ABOUT ANIMALS AND CHILDREN

PORTLAND, June 29.—(Special)—Just what cats, rabbits, goats, canaries and chickens have to do with the education of children is not apparent to the writer, but they certainly have a good deal to do with it, according to our advanced system.

At the Lents and Arleta schools last week many of these animals were on exhibition and drew prizes. There were no rats in the exhibition as far as I knew. Encouragement in the raising of chickens is possibly a good thing as a matter of development of habits of industry, but there are now so many things introduced into the public school that there is nothing left for the home to do. The responsibility of parents to teach their children habits of industry to cook and sew and to handle tools is already assumed by the public schools. In all this the scholarship is secondary consideration.

The best and most commendable exhibit made, in my judgment, was at the Richmond school. Everything placed on exhibition in the assembly hall was made at home. There has been no community school garden at the Richmond school. O. R. Dinwiddie, the principal, is opposed to what is called the community school garden, but he is a strong advocate of the home garden, where the child and the parents must work out and care for the garden. Mr. Dinwiddie believes that the community school garden is not best conducive to the child's development and requires too much supervision, while the home garden appeals more directly to the child and his enthusiasm. He is thrown more on his own responsibilities than in the community garden. That this is true was demonstrated by the fine showing made of products from the home gardens of the Richmond school.

PORTLAND, June 29.—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Eaton, who arrived from Calcutta last week, having in their care two Christian girls, widows, of India, spoke last night at the First church of the Nazarene, East Seventh and East Couch streets, and told the story of the fate of child widows, and of the efforts made to change their condition in India. The two little widows, Beba aged 14, and Sheechu, aged 8, who had been married in India, were at the meeting, and were pointed out by Mr. and Mrs. Eaton in their addresses as an example of the child marriage system prevailing in India.

Mrs. Eaton told of the efforts made to found a home in Calcutta, which had already rescued more than 100 child wives and widows. She said that there are about 25,000,000 widows in India.

Mr. and Mrs. Eaton will speak Thursday and Friday at the all-day missionary convention of the north-west district which will be held at the Brentwood Nazarene church, at Tremont on the Mount Scott railway, and again next Sunday at the Sellwood Nazarene church. The girls will then be taken to the Nazarene University at Pasadena, Cal., to be educated. Afterwards they will be taken back to the Calcutta Mission.

T. W. Sullivan, of the Oregon City Commercial club, was the main speaker at the meeting of the Milwaukie Commercial club Tuesday night held at the home of W. E. Morand. C. B. Hanson presided. Mr. Sullivan reviewed the work of the Commercial clubs of the state, and pointed out their great value to the communities in which they are organized and to the state at large.

"The clubs stand for good roads," he said.

Mr. Sullivan referred to the work of the Milwaukie Commercial club in particular and commended its efforts in behalf of the pioneer town. He made a plea for co-operation in the development of the entire state on the part of the Commercial clubs.

Several local men gave short talks, including Mr. Hanson. About fifty attended the meeting. Much enthu-

Mrs. Raymond Miller entertained her brother and wife and little son over Sunday.

Damascus

The local baseball nine played the Portland Web Foots on Sunday, winning 12 to 11. Damascus may well be proud of its baseball talent, as so far this season the boys have lost but one game. With Pilster and Wilson the regular battery, and Kummer relief pitcher, they are an aggregation to be reckoned with.

Mrs. Fred Kummer spent a couple of days in Portland this week.

A Damascus man wishing to buy some small pigs recently, drove miles first in one direction then the other, as some one said that "you might try" so and so. Nothing doing. Finally, less than half a mile from home, he discovered a man who had lots of pigs for sale. Why should not the man with something to sell advertise that fact in some way or another?

Scenic

The Pleasant Home band held an unusually interesting meeting Sunday after marching and playing for a while. They went to a grove on the Charles Hunter farm, which had been made comfortable and attractive for their reception where they spent the day in practice. A delicious lunch was served, Mr. Hunter furnished ice cream. A few guests were present and altogether a delightful day was spent. The grove was so cool and inviting. Those present little realized how hot the weather outside was until about 4 o'clock when they started for home. This grove is the same in which the M. A. Ross Post G. A. R. used to hold their annual reunions.

Miss Hilda Beyers went to Portland Monday where she took part in an organ recital given by Mrs. Edwards.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Smith, of Portland, were guests Sunday at the home of Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bauder.

Among the guests entertained last week by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Duncan, were Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Galbraith, of Mason City, Iowa, old friends and schoolmates, and Mrs. Duncan's sister Mrs. Anna Tyrrell and daughter Effie, Mrs. Alma Suckow and children, Mrs. Anna Jonsrud and Mrs. Fred Lohman of Sandy Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Eller attended the picnic at Estacada Sunday. Ed. Sester's sister Mrs. Wirtz, of
