Secretary Lane Studies Oregon's Problems.

Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the Interior, has visited Oregon in his official capacity and has proceeded or his way to other sections of his great field where worries and troubles are as insistent as in this state. His stay in Oregon, brief though it was, has left hundreds of homesteaders and settlers with lighter hearts and a renewed courage to tackle the obstacles to their future progress which before his coming, seemed insurmountable.

For the secretary has made it clear that the government stands ready to co-operate with the state of Oregon in the reclamation of its arid lands and has promised that all honest, bona fide settlers shall be entitled to the protection of the federal government whenever their interests are menaced by land sharks or unscrupulous promoters.

"The policy at Washington in the past has been to let anyone have the country that wanted it," said Mr. Lane in the course of address to the settlers of the Redmond country. "Now our problem is to make life easier for the greatest possible number of people on the land. If it can be irrigated at reasonable cost, you will see this great district covered with irrigation projects within the next few years."

Rev. F. M. Burtch and family will start tomorrow for Twin Bridges, Mont., where he will spend a month visiting with relatives, after which they will go to Arco, Idaho, where Mr. Burtch will take charge of his new pastorate.
