A Drama You Will Never Forget.

'SCANDAL'

A 5-Reel Broadway Feature, written and Produced by Lois Weber.
This remarkable life drama is too real, too human, for mere words. It hits you and me and our neighbors. It makes us remember and regret every word of idle gossip we have ever repeated. From plot to production this film satisfies. Do not fail to see it for it is one of the biggest plays ever produced.

YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO MISS THIS GREAT PHOTO PLAY
It is one that everyone in this town or any other should by all means see. Words cannot express its superiority.

The Faithful Horse.

I don't know who wrote this toast to the horse, but I'd rather read it than Veat's dog speech:
"Here's to that bundle of sentiment nerves with the heart of a woman, the eye of a gazelle, the courage of a gladiator, the docility of a slave, the proud carriage of a king and the blind obedience of a soldier; the companion of the desert plain that turns the moist furrows in the spring in order that all the world may have abundant harvest, that furnishes the sport of kings, that with blazing eye and distended nostril fearlessly leads our greatest generals through carnage and renown, whose blood forms one of the ingredients that go to make the ink in which all history is written and who finally, in black trappings, pulls the humblest of us to the newly soded threshold of eternity."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

ALL THE DOINGS OF YOUR HOME TOWN

A marriage license was issued to Philip J. Cloninger of Portland, and Miss Bonita June Metzger, at Vancouver on Wednesday, where they were married. Miss Metzger is well known in Gresham where she was born and raised.

Just a reminder and for reference in the days to come, it is chronicled here that there has been snow on the ground since Tuesday, December 28. It is snowing today, with an east wind, but the snow is only about three inches deep and so far has not exceeded that depth.

Floyd Metzger, who has been spending a few weeks at home, will return to the O. A. C. at Corvallis, to resume his studies next Monday.

J. T. Stillions has moved his plumbing shop from the Ross building to the Sell building formerly occupied by the Acetylene Gas Co., on Second street.

Gresham Grange will hold an all-day meeting tomorrow, the principal event of which will be the installation of officers. A good lecture program will be given.

S. E. Palmquist, the Gresham harness maker, has installed a new machine and started a new line of work, that of repairing automobile curtains. He will sew in celluloid curtains or any other repairing.

Before the last M. E. Ladies' Aid chicken pie supper the ladies bought a gross of individual pie plates. They were given out and now there are one dozen and a half of them missing. Anyone having some of these tins will please return them to Sterling & Kidder or the Bank of Gresham.

S. B. Hall is getting the indorsement of several granges of the county for the position of county agriculturist. He is now at Corvallis, in attendance upon the Farmers' course. As he is a graduate of the O. A. C. he is directly in line for the appointment.

A bicycle stolen from Latourell's garage several weeks ago has been identified as one found in the cabin of E. B. Kemp.

The Queen Esther Circle will hold a bake sale at Metzger Bros. store, Saturday afternoon, January 8, beginning at 2 p. m.

Rev. R. D. Streyfeller, of Seattle, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Plumlee. He will hold a series of meetings in a Portland church.

Attention is called to the ad in this issue of the Sundial Feed Mill of Fairview which will be found regularly in Friday's Outlook. The Sundial people are large dealers and shippers and draw patronage from a very large territory. Farmers and dairymen cannot do better than watch for their quotations and extend to them a generous patronage.

Mrs. J. E. Metzger left on Wednesday for Los Angeles to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Carlson.

Mrs. Ella Aton has returned home from Mrs. A. C. Whilon's, whom she was nursing for a few days.

Feeding the birds is not only a pleasurable pastime but it should be made a duty. With the snow too deep for them to find their natural sources of food it is not only a charity but a necessity that a few crumbs, fine grain or suet be placed where they will find it in some sheltered place.

Will Walker, a brother of Mrs. Carl Dahl, and Miss Lottie Vinton, of Grass Valley, visited here the first of the week.

Ben Rollins is confined to his bed with the grip, but is somewhat improved today.

Bert Thomas is spending a few days here, having been called from Toledo, Washington, by the sickness and death of his father. Mr. Thomas is in business in Toledo under the firm name of the Toledo Hardware Co., and says his business of general hardware and farm implements is growing and prospects are good.

A recent item in the Outlook referred to Emery's auto truck as the Reliable auto truck. That was a mistake only in the matter of a capital "R." Gresham has two auto trucks hauling between Gresham and Portland and both are "reliable." But it happens one is known as the Reliable Truck Service and that one is owned and run by Hoss Brothers (Bert and Fred), who in addition to general hauling have been lately transporting quite a few cows for T. R. Howitt, which shows the many uses which may be made of the auto trucks.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Mack, the latter having been Miss Pearl Jones, are making a bridal tour of the middle west. They left on Tuesday for Chicago and will revisit the scenes of their youth. They were raised near each other and were acquainted before coming to Oregon. They expect to be away several months.

LIBRARY NOTES

Harper's Weekly has begun a new department with the new year. The editor, Mr. Norman Heggood plans to spend the winter in Washington where he can be in close touch with affairs of state. He will write on "The Nation's Capitol" touching upon all the big questions of the day. This magazine is on file at the library. Back numbers may be taken out.

The School Arts magazine has been added to the magazines received at the library for 1916.

The library circulated twenty-two more books in December than in November, not a large gain but we hope to be of more service this month. These cold days are just the time to snuggle into a warm corner with an interesting book.

Discipline Among Baboons.

The baboons of Africa probably have the best military regulations of any of the animals. While they are feeding in a dangerous place, they set sentries on every side—big, wise, veteran baboons that sit perfectly quiet and keep a vigilant watch. At a sharp bark of warning from one of these outposts, every ape ceases his occupation; even the babies hush their cries on the instant. At another bark all may resume work or play, or again, the second note may carry a different message; then the leader gives an order, and all retreat rapidly to the denser part of the forest.

When traveling, these creatures have both a front and a rear guard. Half a dozen powerful apes scout well in front of the main body, now inspecting the woods from the ground, now climbing to the tops of the tallest trees. If the traveler comes upon a tribe of baboons he usually sees only one of the scouts, who bares his teeth savagely, barks once and is gone. Farther away the hunter may observe the whipping of branches as the rest of the tribe retreat so rapidly that no man can overtake them. Should the observer happen upon the rear guard he will observe that they behave differently from the scouts. Not silent or cautious, they constantly give quick, sharp commands, now angrily chiding some lagging youngster or giving another a slap and a bite.

As far as we know, the baboons are the only apes or other animals that post a sentry at night. Commonly, they sleep in caves among the cliffs, and when all have retired to rest you may be sure that one of their number will be wide awake, sitting on some exposed rock or other point of vantage from which he can see in every direction. Not even the leopard, the most determined foe of the baboon, dares attack them at night, unless he can surprise and kill the sentry. When attacked they will fight in defense of their families until the last "man" is dead.

Under An Avalanche.

Human beings occasionally live through incredibly long imprisonments after their dwellings have been overwhelmed by avalanches. On March 19, 1755, avalanches buried the village of Bergemolletto, in the Italian Alps, and on April 25 three women were dug out alive from a stable in which they had been immured for thirty-seven days in the dark beneath the mass of snow which lay forty-two feet higher than the roof. With them had been buried a little boy, six goats, a donkey and some hens.

The child, the donkey and the fowls soon died, but the goats helped the women to survive, their milk supplementing the thirty or forty cakes and the pocketful of chestnuts upon which they depended for food. Hope of finding the women alive had been abandoned when far in April the brother of one had a dream in which she appealed to him for rescue. The weather then at last made excavation possible, and the women were restored to the world and presently to health.—Chicago News.

Alex. Swanson, of West Concord, N. H., a granite cutter, possesses two peculiar characteristics. His hands work in unison—that is, a movement of one involuntarily causes the other hand to perform the same function, and while he has an abundance of hair on his head, he has never had to use a razor on his face.

AWAY WITH NEW YEARS' RESOLUTIONS

GET IN THE HARNESS AND DO.

It is worth more to you than all the resolutions that you can frame. The world is looking for the man who does things and not for the man who resolves to do something.

The way to have a bank account is to start one and not resolve to start one. The time to start one is Now. Today not tomorrow.

A FEDERAL RESERVE BANK OFFICER said recently in our presence, that there were more and better opportunities for the young men of today than ever before, that he knew of one firm on the Pacific Coast who were now looking and had been looking for more than one year for a young man to fill a position at $10,000 per year.

That man must be a man who had made his way, capable of saving, and handling not only his own affairs but that of others profitably.

A good time to start that bank account is right now. A good place the
