"The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins."

Official paper of the Town of Gresham, Oregon.

Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

THE GRESHAM CEMETERY.

The many persons who visited the Gresham district cemetery on Sunday and Monday last cannot help having the conviction, which many expressed, that a new cemetery is urgently needed for this section.

In regard to the general care of the cemetery there is no general complaint. It is probable the sexton does all and perhaps more than he is paid for doing. Many individuals who have relatives buried here have a standing arrangement with the caretaker or make special arrangements as the need appears.

The condition of the cemetery is not what it should be. There is great lack of system or any definite plan as to its use. Too often when necessity has arisen persons have been allowed to select lots without due regard to location of other lots or suitable avenues.

"What is everybody's business is nobody's business," and what in a general way is free and belongs to everybody is apt to lack necessary system and care in its use.

At the same time both the district cemetery and the private cemetery in Gresham are well nigh crowded and are wholly inadequate for a growing community and steps should be taken to provide for the needs of the present and of the future in this regard.

Sure thing, Gresham is the gateway to the Columbia River Highway as well as to the mountain resorts and Mount Hood. Why, if it wasn't they might as well give the whole highway project up and stop selling automobiles.

The theater of war is getting to be some circuit. Now if Mexico would declare war against some European power it would give us some amusement as a one-night stand entertainment.

Colonel Watterson of the Louisville Courier-Journal asks, "What is a cocktail?" We are as much surprised as if a bishop had asked where he could find the Lord's prayer.

Now that we have decorated the graves of deceased soldiers let us try to strew more flowers along the pathways of the brave men still living.

That last note to Germany will most likely get an answer with, "Wait, Samuel, until the firing ceases and the peace doves coo."

The back yard gardens are beginning to deliver the goods. High cost of living is making faces at the new spring vegetables.

The Cherry fair which has been a notable annual event at Salem for a number of years, is to be omitted this season.

A new down south slogan is: "Keep out of the ruts." Good medicine everywhere and for everybody.

Douglas county expects to ship not less than 150 cars of prunes this season, as against 90 cars shipped last year.

SOME ERRATIC PLANETS.

Has anyone noticed how low the moon has been running during the present moon semester? It has been getting up way over south of Mount Hood, where the sun crawls over the Cascades on the shortest days of winter, and then seems to be trying to dodge across the sky, looking for a new route.

Well, the moon is out of joint with the universe and is fooling the astronomers, astrophysicists and mathematicians. It is not acting as a well-behaved moon should.

The moon is not alone in its peculiar errancy. Mercury is behaving much worse, but only a newspaper man out looking for news items after nightfall would ever notice it.

Perhaps that split-tail comet has something to do with it, but we are inclined to believe that there is a surge extending through the solar system which has upset normal conditions.

It is well known in newspaper offices that the sun, with all its attendant systems is rushing through space somewhat faster than a jitney defying the speed limit toward the star Vesta in the constellation Lyra at the rate of ten to twelve miles per second.

In the meantime the moon continues to shine and do its normal work; Mercury continues to merc. and all the planets do their regular work. The newspaper astronomers can calculate the mean distance and diversities of them all.

INVASION OF UNITED STATES.

The bunch of jingoes who see the yellow peril and other possible invasions of this country loering out from behind every bush should wait about 50 years for the history of the great war now in progress.

No nation could possibly land 100,000 men here, save after weeks and months of preparation. Probably only England, with her great sea power, could accomplish this at all.

In order to encourage a large attendance at the Portland Rose Festival June 9, 10 and 11, the railroads have announced round trip rates of one and one-third times single fares for the entire week.

Advice to the students: keep a promise as religiously as you will the invitation to the banquet tonight.

CANNED GOODS.

The opening of the canning season in Gresham should be hailed as an auspicious event. The new can nery will not be able to do so much this year as it probably will hereafter, but it has had its beginning and is in the running for a share of the world's business.

The present tariff laws are favorable to the canning industry, from all indications, except that some nations have built up a protective wall which no other nation can overcome.

Canned goods is increasing as a factor in the world's supply. Canned goods were regarded with suspicion for years. Part of this condition may be attributed to the abuse of methods. The canners assert—and we all know that they are right—that a higher standard now prevails, and that the various associations are endeavoring to put out only pure and wholesome goods.

The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, of the United States Department of Commerce, at Washington, D. C., has sent a representative to Portland who will endeavor to establish a branch bureau in Portland for the purpose of aiding shippers and importers in securing a profitable foreign market for all Oregon products and also to advise them where goods of foreign make may be secured to the best advantage.

At a recent meeting of the Members' Council, the Portland Chamber of Commerce went on record as favoring the fullest application of the Bingham bill, which allows a 5 per cent preferential in favor of Oregon-made goods of all kinds when required for municipal, county or state purposes.

Our story last Friday about the proposed meeting of Pacific coast governors in Portland was a decided scoop. The Oregonian had it on Sunday written up afresh from Salem, evidently having asked Governor Withycombe all about it.

After all, the man without a hobby is a rare specimen in this world. Some men have hobbies without even being conscious of the fact. Your man who accomplishes things is almost invariably the man with a hobby.

Another item of interest to the plain people is that the price of strawberries will soon be at low tide.
