COST OF PRODUCTION.

Secretary Redfield, of the department of Commerce was in Portland last week. He has a plan which, if carried out in full, the country will be possessed of facts which have hitherto been difficult to obtain; and many of which have never been accessible. The plan involves publicity in its best sense. If carried to completion, as the secretary hopes it may be, facts will be at hand for the guidance of congress and of cost and conditions of production in all the important industries of the United States. For the present, however, the department of commerce will limit its work in this line to gathering the facts in connection with the production of cloth.

It is a wide field. It must cover the factors of transportation of raw material and of manufacture. It must begin with the growing of cotton and flax and the rearing of sheep. Then must follow the story of the making of the cloth into garments, and conditions under which the work is done, the hours of labor, its compensation to the workers and the profits of the employer.

The people of this country, who make their own laws and govern themselves through their representatives, have a right to know, when a certain price is paid for a garment, how that money is distributed all along down the line of its production. With this information in hand it will be possible for legislators and the people whom they represent to be judges for themselves of what inequalities exist in our industrial system and to seek for national means of correcting them. There is an abundance of so-called statistics already, but they are detached and not easily digestible. Anybody may use them to suit his purpose or to support his ideas, from congress to the soap box orator. With such facts as Mr. Redfield proposes to make available the bugbear of free trade, or protection as the case may be, would be shorn of its alarming features and false deductions would be made less easy, if not impossible.

Such data, in congress a year ago, would have been of inestimable benefit to every congressman there in shaping his policy on the tariff bill.

Klamath county farmers and dairymen have organized the Klamath Co-operative Produce company which is expected to establish and maintain grain elevators, flour and feed mills, creameries, cold storage plants, meat packing plant and a mercantile establishment. The company plans to start work at once on the creamery which will be located between Klamath Falls and Merrill.

Farmers in the vicinity of West Stayton will plant 35 acres of Refuge wax beans this season for delivery to the Salem cannery. The crop is expected to be highly profitable.

Oregon granges will meet for the annual four days' business session at Monmouth, May 19-22. Complete arrangements are being made for entertainment and accommodation of visitors.

The country newspaper editor is the most clever mortal on earth. He is always on the safe side when they come around to collect the income tax.

Public Lands to Be Opened for Entry

Between the dates of May 9 and June 7, intending settlers will have the right to make selection of homesteads in tracts to be set aside from the Deschutes and Paulina forest reserves. Of this land 20,000 acres is located in the Upper Deschutes valley, being for the most part covered with jackpine. From the Paulina reserve approximately 200,000 acres will be open for entry, most of it in the Fremont and Fort Rock valleys. This is chiefly sagebrush and rough land.

Of the Deschutes valley land, about 10,000 acres is said to be good land, that is, land suited to agricultural purposes. It is estimated that it will cost $25 to $50 per acre to clear the jackpine land, and from $5 to $10 to clear the sagebrush land. Water in this tract can be had at a depth of about 20 feet, while in the Fort Rock section it is reached at an average depth of 150 feet. Formal filings on these lands will be allowed on and after June 7.

As an aid to Oregon farmers who are becoming more and more interested in hog raising, the Agricultural department at Washington is sending out a number of instructive bulletins, of which the following is a partial list: No. 379, Hog Cholera; No. 22, Feeding Farm Animals; 205, Pig Management; 339, Alfalfa; 372, Soy Beans; 462, Utilization of Logged Off Lands; 350, Dehorning Cattle; 272, A Successful Hog and Seed Corn Farm; 272, Boys' Pig Clubs. Any farmer who desires any or all of these bulletins may obtain same free of charge by writing to any of the Oregon representatives or senators at Washington.

Under a recent ruling of the postal authorities, farm and garden produce may be shipped from producer to consumer when properly packed for shipment. This provision also includes farm and garden implements, castings, parts of machinery, etc. This should be of immense benefit to farmers within easy reach of towns or cities, as offering an outlet for fruit, vegetables, eggs, poultry and butter which have heretofore been of little value on account of excessive transportation rates.

A writer in one of the dailies says that auto drivers should be polite and thank the drivers of teams who get out of their way on the county roads. Common courtesy would suggest that autoists give half the road to the teams, in which case there would be no need for thanks from either party. Yet a little show of good breeding by some of the auto fiends would be conducive to better feeling on the part of those who live in the country.

A Marion county candidate had to withdraw because he had registered in another party. His predicament brings up the query: how will people be able to change their politics after a permanent registration law has been made that will stick? When people do not have to register unless they change precinct abodes, how will they be able to switch politics unless they move?

Coast league fans will anxiously await the result of today's game at Sacramento which is the opening of the baseball season on the Pacific coast. All Oregon is boosting for the Beavers.

Governor West has notified the schoolkeepers of Troutdale that if they don't obey the law he will declare martial law. The Copperfield incident is still fresh in memory.

In France they are using sawdust to "raise" bread. How a French colony would thrive in the vicinity of an Oregon sawmill.

Reputation stands many a shock. That will help McCredie to boost the Beavers up to pennant winners again.

Cars on the first interurban street car line at Medford began to operate March 20.

College Bulletin, No. 126, issued by the Oregon Agricultural college gives full information on how to conduct a fly campaign and how to make fly traps. It will be sent free to all residents of Oregon upon request and is of such merit that everyone interested should send for one.

The industries committee of the Medford Commercial club is in correspondence with the Borden Milk company, which wants to put in a plant.

The Bay City plant of the Smith Lumber company on Coos Bay has been started and with connected industries will cut 700,000 feet in 24 hours.

The State Highway Board has contracted for 50,000 barrels of cement from the Beaver Cement company now completing its plant at Gold Hill.

The Lane county manufacturers' association will hold a Home Industries exposition at Eugene from May 5 to 9 with factory congress.

Oregon newspaper men in session at Salem adopted resolutions against any further legislation interfering with business or industries.

The Polk county fair will be permanently located on a sixteen-acre tract at Dallas, and improvements are to be made at once.

The Portland Woolen Mills will erect a two story factory building at St. Johns for the scouring and carbonizing departments.

The Canadian Flax Mills Co., has decided to establish a plant at Portland, and will handle about 100 tons of flax the first year.

The Oregon supreme court sustains the minimum wage and eight hour laws enacted by the last legislature for women.
