The eighth grade pupils in the Gresham school are taking a lively interest in the old fashioned art of spelling. "Spell downs" are held nearly every day and the teacher, Miss Arthur, finds it almost impossible to spell everybody down on the words with which the class is familiar. In yesterday's test, when the teacher skipped to somewhat unfamiliar words, Ellen Simonson spelled down the class.

There is on exhibition at the Outlook office, a freak egg or perhaps it would be better to say eggs. This is an egg within an egg. It is from the ranch of A. F. Chase of Route 2, Gresham, and was in all probability laid by a Buff Orpington hen. It measures 7 by 8 1/4 inches and weighed, when found, 4 ounces. We say weighed because it doesn't weigh as much now, for a part of it is gone. When the big egg was broken it was found to contain a yolk surrounded with albumen and also an ordinary sized egg covered with a shell. The outer shell was carefully pasted together, and can be seen at our office containing the inner egg.

H. L. Ball has rented his house and one acre of land near Gresham to John Cunningham who will occupy the place for a year.

The Christian Science service, which will be held next Sunday morning at the First State Bank building, will have for its subject, "God the only Cause and Creator."

Alfred Vogel has moved to the Alexander place on Powell street and Cleveland avenue, from the Base Line road near Terry school.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Horton, of Portland, recently from Oklahoma, visited with Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Paris several days this week. They have come to make Oregon their home. Elsewhere will be found a very ab-

Commencing today Dr. Benj. J. Freese will have office hours in the Oregonian building, Portland, from 10 to 12 a. m., daily and 2 to 5 p. m., Sundays. In Gresham, 7 to 9 p. m., Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Other evenings by appointment.

tractive announcement of the C C Store inviting the public to join in the celebration of the second anniversary of the starting of this popular store in Gresham. To Mr. O. J. Trambly, manager of the store, is to be credited the store's marked success. Quiet and straightforward in his dealings, always courteous and pleasing, using the methods that win, he has made the store what his ads. have called it, Gresham's Busy Progressive Emporium.

The Women's Home Missionary society will meet next Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. A. Hevel. Besides the usual study there will be a short program. Business matters of importance will be considered and a large attendance is desired. Luncheon will be served at the close of the afternoon.

Governor West has abolished the State Game and Fish Commission. He should go further and abolish the hunting and fishing laws in order to stir the people up to something more sensible than those in force.

DANNIE.

The following lines were written by Raymond Dunbar, of Lakeview, Oregon, nephew of the late Daniel Omer Dunbar. It is inscribed

"To Dannie Dunbar, by one who admired, and took great pleasure in accompanying him in his daily work and pastimes."
A youth of strength and energy,
A youth in the prime of life;
Who loved the scenes of nature,
And knew no pains of strife.

Who enjoyed to work for others,
Willing to help and to give;
With a heart overflowing with gladness,
And a ring in his voice that shall live.

Now, out in the lonely churchyard
Beneath the great blue dome;
He will sleep the sleep of the blessed,
Till the trumpet calls him home.

And he shall arise on judgment morning,
And ascend to the feet of the King
To meet his friends and loved ones,
And the mighty Hosannas sing.
