TEMPERANCE BEER

In view of the near approach of statewide prohibition in Oregon and Washington, it is interesting to learn that the kind of beer sometimes known as "nearbeer" is the object of considerable discussion and not a little ill feeling in some of the states where the sale of alcoholic liquors is forbidden.

According to some of the eastern papers several states have defined alcoholic beverages in other terms. Louisiana passed a law legalizing the sale in dry territory of beer containing not more than two per cent of alcohol.

The Indianapolis News says that in Georgia, a prohibition state, the law provides specifically for the sale of "nearbeer," to be consumed on the premises, and retail dealers are licensed and taxed by the state. The Georgia court of appeals has decided that "to establish a claim that any soft drink now sold is violative of the law, it will be necessary to affirmatively prove that it will, if drunk to excess, produce intoxication."

A Texas paper says that the court of civil appeals in that state has held that "a place in prohibition territory where intoxicating malt liquors, requiring a federal license, are kept for sale is a disorderly house."

In view of the above interpretations of the law there should be a distinct understanding of the Oregon law before next January. After there have been violations and arrests the courts will doubtless render decisions, but a fore-knowledge would be beneficial to all alike.

It is a sweetly solemn thought that a man who marries an heiress cannot put away more corned beef and cabbage under his belt than we can under a weekly salary.

Anyway, France and England have shown themselves interested enough to weep over Russia's woes.

SALUTING THE FLAG

The chief of police of Los Angeles has ordered his policemen to salute the American flag every time it passes them on the street. It sets an example of public respect that cannot fail to impress the public, and especially the young.

The practice of resorting to a display of the national emblem, accompanied by a somewhat vociferous rendering of national airs, has come to be regarded with disfavor as a means of creating enthusiasm in the theaters. The American people do not like to have their patriotism exploited for commercial gain.

The new attitude toward the flag goes to show that Americans are getting beyond the period when it was considered a breach of national decorum to take off their hats to men or institutions. It is a fine and by no means a rare spectacle to see a group of Americans whip off their hats in the presence of the flag.

It is said that one of the men to blame for the Eastland disaster was an inspector named Robert Reed. No one need be surprised. We first heard of him over fifty years ago as the youth of whom it was written, "I'll never chew tobacco, it is a filthy weed; I'll never put it in my mouth," said little Robert Reed.

An osteopath at the recent Portland convention says a man belongs on all fours and that walking on his hind legs is responsible for many of his ailments. Yet he must admit that man has not shaken off all his quadruped peculiarities. There is the human hog, for instance.

An applicant for a teacher's certificate up the valley answered an examination question by defining "blunderbuss" as "kissing the wrong girl." She probably would have defined "sylabus" as "kissing a girl when there was a man handy."

Six thousand canary birds recently arrived in New York from Holland. They were doubtless intended to replace the birds which have starved to death through the carelessness of husbands whose wives are at the summer resorts.

Two Portland W. O. W. drill teams captured two of the three cash prizes at San Francisco on Wednesday in the drill contest. Denver got the other. Once again has Oregon proved her superiority. If there is anything left at the Exposition, we'll get it.

"If Shakespeare came to New York he would starve to death," says the New York Sun, but it is impossible to imagine him staying in New York when he could take an overland train for Portland and a jitney for Gresham.

Germany is now contemplating a drive on Petrograd. Why shouldn't she? What is to hinder? And are not the Russians leading her onskil?

Eastern Oregon editors have one advantage over us fellows down here. Their farmer readers are sending them watermelons now.

Is the population of the world any larger or is it smaller than it was a year ago?

Friday, the 13th. So far as known only one man is to be hung today and he is in London, charged with drowning three wives in their bath tubs for their insurance. The number three, in his case, was also unlucky.

If it is true, as the scientific sharks declare, that the North Pole has moved somewhat from its true position in the last year or so, why not look up Dr. Cook's records and set it straight?

If you want to know how much you would be missed, think of the number of acquaintances who ask you in the summer time, "Have you been on your vacation yet?"

Mexico is shy on ultimatums received up to the present writing, but she is receiving a fine assortment of warnings.

People are now wondering whether the jittneys will run through next winter. We will know next spring.

FISH FOOD FOR FISH

Superintendent W. G. Steel is experimenting this summer in the propagation in Crater Lake of small fish of the innumerable minnow family. It is a problem not the easiest to solve for, occupying the crater of an extinct volcano, the lake has no shallows, and no streams enter or leave it in which small fish may find a refuge.

Whether it be from temperature or the quality of the water is not known, but it is the testimony of expert anglers that, pound for pound, Crater Lake trout are harder fighters than trout found elsewhere.

"Around the edge of the lake," said General Superintendent Mark Daniels recently, "there is no foliage to entangle your hook and line, and it is the ideal place for the amateur fisherman. When I was there the lake was so clear that you could see to a depth of forty feet. The first fish I caught I saw take the fly. I saw every motion of his body until I finally landed him on the bank, which I only did with the aid of one of the concessioners in the park. I do not know of any other place in the world where an amateur fisherman can swing his fly in any direction without danger of catching it on a twig, and when he hooks his fish, watch his every motion as he fights for freedom."

PROHIBITION GAINS

Absinthe has been prohibited in Belgium, in Switzerland, in Holland, and in France.

King Haakon of Norway closed the breweries on the outbreak of the war.

The people of Iceland have banished alcoholic beverages from their island.

The Czar has broken the second serfdom of Russia with his prohibition of ukase.

Germany has prohibited spirits in military districts and cautions its troops against all alcoholic beverages.

Public men and patriots of Great Britain denounce the liquor traffic as the country's greatest foe.

Australasia and Canada have a prohibition movement of menacing proportions.

Many royal houses of Europe now oppose social recognition of the drink habit.

Eighteen states in America have turned on old "King Booze" and other states are hastening toward the prohibition column.

Notice of Meeting of County Board of Equalization.

Notice is hereby given that on Monday, September 13, 1915, the Board of Equalization of Multnomah County will attend at the office of the County Assessor, at the Courthouse in Portland, and publicly examine the assessment rolls for the year 1915, and correct all errors in valuation, description or qualities of lands, lots or other property, assessed by the County Assessor. And it shall be the duty of the persons interested to appear at the time and place appointed. If it shall appear to such Board of Equalization that there are any lands or lots or other property assessed twice, or incorrectly assessed as to description or quantity, and in the name of a person or persons not the owner thereof, or assessed under or beyond the actual full cash value thereof, said Board may make proper correction of the same. If it shall appear to such Board that any land, lots or other property assessable by the Assessor are not assessed, such Board shall assess the same at the full cash value thereof.

HENRY E. REED, County Assessor. Portland, Ore., August 13, 1915. Adv. Aug. 13-Sept. 10.

Not So Strange After All

You may think it strange that so many people are cured of stomach trouble by Chamberlain's Tablets. You would not, however, if you should give them a trial. They strengthen and invigorate the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally.

Notice of Sale of Real Property at Private Sale.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to an order of the County Court of the State of Oregon, for the County of Multnomah, made and entered on the 29th day of July, 1915, in the matter of the estate of Elmer Hawk, deceased, the present Administratrix of the said estate will sell at private sale from and after the 29th day of August, 1915, subject to the confirmation of the said court, at the office of A. R. Mendenhall, 208 Commercial Block, Second and Washington streets, in the city of Portland, Oregon, all the right, title and interest of the estate of Elmer Hawk, deceased, at the time of his death or thereafter acquired in and to that certain piece of land beginning at the northeast corner of the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 18, in township one, south range 4 east of Willamette Meridian, running thence south 12 rods, thence west 80 rods, thence north 12 rods, thence east 80 rods to the place of beginning, containing six acres of land more or less, in Multnomah county, Oregon, together with all the tenements, appurtenances and hereditaments thereunto belonging.

Terms cash. ANNIE E. HALE, Administratrix. First publication, July 23, 1915. Last publication, August 20, 1915.

A Pointer

"A word in time saves nine."

Think what it will be worth to you to have the right information at the right time. It only costs a little to keep track of events, local and world-wide, and then you are prepared when the time comes. The money spent in any of these combinations is well spent.
