REVERSE IDEA IN TRANSPOSITION

A transposition of lines in the article in the Christmas number of Outlook concerning Gresham eleven years ago, brought out a statement not at all intended by the writer. The statement was "I taught for the first time that year," when it should have read "I believe that the tenth grade was taught for the first time that year." One business man entirely overlooked was W. J. Wirtz, who conducted a barber shop in the building now occupied by the Novelty store. B. F. Rollins was engaged in the poultry business on James Lawrence's place.

CHRISTMAS COMMENTS

The proper kind of holiday presents for men in responsible positions where nerves and patience are tried to the uttermost is presence of mind.

Beginning with the glad New Year the dime museums hope to have on exhibition the man who never gave a Christmas present from a sense of duty.

The crabbed bachelor member of the family who with a spurt of generosity purchased for the children the long, resonant Christmas horns will have soon completed the task of kicking himself into the glad New Year.

A few weeks ago a woman wrote a letter to a newspaper, in which she said, "If I could get money how I would make people's hearts bound with joy!" A rich uncle presented her with $100 on Christmas day, and the seal-skin sack she bought with the money made a number of people's hearts bound with envy.

Stock that has never known what it is to have their colors lowered in defeat on this continent or in the United Kingdom, animals that have awards at the International Livestock show at Chicago, the National Dairy show at Chicago, at state and district fairs without number were represented in that magnificent symposium of livestock aristocracy.

Portland was the mecca for all livestock men last week. The eyes of all stockmen of the west were focused on Portland. Nearly 9000 entries—not single animals, but individual herds of varying sizes and on up to carload entries, were listed with the exposition that made the value run well up into millions.

An aggregate of $15,000 in premiums were awarded. No exposition of its kind has ever attempted to do so much for its community, for the country tributary to it or for the industry it undertakes to foster. Thousands visited the yards to see the world's finest on exhibition and closed last Saturday where special
