IN GRESHAM AND VICINITY

George Richardson of Troutdale is suffering from a broken rib, the result of a fall on last Monday.

A baby boy was born last Monday to the Japanese family on the Emil Olson place.

The young people of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school will meet this evening at the home of H. L. St. Clair for the purpose of practicing music and forming a choir.

Word was received last night by Rev. Father H. Bruenagel, of the death at Newport, Oregon, of H. M. German, who moved there from Gresham a few months ago. Funeral services will be held tomorrow, Saturday, at 2 o'clock, at the Catholic church in Gresham. The cause of the death is said to be neuralgia of the heart. A full obituary will appear later.

No preaching will be held at the Methodist Episcopal church next Sunday, this being the week of the annual conference. Sunday school will be held at 10 a. m. and Epworth League at 7:15 as usual.

Rev. and Mrs. Melville T. Wire are attending conference in Portland this week. Mrs. V. A. Ammerman is also in attendance at conference. O. I. Neal, N. O. Fuller and Mrs. Ella Aton were at the conference today as delegates from the Methodist Episcopal church at Gresham to the Laymen's association.

Miss Mae Hughes is living at the Emil Oswald home on South Roberts avenue. Miss Laura Harvey and Miss Eva Struggles are at Mrs. L. S. Osborne's. Miss Gertrude Liggett is boarding at the Congdon and Miss Mabel Arthur with Mrs. Wm. Caldo.

Dr. W. C. Belt and family are planning to move soon to Newport. Miss Ocea Hafferty, who has been living with the family, left today for Seaside where she will attend school.

A jury trial in Justice Rollins' court on Wednesday decided a case in favor of J. N. Clananah against O. W. Tarr, the sum involved being seven dollars which Mr. Tarr claimed he had paid but which Mr. Clananah disputed.

E. T. Jones & Co., received notice today that their bid for E. G. Wilkes' new residence had been awarded to their firm. The contract calls for a structure costing about $2500.

Miss Lucy Peterson, of Shaw, Oregon, is here attending high school. She is staying with Mrs. E. H. Kelly. Earl Thompson, who has been down from Culver, Ore., on a business trip, returned today.

Ross E. Read, who drives the milk truck for Meadowview Dairy, is now making the trip in the daytime instead of at night as formerly.

Mrs. John Bliss was the holder of the ticket which drew the set of dishes at Pulter's on Wednesday last.

Mrs. E. A. Pomeroy is now forming her fall classes in voice culture, piano and harmony for the term beginning October 1. Her advertisement in this issue gives full particulars.

List of Letters.

Remaining letters uncalled for in the Gresham postoffice for week ending September 20th, 1914:

Letters—Chas. K. Ellison, Thelma Shipman.

Cards—Chas. Darr, C. O. Franked, Arthur Studbaker, B. McNeil.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office October 4th, 1914, if not delivered before. In calling for the above, please say "advertised," giving date of list.

I. McCOLL, P. M.

Home Cooking Restaurant.

A regular dinner will be served every day from 12 to 2. Short orders at any time. Having taken over the restaurant formerly conducted by Mr. Peck I would be pleased to retain his patronage and will endeavor to merit that of the entire public.
L. HOLLYWOOD.

QUICK WITTED.

Mike—"Did yez get hurt in the trolley car collision the other day?"
Pat—"Not a scratch, but I had the presence of mind to kick me wife in the face."

Putting Them at Ease.

Precedence is not the only puzzle in official and social circles in any city, but to say the right thing at the right time is equally necessary.

"To make mistakes in speech is suicidal," said a state department official recently. "Let it not be as in the case of Mrs. Brody, who gave a party, and when all the guests were in the parlor she entered with a beaming smile and said:

"Do make yourselves at home, ladies. I'm at home myself, and I wish you all were."—Washington Star.

To Make Shaving Easier.

To shave easily and save the blades of safety razors, leave a pleasant feel on the face and make all razors take less stropping, adopt the following plan:

Lather the face well and wash off the lather. That gets rid of all dust. Then with a small brush work into the skin a little vaseline, and without removing this relather the face well, and then shave. The first day of two the plan does not seem so successful, but after that the advantages are very marked.—London Field.

Discovery of Turtle Soup.

According to some authorities, Bristol has a special claim to fame as the city where turtle soup was invented by a seventeenth century mayor, who was also a shipowner. The captain of one of his ships brought home a live turtle, thinking that his worship would like to have it in his fishpond. This happened just as the mayor was about to give a civic banquet, and, deeming that his guests might appreciate a new dish, he ordered the turtle to be stewed. The corporation was so delighted with the novelty that it re-elected its host to the municipal chair nine times running.—London Chronicle.

Memory.

Dear as remembered kisses after death. All our sensations are memory, some say. It may be. It may not be. But this we know: The perfume that is the finest is the perfume of reminiscence. It may be a vagrant fragrance from the woods or in the city's air. The song neglected, but remembered, is the most appealing. The taste acquired in childhood is that that tickles most our older palate. A friend is a composite of our memories. Sometimes that part of us that is the bud and leaf seems the whole tree. But we would die without the roots. Memory is the roots and sap of us.—Kansas City Star.

Illusions.

A rude shock greets the idea that the testimony of eyewitnesses is especially reliable when one comes to study the laws of evidence. The majority of persons see what they think they ought to see. If a house is reported haunted it is easier to see a ghost there than not. Possibly this accounts for the widespread belief that luminous appearances of one kind or another accompany earthquake shocks. Scientific men do not believe these stories, and they usually dwell on investigation, yet they continue to circulate on both sides of the Atlantic says a writer in Cosmos, Paris, translated for the Literary Digest.

HIS ONE CHANCE.

"You eat very little, Mr. Smith," said the maiden coyly to the bashful lover who had been invited to share the family Christmas dinner.
"Yes," replied he, and for once he saw a chance and, grasping his courage, he said: "To sit next to you, Miss Grace, is to lose one's appetite."

Registration Dates Corrected.

Passing of Mrs. Jennie Light.

Mrs. Jennie Light, who died at her home in Troutdale, Oregon, at midnight on the night of September 19, was born in Bethel, Branch county, Michigan, June 7, 1846. She was married to C. H. Light at Allens Prairie, Michigan, in 1875. The following year she moved with her husband to Nebraska, where they lived until 1889, when they came to Oregon, settling in Yamhill county. After residing there a year they came to Troutdale, where Mr. Light passed away two years ago.

Mrs. Light leaves one brother, William Card of Batavia, Mich., and a sister, Mrs. Julia Sherman of Coldwater, Mich. She also leaves two stepchildren, Mrs. Dr. Geo. Inglis of Gresham and Wm. Light of Troutdale. Mrs. Angie Wood, formerly of Troutdale, now of Coldwater, Mich., is a niece.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. H. Wood, on Tuesday, September 22. The burial was in Douglass cemetery.

LENDING A NAME.

"Waiter," asked the impatient customer, "do you call this an oyster stew?"

"Yessuh," replied Mr. Erastus Pinkley.

"Why, the oyster in this stew isn't big enough to flavor it."

"He wasn't put in to flavor it, suh. He is jes' supposed to christen it."

THE DIARY OF A DOLLAR.

January 1—Began the year right didn't go into a saloon all day. Woke up this morning in a fat man's pocket. He gave me to a boy for blacking his shoes.

January 2—The boy's mother took me down town today and traded me for a pair of stockings, a pound of meat, a pair of mittens, half a sack of flour, and a sack of soap. Never did so much work in my life.

January 3—The grocer took me over to the gas office and paid his bill. The gas office is a very profane place. There were twenty men in line, all swearing.

January 4—Today I took a walk with an employee of the gas company. All of a sudden I found myself in an alderman's pocket. Don't know how I got there.

January 5—The alderman traded me away today for twenty enormous schooners of beer. As I went into the till I saw these twenty schooners being emptied into as many mouths with a gurgling noise.

January 6—Early this morning when I was going home with the moonkeeper, a holdup man took me away from him. I am getting into worse company all the time.

January 7—The holdup man was captured today and I went to jail with him. This is awful. Where will I go next?

January 8—Oh, joy! This morning the holdup man paid me to a lawyer. Now I am in respectable company again. How glad I was to see the inside of a nice pocketbook.

January 9—I am tired of life. Today the lawyer gave me to a jurymen. He isn't clean, either. This is an awful world!

January 10—Worse than ever. Last night when I was going home with the jurymen, the same holdup man took me away from him. I am going to stop this diary. I am not respectable enough to keep one.

(Signed,) A DOLLAR.

—Sovereign Visitor.

The bored youth turned to his dinner partner with a yawn.

"Who is that strange-looking man over there who stares at me so much?" he drawled.

"Oh, that's Professor Jenkins," she replied "the famous expert on insanity."
