Official paper of the Town of Gresham, Oregon. Official paper of the Town of Fairview, Oregon.

Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

A SUBJECT OF INTEREST.

There will be a conference of county fair officials tomorrow at Corvallis, with delegates from many parts of the state.

The subject of his discourse will be, "How to Run a Fair Without Wild West Roundup Features."

The Wild West shows and round-up that were proclaimed to be the greatest attraction last year at Vancouver were really its undoing.

The Multnomah county fair is not inclined to pay carnival promoters a big sum to be the attraction, but depends on its displays and educational features to attract people.

EDUCATION OR FOOTBALL?

Significant of some of the changes in university ideas and programs is the announcement that Brown university, of Providence, R. I., will admit students at mid-year.

To some of the more conservative the idea of two entering classes in a college year presents difficulties, but the Brown authorities say there will be no changes in the curriculum.

To the observing mind it is apparent that the change is hardly in the interests of education. The defeat of the Brown's football team at Los Angeles on Saturday by the Washington state agricultural team leads one to believe that football players are more in demand at Brown than students.

Mid-year admissions may become popular wherever athletics are indulged in—even in high school if athletes are needed.

Remember that the Lord forgave all his enemies and persecutors, and you cannot claim much consideration from Him unless you do the same.

Sheriff Hariburt is entitled to the thanks of the whole community for his prompt action in the Kemp matter. Although thwarted by the brute's suicide the efforts to capture him were made with a determination that would have been successful in the end.

NOW HERE'S 1916 and here's a Happy and Prosperous 1916 to you. Have you ever thought how a bank account in a Good Reliable Bank like this would help to lighten your work...

REPRESENTATIVE LEWIS.

State Representative D. C. Lewis will, in all probability be a candidate for re-election.

His platform of two years ago breathed of the spirit—contained in the recent resolutions adopted by the irrigation congress at Portland, which means, if carried into effect, a greater Portland—a greater and better Oregon, with increased and improved facilities for transportation, and an ultimate cutting up of the large land holdings in the Willamette Valley into smaller farms, thereby resulting in better home life and increased farm and food products.

He believes in equalized taxation. Good roads constructed under a "Good roads law," and not under a law inviting waste and graft; he stands for economy under all branches of government—city, state, school, municipal and has the courage to stand up on his high heels and fight for these things.

The legislative body of Portland holds three and four sessions each week for the needs of Portland alone, while in the state the legislation body must do all its work for the state, for two years, in a forty day session and if that body makes a mistake censure usually follows.

A good rule to follow in a prohibition state would be to eat moderately, be careful with beverages, do something good for somebody who needs it, don't expect too much for yourself, subscribe for the Outlook and remember that your 1916 taxes will soon be due.

The experience of Mrs. Mabel Myers should be a warning to all women and girls not to go in unfrequented places alone, either by day or night. There may be other such brutes as Kemp, and it is better to be careful than to take the risk.

A St. Louis man who claims to have $4000, says he has been jilted 150 times and is still proposing. If he would keep his mouth shut he might have a proposal during the present year that would get a tall hold on that four thousand.

Those beautiful New Year resolutions we made a year ago are going to serve us just as well as some new ones, as they are scarcely worn at all and are in good condition.

This cold spell has loosened the clutches of la grippe, but it has also turned our minds to the other troubles of life that la grippe relieved us of for a short while.

February, with only 29 days, will compel us to get the Outlook out nine times next month. Somebody will have to "start something" to furnish us copy.

The 29th of February falls on Tuesday, which is not pay day anywhere that we know of, so its going to be a day's work for nothing.

Leap year brings with it to women the privilege of registering without telling their age. But they must register if they want to vote.

In looking back over last year it is better to think of the things you might have said than to regret some of the things you did say.

"German outlook seized by the allies," is seen in a headline. Oh, well; people fight for the Outlook over here, too.

If you have failed to get the habit of writing it "1916" by this time, suppose you try it on a check made payable to the Outlook.

THE CHRISTIAN SABBATH

By C. M. BROWN. Chapter 2.

In our first article we noticed that in the beginning darkness brooded over the great mass of unorganized matter.

How long this condition existed we do not know, but we are positive of one thing, that there was no day until God said, "Let there be light and there was light." Up to this dark time it was the unknown shoreless eternally robed in eternal darkness, and unmeasured by the flight of time, or the alternation of day and night.

The first book of the Bible opens with a description of things at the beginning and the last book of the Bible closes with a description of things as they will be when time ceases and eternity prevails again. The beloved disciple while in exile on Patmos saw things as they will be in the eternity of the future.

The same conclusion must be reached here as before, that there being no alternations of day and night, and no periods of reckoning there can be no returning Sabbath.

This old universe, of which we are an infinitesimal part is sweeping gradually on from eternal night to eternal day. This is true in many ways. We find ourselves here in this state limited by a mixture of light and darkness, but our faces are turned toward the rising sun, and we are in pursuit of more light, and every revolution of the planets by which we calculate time brings us nearer to its source.

Here we are limited to both time and space, and measure them by comparisons either to the revolutions of the planets or to a line between two given points, but when we are disconnected with material things, time and distance will be swallowed up in eternity and space, and the little reckonings that we use as a matter of convenience while here in the flesh will forever pass away, and we will spend our endless life in one eternal, sun-kissed day amid the resplendent glories prepared for the people of God.

With these preliminary thoughts before us we are ready to take up, the method by which God has made known His will to man, and has revealed to him the grounds of his faith and practice.

Those who breakfast at eight o'clock or later, lunch at twelve and have dinner at six are almost certain to be troubled with indigestion. They do not allow time for one meal to digest before taking another. Not less than five hours should elapse between meals. If you are troubled with indigestion correct your habits and take Chamberlain's Tablets, and you may reasonably hope for a quick recovery.
