PROIBITION VOTE, AND LAGISLATURE

ers are allowed full pay for holidays.

By a vote of 55 to 2 the House passed House bill 222, providing a series of amendments to the workingmen's compensation act that are expected to remedy defects in the law that have been discovered in the few months it has been in effect. The principal change contemplated is to reclassify the industries and make their rates of insurance under the act commensurate with the risk involved. The measure requires the industrial accident commission to investigate all cases where it has to believe that employers subject to the act have failed to install or maintain safety appliances required by statute, and to report cases of failure to a prosecuting attorney and request criminal proceedings.

A bill by Senator Moser was passed repealing General Laws of Oregon, 1913, providing trade schools for girls from 14 to 18 years old in Portland. School board recommended repeal.

A measure was passed to obtain interest on school funds in districts having more than 20,000 population. The money is to be lent to banks at 2 per cent interest. Dimick and Kellaher said they thought the interest was too small. Moser said it was to be deposited subject to checking at any time.

Senator Moser was successful in getting a bill through permitting use of public schools for civic centers for discussion of morals, politics and educational questions, the directors to provide for lights, fuel, etc.

County treasurers will continue to collect taxes from the people of Oregon. The law was not changed.

The tax laws are receiving attention and there is a probability that some desirable amendments will be made to accommodate taxpayers.

The state prison chaplain is to get $50 a month if a bill now under consideration is passed.

Civil war veterans may hunt and fish without licenses hereafter in the state of Oregon.

The bill to prevent the posting of signs on any highway was signed by the governor on Tuesday. It is aimed to keep advertising signs off the Columbia River Highway.

Corporations and Their Employees.

The American Telegraph and Telephone company is selling stock to its employees on the installment plan of two dollars per month.

This is a sound principle, and should be established by all public and private corporations that desire to get good results.

The employee as a shareholder is quite a different person from the disinterested employee who only draws pay for the labor done.

The employee shareholder in a business feels that he or she is one of the proprietors, and has a stake in the success of the game.

One step farther should be taken, and that is to share profits with employees and give them insurance against accidents and sickness.

The last arrangement has been successfully carried into effect by the American Telephone and Telegraph company in employees benefits.

Profit-sharing with employees need not be made contingent upon being shareholders, but it will be more profitable to share profits with all.

When every employee of a great corporation is a shareholder and a profit-sharer and has reasonable insurance against casualty what next?

Friendly co-operation on the part of every worker in his or her own self-interest, and teamwork on the part of the leaders of labor.

Doing away with all hostility and destructiveness and carelessness and indifference among employees who have above a minimum or brains.

Labor controversies and strikes will be minimized and illwill and class hatred between laborers and officials and proprietors goes.

The example of the American Telephone and Telegraph Corporation—better known as the Bell Telephone company is to be highly commended.

Originates Savings System.

C. S. Smith of Montavilla, formerly of Gresham, was in Gresham on business one day this week. Mr. Smith is originator and manager of the National Scrip System, which is similar to the Tad System in use by several Gresham merchants and which has had considerable success here. Mr. Smith has enlisted about fifty merchants so far in his system. He has several agents in the field developing it and is meeting with good success.

While in Gresham Mr. Smith made arrangements to transfer the Tad accounts of his three children to his home bank. The advantage of saving these small discounts was clearly shown by the aggregate of the three accounts, which was nearly twenty-five dollars. These were collected in about three years and for at least half of that time the family was living in Montavilla and did much trading there.

The Tad merchants here are R. R. Carlson, Puffer Mercantile company, Bert Lindsey and the Gresham Drug Co. The Bank of Gresham is the Tad bank.

The Oregon Hog Business in Peril.

From figures recently compiled at the Portland Union stockyards, it would appear that unless there is a radical change, on the part of the farmers, in the handling of the hog business, in a short time Oregon will be right back in the position occupied a few years ago—almost no breeding stock on hand, record breaking prices in the local market on account of the inevitable shortage of supply and another hurry call on the middle west for brood sows to restock the empty pens. And this deplorable condition is being brought about by the present abnormally high price of wheat, and also to the fact that a large number of hog raisers throughout the state neglect to grow the necessary feed on which to finish their crop of pork and on which the surplus stock can be economically carried through the winter.

During a period of seven consecutive days, ending the past week, 12,000 hogs were received at the Portland yards, only a small percentage of which were really fit for killing, the balance apparently having been shipped to avoid the expense of carrying them until spring. The certain result of these excessive shipments will be a ruinous falling off in values, a wiping out of the hog surplus of last fall. Oregon soil and climate is suited to the production of corn, field peas and alfalfa, all of which are splendid hog feed, and until the farmer plants more extensively of these crops and thus makes himself independent of outside assistance, the hog industry will be at the mercy of any influence which may affect the prices of wheat and other grains in the Northwest.
