

The first portrait painter of the United States to win general fame was Thomas Sully, who was born 132 years ago. One of the first celebrated American historical paintings, "Washington Crossing the Delaware," was the product of his genius. Sully established himself in Richmond as a portrait painter in 1803, but soon removed to New York, and in 1810 to Philadelphia, which city was afterward his home. In addition to "Washington Crossing the Delaware," his famous historical paintings include "The Capture of Major Andre" and "Miranda." As a portrait painter his most notable subjects were Thomas Jefferson, Lafayette, James Madison, John Marshall, Fanny Kemble and Queen Victoria. He visited England to paint the girl queen in her coronation robes. Sully lived to an advanced age, dying in Philadelphia in 1872.

"You must not be so quarrelsome, Willie," said William's father impressively. "Remember that the meek shall inherit the earth."
"Maybe they will hereafter," responded the young militant, "but around in my school they are used to wipe up the earth."—Chicago Herald.

Are You Looking Old?
Old age comes quick enough without inviting it. Some look old at forty. That is because they neglect the liver and bowels. Keep your bowels regular and your liver healthy and you will not only feel younger but look younger. When troubled with constipation or biliousness take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are intended especially for these ailments and are excellent. Easy to take and most agreeable in effect. For sale at Gresham Drug Store.—Adv.

MRS. LESTER SPENCER LAID TO REST

Mrs. Hattie Spencer, wife of Lester Spencer, passed away at the family home on the Base Line near Gresham, September 4, 1915, aged 44 years, 10 months and 5 days.

She is survived by her husband and two children, Harry L., aged 18 and Bertha H., aged 15, also her mother, Mrs. Charity Smith, and brother, Arza Smith of Gresham, two sisters, Mrs. S. E. Dorothy of Kennewick, and Mrs. Emma Randall of Walla Walla, Washington. Mrs. Spencer was born in Monroe county, Iowa, in 1870. She came west in 1885 with her parents and settled in Kennewick. She was married to Lester Spencer on July 29, 1893. In 1907 they came to their home near Gresham.

About two years ago Mrs. Spencer was attacked by cancer. Prompt surgical aid was given her and it seemed that the dread disease had been conquered. For several months she was able to take her old place in the home and in the community and church circles. About seven months ago, however, symptoms of the disease reappeared. Everything was done that was possible, but to no avail. She grew steadily worse and loved ones gathered to take their vigils over her restless pillow. She was a patient sufferer. As the pain became greater she longed for release, which came sweetly and quietly, with her dear ones around her. She was fully conscious to the end. A few moments before she breathed her last Mrs. Spencer read the motto on the wall, "Christ is the head of the house." She said to the members of her family, "I want you to take up your church and Sunday school work as you did before I was ill." She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, an earnest and devoted Christian, a beautiful and unselfish character.

The funeral services were held yesterday from the Methodist church in Gresham, of which Mrs. Spencer was a member, Rev. Melville T. Wire officiated. A large concourse of friends gathered to pay their last tribute to a loved and faithful friend. The interment was in Mt. Scott Park cemetery.

Music was furnished by a quartet composed of C. E. Rusher, Miss Echo Jones, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. St. Clair, with Mrs. Jas. Sterling as organist.

The pall bearers were J. N. Faris, Wm. Stanley, O. I. Neal, Andrew Brugger, Fred Chamberlain and Chas. H. Lane.

Certainly, an auto or other vehicle is going to be entitled to one-half of the new roads, but it is going to be supererogation of the whaddyallit for the driver to insist upon taking his half out of the middle of the road.

Peaches have been so plentiful in Portland that they sold on wharves for 19 cents a box, but when you tell your groceryman this he just smiles wearily.

Leg Crushed by Lumber.

C. W. Olds, a son of Ed. Olds, a bridge contractor of Oak Grove, was severely injured last Saturday while hauling lumber for bridge work being done on the Sandy river bridge near T. J. Maupin's place. The chain holding the lumber slipped while the load was being hauled down a hill, causing the load to slide forward. Mr. Norman, a fellow workman of Olds, was thrown from the load and rendered unconscious. Farther down the hill Olds was thrown from the wagon, which ran over his right leg, crushing it badly. He was rushed to Good Samaritan hospital in Portland, where his condition is reported improved.

Mr. Norman proved himself a real hero. When he regained consciousness he heard Olds calling for help. He ran to him and found his condition serious. Although Norman is a small man, weighing only about 140 pounds, and Olds is a six-footer, weighing about 180 pounds, Norman carried the injured man to the stream, one hundred yards distant, and commenced bathing his wounds and calling for help. Mr. Maupin and others heard and responded to the call. Dr. Inglis was summoned from Gresham and an ambulance from Portland.

Mr. Maupin praises the Gresham telephone operator, who cleared the lines and kept them open for those summoning help.

Both of the unfortunate men had their left leg broken in three places and were otherwise injured. White was slightly bruised and all were taken to a Portland hospital. The accident occurred near the grave of big fir trees on the Sandy road and all were riding without lights.
