"The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins."

Official paper of the Town of Gresham, Oregon.
Official paper of the Town of Fairview, Oregon.

Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the act of March 3, 1879.

VOTING FOR SCHOOL SITE.

Tomorrow's election for a county high school site will be important in that it will decide where the new building is to be located. The four sites offered are all more or less desirable and are nearly all of the same size, but there is some difference in the prices at which they are offered.

The preferential ballot that is to be used is something new. It was used for the first time in Portland at the last city election and this will be its first use for the selection of a piece of land. By it the voter may record his first, second and third choice and the one receiving a majority of all the votes cast will be the winner. It is possible for second choice to prevail, hence the voter is cautioned to exercise good judgment in making his first selection.

Every voter in the school district should exercise the right to vote in this case, so that a full expression will be obtained. Then no one can complain that a minority or a small majority had the selection of the grounds.

The lengthy description of the properties given in another part of the paper should be sufficient guide to the intelligent voter to make the best selection.

THAT GRANGE INITIATIVE.

The proposed grange initiative to provide a fund for publication of the Grange Bulletin is probably unwise in that it would place a burden on the unmarried member of the order who is not a member of any family that will not be shared by the others. It also discriminates against small families and in favor of large ones.

A family of six would pay no more than a family of two, hence the law would be unconstitutional if passed.

Another objection is in making it compulsory to pay the increased amount. It would be better to raise the dues of all members alike in a smaller sum and set aside a certain per cent for the Bulletin fund.

If the measure goes to a vote of all the subordinate granges it will be the first instance of the kind in the Oregon grange. The law providing for the initiative was adopted at the last session of the state grange and provides that such a vote may be taken upon petition of twenty-five subordinate granges. The state grange shall then call an election within six months from the date of filing of petition.

If a majority of the members voting approve the measure it shall become a part of the by-laws of the state grange.

"Poultry yards should be drained of all surplus water. Muddy feet means muddy eggs, and dampness means catarrh, roup, rheumatism and tuberculous. Sunshine is a germ destroyer and a better egg producer than red pepper." Send for bulletin on Housing of Chickens, by Professor James Dryden and get his views on this important subject. Address R. D. Hetzell, O. A. C., Corvallis, Oregon.

If the hose team girls get to wearing suspenders with their bloomers it will be unfair for one of them to stop a man on the streets to borrow a nail just because he has pockets in his pants.

The Gresham Outlook highly compliments business men of Gresham in the statement that some of its advertisers have adopted the plan of changing announcements with every issue.—Journal.

Perhaps joy cometh in the morning, but not to the chap who has made a night of it.

Perhaps once in a thousand years you may encounter a man who doesn't think his wife talks too much.

SUPPORT THE UNIVERSITY.

A former Gresham resident, now at the State University at Eugene, writes the Outlook, urging support for the institution at the coming election. Giving as his reasons he says: "It is an admitted fact that the University is sorely in need of funds wherewith to provide room for the large number of students now enrolled, to provide additional equipment, to provide for repairs, extension, etc. Indeed, as it is now, every department is crowded to the point that efficient work can not be done; pupils are without the necessary dormitory accommodations, cloak room facilities, library space, and the like; and some of the instructors have to use ante-rooms off the assembly hall for recitation rooms, make difficult exchanges with other professors and flit from room to room from day to day, etc. And the appropriation in question involves but the payment of 18 cents to him who pays taxes on an assessment of $1000, or the payment of but 1.8 cents on an assessment of $100. I trust that you may see your way clear to give the university your hearty support."

His is a personal request that the university appropriation be sustained and that every effort be made to defeat the referendum. Every friend of the institution should be sure to register, be sure to vote for the appropriation and in so far as possible induce others to register and vote. This is a direct appeal to women, especially, who have not yet registered or voted for the first time.

KEEP OUT OF IT.

Whenever there is a fire alarm the general public attends to the call with the same alacrity as do the firemen, and some of the aforesaid public make themselves so officious that they seriously hamper the firemen in the exercise of their duty. A regard for the official character of the fire fighters would be conducive to better results in case of a serious conflagration and those who are not enrolled as firemen should keep out of the way instead of forcing themselves into places where they can do little good and only interfere with the work in hand. Let the firemen handle the fires as they will do better work alone than if mixed up with those who have no business there.

CITY OF ALBANY DRY BUT BOOMING

Some six years ago Albany voted to oust saloons and make "A clean city for clean people."

In the six years since saloons went out, the city has gained 50 per cent. True, some swine have left for other wallows, but clean people quickly took their places. They passed the word to their friends. Others came, until Albany has 6,000 happy, prosperous, contented people. So generally agreed are they for the dry policy that they have ceased to keep track of arguments for a dry city.

When Albany went dry, there was no paving. Now six miles.

Banking has doubled. Present assets of the four banks, $2,250,000.

Last year 725 signed a petition for a vote to return to license. These men paid taxes on $100,000. In forty-eight hours a counter protest with 725 leading men's names on it was published. They paid taxes on $2,000,000.

Hotels seem to thrive without license, for the Hamilton, $80,000, and the St. Francis, $30,000, have been built since and are successfully operated, in addition to one large hotel at the station and several medium priced smaller hotels.

In the last three years a new bank, theater, church, department store, K. P. buildings, library, two hotels and a church repaired represent $350,000 in building, besides many smaller ones and homes for 1,000 people. All the good buildings in the business section came since the city went dry.

Mr. F. E. Van Tassel, recorder and police judge, states that of drunks before him, nearly all are from out of town and brought liquor with them, or were drunk before arriving. Of the occasional Albany residents before him, practically never is there a married man. Occasionally some callow youth who "hopes he's bad," a "tin-horn sport," who is faking that he's "dead game," gets intoxicated and parades the fact. But the dry city enables the husband and father to keep sober. "No license gave married men back to their families," said he.

The business men, headed by Mr. L. E. Hamilton, proprietor of the largest department store, have a Law Enforcement League. They offer a standing reward of $100 for evidence which will convict an illicit seller. Blind tigers are unknown. Occasionally a poor darkey, or some "hobo," or "white trash" entices a stranger into an alley and disposes of a flask of "Jersey lightning." Almost surely he gets a long term of board, lodging and washing at the expense of the county as a reward.

The business men have caught the idea of public service not for personal pecuniary profit now. They are content to be rewarded only in the general increased prosperity of the future.

One and all they said, "We must teach the citizens of every community that they must insist on no-licensing being enforced. Parties and officers, will not enforce the law without that. Officers prefer to enforce the law if the people who have power will back them up with popular support."

"What we need now," said one banker, "is a return to the county unit." From the "Amens," he evidently voiced the sentiments of the group. Continuing, he said: "With work and money we business men will stand by till Oregon is dry. Let all men know there is no short cut nor easy road and no substitutes are accepted in the temperance arm. Educate the people. Build up county co-operation. Vote counties dry. Then, when two-thirds or three-fourths of the counties are dry and the people understand all the menace liquor is, then, with a statewide, all-inclusive federation of good citizens, strike for Oregon dry."

Cities desiring a personal word may write to J. C. Irvin, cashier of First Savings Bank; L. E. Hamilton, proprietor Hamilton's department store, or Rev. W. P. White, pastor United Presbyterian church.—R. P. Hutton, in New Republic.

Additional Gresham Locals

Mrs. Robert Sterling arrived this morning for an extended visit with her son Jas. Sterling and family.

S. Takahashi of Gresham and Miss Tomiea, of Tokio, Japan, were married last Wednesday in Seattle, Wash. The romance which culminated in this marriage, commenced several years ago in Japan, whither the bride came a few days ago for the wedding. The young people have gone to housekeeping on Jas. Sterling's place where Mr. Takahashi is making a great success cultivating an eight acre strawberry field.

Marriage is the connecting link between fiction and fact.

Between two grafts a politician is likely to make a play for both.
