

CROWD AT MASQUERADE, GRESHAM SKATING RINK.

There was a good large attendance at the skating carnival and masquerade at the Gresham rink last night, about 30 couples joining in the grand march.

Today the work of raising the trusses supporting the roof was begun under direction of Jake Metzger. The beams will be raised five feet, making them 14 feet above the floor.

This will be a great improvement. There are several athletic societies using the rink and it is in demand for basket ball.

Forty volumes on immigration, gift of the government, deal with the immigration question in every phase. O'Kane's Injurious Insects teaches us how to recognize these pests and how to control them. Mr. O'Kane has grouped the question into pests of the garden and field crops, orchard and small fruit, and finally of the household and domestic animals. Within the first two groups a subdivision is made in accordance with the place where they are found at work. First, those that work in the soil, then the borers found within the stem, trunk or limb, then the pests found feeding on the surface of stem or trunk; then the leaf feeders and finally the insects that attack the flower or fruit. Bailey's Training of Farmers is divided into the means of training farmers and the school and the college in relation to farm training. The first takes up the rural government, the responsibility of state government and of public institutions, the reading habit, health conditions in the open country, organization and federation of rural forces. In the second part why the boys leave the farm, why some boys and girls take to farming, common schools and farming, agricultural colleges and the state are each taken up consecutively.
