

DINNER MEANT AUTO TRIP TO SANDY GRANGE

Just before noon last Saturday an automobile stopped in front of the Outlook office and two prominent men came inside the sacred portals of the writer's rosewood and mahogany sanctum sanctorum looking for a guide to Sandy.

Of course prominent men had called before, in fact call frequently, and the road to the eastern Clackamas metropolis was not hard to find, but these particular men were boosters, as all prominent men are and they realized the importance of having a newspaper man along with them on their trip. So we got an invitation.

The occasion was the session of the Sandy Grange and the big attraction was a grange dinner.

The two prominent men were Mr. H. A. Lewis and Mr. Phil Bates, who are going everywhere boosting for the Multnomah County Fair, and it is since they began doing this that they have become prominent.

Our readers can imagine what that dinner meant and the way President Lewis burned up his gasoline and gave the aforesaid Phil Bates and now mentioned E. L. Thorpe such an appetite that they felt sorry for the Sandy grangers who were so busy passing resolutions on W. S. U'Ren's single tax measure that they were wholly oblivious of the danger that confronted their dining room.

But as usual there was enough dinner and to spare and then the visitors explained their real mission. They were boosting for the Multnomah County Fair. Incidentally they complimented the women on their sumptuous dinner and on the pretty babies present—at least Phil Bates did. The others were too near home to take such chances.

The members of Sandy Grange are greatly interested in the fair but refused to give any assurance that they would make an exhibit here this year until they had considered the matter further, but it is to be hoped they will see the way clear to do so.

The City of Sandy was rather dull for Saturday but there was one busy man, editor Bennett of the Sandy News. He had just got the paper in the mails and was busy opening letters filled with subscription checks and thinking up some dope for the next issue. He refused Mr. Bates' kind invitation to go down to the hall and finish up the dinner scraps. He is so busy making money he can't find time to get hungry.

A Gresham celebrity, Frank Christensen, was seen on the streets of Sandy. He was wondering how the other three from down here ever got so far away from home. Frank has traveled some and expects to go further some day.

The sad intelligence was imparted that Sandy will not have a grange fair this year. Each member of the grange is accusing the others of having cold feet but such is not the case. The sisters have all the work to do, and some of them gave private assurance that their feet were warm—which several big men with broad backs said was correct. So it will always remain a mystery why Sandy won't have a fair this year.

Sandy wants a railroad but is not depending on the promises of the P. R. L. & P. Co. to build them one. The city is the center of a big road district and has another big one adjoining it toward the Multnomah county line. A rock crusher is converting big stones into little ones of varying sizes and they are being spread on the county roads ad valerem, ad infinitum and ad nauseum. Before a railroad can be built into Sandy the wagon roads will all be good automobile roads and the jitneys will get 'em if they don't watch out.

Sandy went care a whoop then, for it is lively, prosperous and full of the best people on earth. At any rate the grange people are overflowing with hospitality and invited the Saturday visitors to come again whenever they felt that their dinner had digested properly.

TWO KASER FAMILIES ON CAMPING TRIP

K. Kaser and family and his son, Ruben Kaser and wife, of Portland, have gone to Pacific City for a two-weeks' outing. They went by auto and will visit Nehalem, Tillamook and other points before returning home. Mr. Kaser is proprietor of the Ideal Poultry Ranch on the Section Line road. This is one of the successful poultry farms of this locality. It was started by Mr. Kaser about five years ago and has steadily grown until he now keeps from a thousand to fifteen hundred chickens and does quite a business in poultry and eggs. They are of the White Leghorn breed, believed to be the best for all purposes. Mr. Kaser recently marketed a large number of old hens and broilers and has a fine lot of pullets for this winter's egg-production. He finds that poultry pays and is making his ten acres very profitable in this way although it is high-priced land.

During Mr. Kaser's absence, A. L. Bailey, of Seaside, has charge of the poultry ranch. He is an old poultryman and came here from Lockport, N. Y. He believes this is an exceptionally fine country for chicken raising and is certain that it will improve rapidly in the next few years.

All the people are invited to come, bring basket lunches and enjoy a feast of good things.

EVENING SESSION DISCUSSED EXHIBIT

An excellent meeting of the Gresham grange was held last Saturday evening, ending with a fine treat of ice cream and cake. There were about 40 grangers present. Mrs. Maxwell Schneider was given the initiatory work in the third and fourth degrees, and several applications were read.

The principal topic for discussion was the plans for the grange exhibit at the coming fair. W. B. Parsons and G. W. Stapleton are a committee on vegetables and H. E. Davis on fresh fruit. A large variety is wanted. All who can assist are asked to get in touch with these committees.

OLD FATHER TIME HAS BREAKFAST READY

Wood Butler, manager of the Ford Quick Service, accompanied by three of the girls from the Gresham Telephone exchange, went to Cherrville early Sunday morning.

The girls were Pearl Jones, Arlie Gibbs, and Miss Morrow. They were chaperoned by Mrs. Roy Gibbs, Frank Jones, who is there making improvements on the buildings of W. F. Honey heard the crowd was coming and had a big mess of trout taken from Badger creek ready for their breakfast.

Jones has let his whiskers grow as a disguise, and is to be known hereafter as Old Father Time.

PORTLAND MEN ACTIVE IN BEHALF OF COUNTY FAIR

EXTENSIVE INTERESTS ARE LINED UP IN A CAMPAIGN OF WIDE PUBLICITY

The Multnomah County Fair is receiving more enthusiastic support this year than at any time during its previous history. For the first time in its history the business interests of Portland have become active in its behalf and some of the best known business men of Portland have undertaken to make the fair the best thing of its kind ever held. Under the leadership of Hy Eilers, the Portland Chamber of Commerce has appointed a big booster committee and its members are actively engaged in a campaign of publicity, creating a proper enthusiasm among the 4000 members of the organization. The names of this splendid committee of Portland business and professional men were given in the last Outlook.

The Rotary Club also appointed a committee of 25, headed by County Commissioner Rufus Holman. On September 7th Mr. Holman will give a Multnomah County Fair program at the Benson Hotel where the 300 members of the club will dine on the products of the County Farm and be told of the diversified agricultural and stock interests of eastern Multnomah county.

The Ad Club also has a committee of 25, with Ed Werlin as chairman, and he expects to arrange for a program at the Multnomah Hotel where the directors of the fair will be present and meet the 500 members of this active organization and arrange for their part of the program during fair week, September 14 to 18.

M. B. McFaul, president of the East Side Business Men's Club, has written President Lewis that he will appoint a booster committee from his organization and as they have always in the past taken an active part there will no doubt be a large number present to show their interest this year.

Tuesday, the 14th, will be Grange Day, and the recent big meeting of the Grangers of the county held in this city gave promise of much more interest on the part of the Patrons of Husbandry than ever before.

Wednesday will be Sunday School Day, and all the Bible study classes in this section will participate on that day. The arrangements are in the hands of a committee appointed by Dr. Earl J. Else, president of the County Sabbath School association. Over 5000 children are expected on the grounds during the day and an interesting program and games will be given.

The Oregon Agricultural College is expected to participate during the week with working exhibits prepared by the extension department, to be in charge of Ralph D. Hetzel. The exhibits are to consist of a fruit and vegetable canning demonstration, the care and marketing of eggs and the domestic science department.

State Dairy and Food Commissioner Mickle and Deputy M. S. Shrock are preparing an exhibit of cows of eastern Multnomah county for test purposes. These cows will be fed and milked each day by the commissioner, the feed weighed and cost given, the milk weighed and tested and on a blackboard behind each one will be shown whether the cow is paying her board or living in ease and comfort off the farmer.

The stock exhibit this year is expected to equal all previous shows. Over 200 prominent breeders in all parts of the Pacific Northwest have been invited to attend.

At the Board meeting last night Mr. Bates was present and announced his intention to "dump Portland into the fair grounds." He outlined his plans and read letters from more than a dozen of the most prominent members of the Chamber of Commerce committee, promising their hearty support. Among them were Ex-Governor West, W. E. Connan, L. R. Alderman, O. M. Plummer, J. P. Tamsieie, M. B. McFaul, G. W. Talbot and others. Mr. Bates' efforts are meeting with success in every direction.

An application from the Women's Home Missions, represented by Mrs. C. M. Zimmerman and Mrs. K. A. Miller was granted, allowing free admission to about 40 proteges of the Portland Industrial Home on Wednesday of the fair.

The contract with M. H. Squires for fireworks on Wednesday evening was approved, with the privilege of repeating same on Saturday night.

An effort is being made to secure the carnival attractions of the Sound Carnival Co., which will show at Chehalis and Vancouver. The matter was referred to President Lewis.

It was reported that the contract with the racing association had been signed up by both sides. This means a good series of races during the last three days of the fair. The races will be under the direction of the fair association which will handle all the funds, collect gate receipts, except at the grand stand, and pay all racing prizes.

Ray Todd was appointed electrician for this year and will be instructed to make a few repairs and take charge of the system during the fair.

The decorations this year will be cedar boughs and sheaf oats with American flags, only. E. V. Jensen was elected decorator.

There will be another meeting of the Board next Monday afternoon at 1:20.

MERCANTILE STORE WAS NOT SOLD

The Pulfer Mercantile explosion has been further complicated by an order issued by Judge J. P. Kavanaugh restraining the sale of the stock and fixtures yesterday morning, as announced last week.

There were half a dozen bids for the store, each accompanied by a certified check for 10 per cent of the valuation, which had been inventoried at $2861.11 for the stock and $1168 for the fixtures. But the well-laid plans of the opponents of G. W. Kenney, who holds a mortgage on the property, were circumvented by the restraining order which is substantially based on the motion of the plaintiff for an order making R. L. Sabin, as trustee in bankruptcy of the estate of the Pulfer Mercantile company, a bankrupt, a party defendant to this suit, and for a further order enjoining and restraining said R. L. Sabin, as such trustee in bankruptcy, from advertising for or inviting or receiving bids on or setting or encumbering or otherwise disposing of any part of the property.

R. L. Sabin was made a party defendant and he was enjoined from disposing of the property in any way until further order of the court.

The federal court allowed the receiver to accept the bids yesterday, but fixed Thursday as the date for a hearing on the merits of the case as to whether the sale shall be confirmed.

RUTH GITHENS DIES WHILE SAVING FRIEND

Miss Ruth Githens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Githens of Estacada was a victim of heart failure on Friday last, while endeavoring to rescue a companion from drowning in Eagle Creek.

She is in company of Miss Gladys Carpenter and Miss Nina Taylor were wading in the creek when Miss Taylor slipped into a deep hole. Miss Carpenter and Miss Githens went to her aid but were both drawn into the deep water from which all three were rescued by others who came to their aid. Miss Githens was dead when taken out, her death being due to heart failure, and Miss Taylor was unconscious. She was revived after considerable effort.

Miss Githens was a cousin of Mrs. Henry Beers of Gresham; also of Miss Echo Githens who taught in the Hillview school last year. Miss Taylor is well known in Eastern Multnomah, having lived at Rockwood for several years where she was deservedly popular.

PUBLIC MARKET IS ENDORSED BY LENTS GRANGE

By L. H. WELLS.

PORTLAND, Aug. 16.—Special—The Lents grange took decided action in defense of the Portland public market at the meeting held Saturday. Mrs. Edith Torzier Wethered, of the State Board of Control, was present and delivered an effective address on "Co-operation with the State and County Fairs," and in the course of her address gave the Portland market a substantial boost. She said the market was the concrete expression of the desire of the public that the consumer and producer get together, and remarked that 5000 members of the Portland Women Clubs are back of the public markets. W. F. Brock, A. F. Miller, H. A. Darnall and L. H. Wells spoke on the movement started in Portland to discredit and put the public market out of business and it was pointed out that there was a strong movement in that direction. Mr. Miller declared that it would not do to remain silent on the subject, as a certain class of men in Portland are determined to put the public market out of business if possible. At the end of extended discussion resolutions were adopted by a unanimous vote that the public market is a success, and should be sustained, and the movement made to discredit the market was severely condemned. All granges of the county are asked to take the same action.

In her address at Lents grange Saturday Mrs. Wethered called special attention to the coming state fair next month, and emphasized the important place the managers have given the children of the state in the fair program in the matter of special prizes through the industrial clubs of the boys and girls of the state. She said that Saturday, the last day of the fair will be grange day, and that all granges of the state are expected to send representatives. Mrs. Wethered urged the cooperation on the part of women in aid of the county fair, as they are the feeders of the state fair, which is the clearing house of all the county fairs of the state. She pointed out that at the state fair was a social center for the use of the women, and that this year the Congress of Mothers would have an hour every morning at the social center when topics of interest to mothers will be discussed. Camp grounds will be provided for the boys and girls industrial clubs of the state this year with a matron in charge.

It seems almost silly to me that the people of Portland should complain about the increased cost of city government, when they are getting just what they voted for. Take for instance the annexation of St. Johns and Linnton, which carried in Portland by a big majority. Portland got big municipal debts from both places, approximately, $300,000, or more, bonds for various things, besides the school districts brought in some more obligations. The people added this burden by a big vote. They did not stop to think what it meant. So it was when the campaign for commission government was under way. The voters were hypnotized by statements made on the platform on the advantages to be gained, and they voted like sheep for some things they knew nothing about. They got a concentrated government, and also nearly $1,000,000 increased cost of city government. The voters did all this, and yet they are kicking about the result. They elected Commissioner Deick a member of the commission, absolutely unknown except the credentials he had, over Tom Hurlburt, a man tried and experienced as a municipal engineer. Now, there is a big hullabaloo about the cost of city government, and yet the voters are getting what they voted for. Truth is, no matter what kind of government there is it is the men who make it go.

Our Scandinavian citizens laid the corner-stone of a hospital yesterday afternoon in this city. Their talks were filled with patriotic sentiment. They said they are loyal to this country and loved its institutions. They have no hyphens to their

OUTLOOK'S ROUNDUP SUBSCRIPTION CONTEST—FREE TRIP TO PENDLETON

The Outlook with this issue inaugurates a plan whereby any lady in this county may secure a trip to the celebrated Roundup at Pendleton, Oregon, the greatest show of its kind on earth.

Contrary to most affairs of this nature conducted in this vicinity in the past, everyone who desires, and expends a little effort, may receive a trip. In fact all expenses will be paid, including seats in the grandstand at all performances at Roundup Park, automobile service to and from the Park, admission to "Happy Canyon," which is the most unique entertainment feature symbolic of real western frontier conditions ever staged. In fact, "Happy Canyon" is a miniature western town, peopled with the same characters—the cowboys, the bad men, the Indians and all the "fixin's" that comprised the orthodox hair-trigger west that is now almost a memory. First class hotel accommodations (meals included,) or sleeping quarters on one of the splendidly appointed trains that will be run under special schedule on all the railroads to Roundup. In case accommodations are used on the trains meals in the dining car will be included.

No effort will be spared that the ladies taking this trip will always be able to cherish their visit to the Roundup as one of the most enjoyable occasions of their lives. A committee from the company which is conducting these tours will be on hand to see to the comfort, welfare and enjoyment of their guests.

Here is the Plan.

The Outlook wants more readers and is willing to pay to get them.

Any young lady, married or single, residing in this county, may secure a trip for a few hours of pleasant work among her acquaintances. All you have to do is to obtain a few subscriptions to the Outlook. New yearly or half yearly subscriptions count. The fact the Outlook already has a large circulation will be of much help to you, as its readers know its value and will be willing to give you the encouragement of an advance subscription. This is not a contest where a few win and many lose, but every one who puts forth a little effort is sure to receive a trip. All you have to do is to obtain sixty subscriptions. Any ambitious young lady can do this in a few hours' time, easily. "All the world loves a lover," but no more than an ambitious young lady, and when your friends see that you are working for a trip
