HORSES FOR SLAUGHTER.

The United States has been supplying horses to the countries of Europe recently at the rate of 200 a week. The fact has been the incentive for a protest from the Oregon Humane society on the grounds that it is cruelty to animals and that the sale of horses for slaughter in the European war should be summarily stopped.

There is no denying the fact that every state in the union is being depleted of its best horses; neither is it to be controverted that the horses sent to Europe will nearly all be slaughtered on the battle field. It is a condition that humanitarians are taking an interest in, and one that seemingly cannot be changed.

The fact that horse owners shut their eyes to the fate of the animals they sell to the war agents is not going to be sufficient evidence to indict them, yet it must indeed be a tender-hearted man who will refuse a good price for a horse that he knows is going to an almost certain death.

Aside from the inhuman feature of the transaction there is the counterbalancing fact that the sale of horses bring a great deal of money to this country. Oregon is getting a share of it and the animal industry is stimulated greatly by the shipments that are being made. On the other hand there is going to be a scarcity of good horses for a few years with a consequent tendency for better prices until more have been raised. Breeds will be improved and more care taken in rearing them with the result of better stock.

Another feature during the next few years will be the constantly increasing sale of automobiles. More and more will the gas engine take the place of the horse. This fact is being recognized by the auto factories, all of which are preparing for a great increase over this year's production. The Ford factory alone is preparing to make and sell 500,000 machines next year. Thousands of autos and auto trucks are being sent to Europe as well as horses.

While it seems inhuman to send horses to the war, it is but one of the features that a war entails, hence it can only be considered a business proposition which cannot be checked.

NEW SPECIES OF SHARK.

We have all heard of loan sharks and land sharks and various other kinds of sharks, but the breach of promise shark is a new species just hatched out back east, and there are threats of legislation to make young lovers put their engagements in writing so that their bleeding hearts have something to lean on when either of them became tired of the irksome bonds of betrothal and decide to fly the coop.

The balm of heavy damages has often assuaged the grief of being jilted, and young men of means are getting fearful of the wiles that feminine charms are capable of throwing around them and their bank accounts. That is one of the reasons why there is a growing army of unmarried young men. They are getting afraid of lawyers who get fat pickings out of the incautiousness of men, or often, out of the fact a man who is neither gullible nor imprudent but a man of reputation and station is more often the shining mark—the target of legal shafts.

But it is hard to see how such the proposed law to put the marriage proposal in writing will avail anything. It is even harder to see how such a proposal can be reduced to writing while the wooing is in full swing.

It is contended by a prominent attorney that the white slave act must be amended in order to protect innocent males who happen to ride on trains carrying foxy females who do not mind blackmailing aforesaid males, lest the enterprising blackmailers and their attorneys frame up cases against the innocent. The amendment proposed is an age limit of some sort, but whether it is to apply to the attorney or foxy female is not clearly set forth.

"Clean Up and Paint Up."

Governor Withcombe has advised that the entire state devote the period of May 1 to 11, inclusive, to cleaning and painting up of unsightly back yards and buildings. Mayor Albee has designated the same dates for the same work in Portland, and to insure that the work is done, and well done, the Portland Chamber of Commerce has appointed a committee from among its most energetic members to organize the different sections of the city into effective units and exercise a general supervision over the work.

It is almost certain that the present year will see a greater movement of tourists and visitors to Portland, and to all other sections of Oregon, than during any year since the Lewis and Clark tour, and a concerted and persistent campaign should be carried on to make city and state cleaner and more attractive than any other section of the Northwest. California and Washington have been wielding paintbrush and rake for a long time, and it only remains for Oregon to get into line and make it three of a kind.

The plan inaugurated about three months ago by the Portland Union Stockyards whereby the school children of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, by signing a 10-months note at 6 per cent, could receive high-grade sows already bred and treated for cholera, has met with such unexpected success that it has been necessary to call a conference of the raisers of stock of that class to devise means for filling all the applications for stock. It is believed this campaign will be nation-wide in its effects on the industry.

A movement has been started for the completion of the works of the Portland Cement company of Oswego, which has been at a standstill for nearly three years. The buildings are ready for the machinery and the materials are at hand from which to make a high grade of cement. It is stated that recent sales of stock have been made amounting to over $300,000 and that the company has $50,000 on deposit. If the plant is put into operation it will be the only cement mill between Bellingham, Washington, and points in California.

On July 5, Portland will entertain a distinguished party of business men and financiers from China who will visit this section on a general business survey of the Pacific Northwest. Oregon's Oriental trade in grain, lumber and manufactured products has been increasing in importance for several years, largely as the result of a visit of prominent business men to China, and the visit here in July will be in the nature of a return call.

On June 2, 3 and 4 a great livestock show will be held at Union at which not only the Grande Ronde Valley will be represented, but all other parts of the state. Profiting by experiences gained during the past six years, the management is confident that the 1915 show will be by far the best ever held in that part of Oregon.

Automobiles were first used about 17 years ago, or maybe it was before that or after—no one seems to remember—but yet there has been no satisfactory pronunciation given of how to pronounce the unpronounceable word. Is it automobile or automobile or automobile?

The Cuban senate has repoted favorably on a bill to prohibit prize fighting in Cuba. Probably sympathizes with John Arthur Johnson, who was once known as the champion. The Cubans also probably think that prize fighting is more brutal than bull fighting.

The International Dry Farming congress will hold its annual meeting in Denver from September 27 to October 9. The program will be of unusual importance and interest and farmers in the semi-arid sections of Oregon should make a special effort to be present.

Arsenic Dust Very Helpful in Garden Now.

An arsenate of lead powder is very helpful just now in controlling the biting insects that are likely to attack several kinds of crops. Any standard arsenate of lead powder may be secured, mixed with an equal amount of sulphur, flour, sifted ashes or any finely powdered neutral substance. One of the best of these powders, according to Professor A. L. Lovett, insect pest specialist at the Oregon Agricultural College, is the sifted ashes. The mixture is put into a small salt sack, or bag of similar material, and shaken over the plants until the right amount has been applied. Being easily seen the operator can apply as much or as little as he wishes. If applied in early morning the moisture will cause the material to adhere to the leaves more closely.

"This powder is very effective in controlling flea beetles, spotted squash beetles—sometimes called yellow lady bird—slugs, and other leaf-eating pests that attack such crops as beans, lettuce, corn and squash," said Professor Lovett. "An application every ten days should keep the pests under control except when followed by a rain, in which case the new application should be made when the rain ceases."

"Another means of securing protection from the leaf eaters to be used in connection with the powder is the use of trap crops. If in planting beans, for instance, a few hills of squash are planted, some of the vines may be allowed to bear fruit while others are left unsprayed or unpowdered to attract the pests. The pests move about freely from place to place, and simply killing off or driving away a single infestation does not secure immunity from further attack. Protection can be secured only by repeated measures."

A recent Pittsburgh survey in cooperation with the Bureau of Health gave this almost revolting account of the manner of life of that portion of the population from which the saloon derives the greater half of its income: "Eyre rookeries, perched on the hillsides, were swarming with men, women, and children—entire families living in one room and accommodating 'boarders' in a corner thereof. Cellar rooms were the abiding places of other families. In many houses water was a luxury to be obtained only through much effort of toiling steps and straining muscles. Courts and alleys fouled by bad drainage and piles of rubbish were playgrounds for rickety, pale-faced, grimy children. An enveloping cloud of smoke and dust, through which light and air must filter, made house-keeping a travesty in many neighborhoods; and every phase of the situation was intensified by the evil of overcrowding—of houses upon lots, of families into houses, of people into rooms."

The Degree of Honor, which has heretofore been an auxiliary of the Order of Workmen, has asserted its independence and will take in men as a competitor of the men's order. It is only following the precedent of the Woodmen Circle and will some day be followed by the Lady Macca-bees. The men are glad to be relieved of the incubus and welcome their independence.

A reindeer trust is hinted at up in Alaska as an offset to the annual gold boom which is just coming up out of the arctic winter. Let it come. The country quickly busted the bull moose trust, and we do not think the reindeer trust could last long.

Rather queer how a contagion spreads. Since Gresham decided to clean up it is reported that Washington City, Boston, Buffalo, and even Portland are going to follow suit.

Says Federal Judge Anderson, who presided in the trial of officers and citizens of Terre Haute indicted for corrupting elections: "My notion is that the saloon will have to go. I believe the time will come when the people will rise up and smash the saloon, at least, as we have it now. The evidence in this case showed that the saloons were the center of nearly all the corruption in the Terre Haute election."
