new one can be ready for use and it seems to be only a question of doing it now while property values are at a low ebb and while the patriotic spirit is manifest in the reasonable offers made yesterday of suitable locations.

The voters and taxpayers—even those who opposed the school—will never regret that it was decided to have it. Gresham has taken another step in advance of all the other towns and by such action will maintain her supremacy as an educational center that it will take many years to wrest from her by other ambitious centers which may endeavor to enter into contest for scholastic honors.

The results will be far reaching and all their influences will be for good. The high school will be a magnet to draw other features and Gresham will be ready to greet them when they arrive.

PORTLAND A WAY STATION.

One news item which the Oregonian and Telegram have not mentioned under scare heads is the proposed abandonment of the Associated Press headquarters in Portland and their removal to Seattle. Hereafter those two papers will get their dispatches by the "drop wire" system that serves the most of the country dailies of Oregon or by "special" service at a greater cost. S. B. Vincent, for many years in charge of the Portland office, has resigned and Portland will be a way station.

The loss of the headquarters is a heavy blow to Portland, but one has not far to go to learn the cause. Since its organization the Oregonian has dominated the existence of the Press and kept other papers from gaining a membership. The other news agencies have been called upon to supply dispatches to the Journal and News, causing a division of the service that has been costly and burdensome, the Oregonian's policy having been directed toward preventing other journals from gaining a foothold.

The removal will be a staggering blow to Portland, as the jealousy engendered between Portland and Seattle through various rivalries will work to the detriment of Oregon's metropolis. Portland will not figure quite so largely in the dispatches hereafter, while Seattle will be featured to the fullest extent. For Portland to be a way station is unbearable in any sense, but for it to be subservient to Seattle is nothing short of a calamity as that town will exert itself to the utmost to exploit itself and the state of Washington at the expense of Portland and all of Oregon.

The Portland Railway Light & Power company is to be commended for the magnificent manner in which it handled the crowds last week which had to depend upon it for transportation to and from the rose festival. All trains were doubled and trebled and the schedules were maintained throughout seven days in a way that reflects credit alike upon the traffic managers and the train crews who worked unceasingly for a whole week for the pleasure of thousands without any serious casualty or loss of time. It is such service that commends a transportation company to its patrons as being alike careful, considerate and accommodating.

WHO ARE PIONEERS?

Next Thursday will be Pioneer in Portland and the annual event will be celebrated in the usual manner with a gathering of the pioneers of the northwest. This will be the forty-first annual gathering and it will be an elaborate affair.

It will be an exclusive function to which no one need apply for membership unless he or she came to this coast prior to Feb. 14th, 1859. The pioneers, in their wisdom, fixed their constitution so that none others may join their association. They probably expect to die some day and take their organization with them, leaving those who came here after the above date to shift for themselves.

It is true that the heaviest immigration to this coast was in the years preceding 1859, but there was also a great influx of settlers from the east in the nine years following before the advent of the first railroad. The immigration was exceptionally heavy in 1862 and again in 1864, and many came every year across the plains up to 1869 when the way of travel by trail became easier and the real settlement of the northwest began. Those who crossed the plains by team between 1859 and 1869 suffered all the privations, dangers and hardship that those who came earlier did. The only real difference was in the number of people they found here upon their arrival. Toiling across the continent was as severe in 1864 as 't was in 1854. Disease was as rampant, the savages were more savage and all other dangers fully as great in the later years as they were in the first. Why should those who came here after 1859 be discriminated against?

The proper date for eligibility to membership in the association should be the date of driving the last spike on the Central Pacific. Who of our "Pioneer" friends will see that justice is done those who came during the nine years before?

When the cellar door closes down tight on the Portland baseball team we would suggest a game with the Sun Dials. Perhaps professional ethics might interfere, but it would help the Portlands amazingly to be handed a bunch by a bush league team out here in the country where the news of their defeat wouldn't make any difference to their pride.

CHILDREN'S DAY

Says '52 to '77: "You don't look a day older than when you forded the Platte at Julesburg and camped that night at Chimney Rock"—Oregonian.

Any immigrant who did that feat must have had an automobile or airship; also he would have been a long way out of the old Oregon trail.

TWENTIETH ANNUAL ASSEMBLY JULY 8 to 20

Many Gresham people are planning to attend the coming session of the Willamette Valley Chautauqua, to be held at Gladstone Park July 8-20, inclusive. The program has just been published and includes many widely known Chautauqua speakers. Prof. B. R. Baumgardt, Colonel George W. Bain, Walt Holcomb, Frederick Vining Fisher, Ng. Poon Chew, (the Chinese statesman); the Sierra Mixed quartet, the Tyrolean-Alpine Singers, Frances Carter, Maude Willis, Matt Hughes, E. G. Lewis and Grace Lakia are among the big features of the coming assembly, for the afternoon and evening programs.

The morning classes include talks by Dr. W. B. Hinson of the Portland White Temple, elocution talks by Mrs. Frances Carter; "Supervised Play" by Miss Grace Lamkin; school of music; lectures on "Modern Economic Problems" by Dr. Gilbert of the State University; lectures on practical agriculture and stock and poultry by experts from the O. A. C., and other talks by leading scholars along various lines of thought in Oregon.

Daily band and orchestra preludes to the programs, with solos by Portland's leading vocalists. Chautauqua baseball league plays daily games, and consists of five of Clackamas county's fastest amateur teams. Tents and platforms may be reserved for patrons. Plenty of camp firewood and lots of pure mountain water. Camp conveniences most ideal. Provisions may be purchased from stores on the grounds, or patrons may eat at Chautauqua Cafeteria.

Each age of our lives has its joys. Old people should be happy, and they will be if Chamberlain's Tablets are taken to strengthen the digestion and keep the bowels regular. These tablets are mild and gentle in their action and especially suitable for people of middle age and older. For sale by Gresham Drug Co., and all Dealers everywhere.

Sandy

SANDY, June 16.—Mrs. P. T. Shelley and little daughter Johnnie are home again after a week's visit with relatives at Hillsboro.

The Commercial club will hold an important meeting next Wednesday evening, at the city hall, members are urged to be present, as matters of interest will be discussed.

O. E. Freytag, county fruit inspector, visited this district Friday and Saturday inspecting orchards and addressing the fruit growers of this section at a special meeting.

A party of sixteen U. S. engineers and employes of the light house office passed through Sandy recently to inspect the power plant at Bull Run and Lake Lucerne.

W. A. Shauer, of Portland purchased the "old Reliable" barber shop, formerly owned by D. W. Ingles.

W. M. Stone, of Oregon City will be the speaker of the day at the Fourth of July celebration.

County Clerk Mulkey appointed W. V. Rogers, official registrar, for the special election this fall.

The Sandy grange held its monthly meeting Saturday at Odd Fellows hall. Owing to the inclement weather the attendance was not as large as usual, much business was transacted during the morning session following the lunch hour, Mr. Thomas who represented the Sandy grange at the state convention held at Albany recently, gave a highly interesting talk of his observations and good things he took in and gleaned at the convention. Mr. Corey was asked to give a speech at the eleventh hour and proving a man of resources took up the Bible and choosing the 23d Psalm gave a most graphic picture of the life and customs of the Shepherd and his sheep in the Orient. George Hennessey gave a pleasing cornet solo which was followed by short talks on "Rural Life" and the fair which will be held in Sandy this fall.

The Sandy band is busy preparing an interesting program for their second concert which will take place Saturday evening, June 21st, at Shelley's hall.

Miss Katie Junker, who has attended the Lincoln high school at Portland this winter will arrive home today to spend the summer with her parents.

Children's day was observed at the M. E. church Sunday, June 15. The church was tastefully decorated with roses, peonies and wild flowers. The songs, recitations and drills rendered by the various classes of the M. E. Sunday school proved a delight to the large audience who had gathered from near and far to hear the wee tots and others acquit themselves in so favorably a manner, thus reflecting much credit upon the Mesdames Barendrick, Eason and Miss Hazel Mills, who had charge of the program. R. Smith's class, composed of a band of boys, gave a novel exhibition of the farmer lad, which proved the feature of the evening, as they appeared in overalls, straw hats, carrying in their arms, a spade, shovel, hoe, rake and other implements used in garden and field. Following the exercises, Rev. Ingles, of Salem, gave a brief talk in keeping with the spirit of the evening closing with these words, "I wish it might be children's day every day."

The choir of the M. E. church is preparing a cantata entitled "The story of the Pink Rose," which will be presented some time in July.
