Phone 261. "The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins."

Official paper of the Town of Gresham, Oregon. Official paper of the Town of Fairview, Oregon.

Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

"Poultry Life," a 54-page monthly magazine published in Portland, will be given as a free premium to all new subscriptions or renewals for a year, cash in advance. This is a splendid chance to get the magazine for nothing. This offer holds good only to December 31.

Clackamas county voted down the district library proposition, probably because it would cost each taxpayer about 45 cents a year to place books in every school district in the county. It also refused to increase the salary of School Superintendent Gary to the amount of $600 a year and thereby save the salary of a supervisor amounting to $1500 a year. Great is Clackamas—or some of the voters in the county.

In answer to Mr. Dillon's article, in general business men and other citizens are helping to support the high school football team, through not finding it possible to attend the games during the busiest hours of Saturday afternoons. Also several successive defeats may have dampened the interest in the games. The team should have the heartiest support of all citizens and attendance so far as possible.

Dr. Benj. J. Freese, a naturopath physician of Gresham, has just issued a pamphlet from the Outlook office dealing with his method of treating diseases. He even goes further and proclaims that there should be no disease, in which all people agree, but he maintains that the germ theory is a superstition; that there is no such thing as "infection" and "contagion," as generally understood; that vaccination and injection of serums is positively dangerous; and that a physician does not cure.

These are his own words and if true are a startling revelation. He asserts that almost all diseases respond to natural methods. He except broken bones and torn tissues as he is not a surgeon.

Dr. Freese's statements and his methods of treatment are at such variance with the accepted practices now in use that he is sure to bring down upon himself and his school of medicine, if it can be called by that name, all the hatred and opposition of the other cults. Those who are interested should get one of his pamphlets and read it carefully. If all that it says is true the people of the world are being deluded by something that may be discarded forever and there will be more uniform health, less disease and more natural living than it was ever thought possible.

With apologies to the medical profession for the theft of their thunder.

O'COATS

SEVEN WONDERS OF THE WORLD

What are the Seven Wonders of the World?

How old are they?

Where were they located?

How did they come to be so designated?

What of them; are any still in existence?

How do they compare with some of the modern wonders of the world?

These are questions you would like to have answered. Then don't fall to hear Professor Dunn's illustrated free lecture at the library next Friday night, on the Seven Wonders of the World. It will be high class, intensely interesting and instructive for young and old.

Arle Gleason, formerly connected with the Lebanon Express, has bought a half interest in the Forest Grove Times and will have charge of the mechanical department. A. G. Scott will continue to be the editor. A good newspaper team.

Frank Buffum, residing just northwest of the city, has the thanks of the News-Times for one of the largest cauliflower heads we have ever seen. The fine specimen brought us was a foot across and as large as the average woman's hat, and that is going some.—Forest Grove Times.

The following is from the newspaper that recently bought the Outlook's Junior Linotype. The machine seems to be keeping up its former reputation for good work: "The Express naturally takes some pride in having installed the first linotype in this part of Linn county, and all friends, and enemies, if any—of the Express are invited to visit the first real newspaper plant ever inaugurated in this city."—Lebanon Express.

Corbett

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Rea gave a Halloween party Thursday evening of last week at their pretty little bungalow 2 1/2 miles from Corbett. Several games appropriate for the evening were played and Messrs. Lee Evans and LaFrance and the Misses Ethel Smith and Johnston favored those present with vocal and instrumental music. The rooms were beautifully decorated with jack o' lanterns, autumn leaves and crepe paper adorned with witches and other spooky things. Mrs. Florence Rea, of Portland, was masked as a witch and certainly did her part well. The guests were Mrs. Florence Rea, of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Illege, Mrs. Anderson and son, Ray, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and sister, Mrs. Clara Smith and Miss Ethel and Miss Johnston and Messrs. Don and Basil Littlepage, Vancil Evans and George Knieriem and Miss Laura Ross and Mrs. LaFrance.

Lewis Benfield, formerly of this place, but now a foreman in Portland, is spending his annual vacation with his mother, Mrs. Lottie Benfield and other relatives near here. Rev. Ford, of Woodburn, preached morning and evening at the school-house.

A social and entertainment will be given by the young people of the neighborhood Saturday evening, November 8, at the grange hall. Proceeds to be given Norton Evans, who is quite sick with tuberculosis. This is a worthy cause and everyone should attend and help make it a success.

Robert Wilkie was a guest at the Benfield home several days this week. The Halloween social and dance given by Columbia grange was a great success. Those who took part did their parts finely.

Columbia grange, No. 267, met in regular session Saturday, November 1st, with a good attendance who enjoyed a splendid dinner, a jolly good time and a profitable business session. Two members were initiated in the first and second degree and five names were balloted upon to become members and another proposed for membership.

Melrose

Friday afternoon Miss Ingalls gave a treat to her pupils by preparing a Halloween surprise for them. Each pupil brought a jack o' lantern, which arouses all sorts of curious questions on their part. During recess while all were out the teacher with the help of two of the large boys darkened the room and scattered the lighted lanterns about the room. Great was the surprise of each when they entered to find it dark and spooky. Each was greeted by a bump upon the head from an apple hanging in the door and they were requested to take a bite of the apple before passing into the room, causing much merriment. Next was an old fashioned apple ducking, some not succeeding until heads were wet. The remaining afternoon was spent in games and merry making.

Our neighborhood was well represented at the dry parade in Gresham Friday. We are that part of the country that want it dry in Gresham. Captain Branson beat the drum for the march.

Captain and Mrs. Branson were guests of S. S. Thompson at Gresham Friday evening.

Elmer Mercer has rented Rev. J. H. Wood's place the coming season.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry were guests of Isaac Wood and family Sunday.

Mrs. John Bramhall and son, of Pleasant Home, were present at our Sunday service.

Digging potatoes is still in progress.

A. B. Conrad and family, Thos. Wiles and family and Captain Branson and wife attended the lecture at Gresham Sunday night.

Everett Stafford will farm the home place next season.

Miss Ingalls spent Sunday in St. Johns with her parents.

Long live the Outlook. It is indispensable to our homes.

A. B. Conrad and Thos. Wiles are having over 200 bushels of potatoes to the acre and of fine size.

Capt. Branson and wife began their first evangelistic series in Benton county, Sunday, November 9.

Mrs. Chester Stafford is visiting her sister in Hood River this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Wiles visited their son, Elwood Wiles, in Portland Saturday and Sunday.
