H. W. Cooley of the White Knoll poultry farm had from his incubators a fine hatch a few days ago. Fifteen hundred lusty young chicks were taken off. Three hundred and fifty of these were sold as day old chicks. This is the fourth hatch of the season, and probably the last. Mr. Cooley has 4500 chickens ranging from a few days old to broiler size. Callers are always welcome at the White Knoll farm and many are embracing the opportunity to see the wonderful sight of so many chicks together.

The auction sale announcement of A. Albrecht appears in this issue. Mr. Albrecht is located a short distance west of Fairview on the Sandy road.

Tonight will occupy the attention of many members of the Masonic lodges of Gresham and Troutdale, who will go to Sandy in automobiles. All preparations have been made for an excellent time by the Sandy people who know how to do things.

WORK PROGRESSING ON UNION HIGH

The site of the new union high school is a busy scene of operations this week. The grading has been finished and concrete is being laid for the foundations and walls of the heater basement. Five carloads of material arrived, consisting of brick, lumber and cement. The common brick are from Hoover station, five miles east of Gresham, but the finishing brick are from Nevada. The latter is a superior quality of the pressed article, a light gray, and will be used in the decorative scheme of the building.

Three tents have been erected on the ground where some of the workmen are living. Others from Gresham complete the present crew but more will be engaged when the building begins to go up. The brick masons and carpenters have not begun work yet.
