CAPITAL AT HOME.

While the fervid orators of the farmers' associations are shouting themselves into an attack of bronchitis it may not be amiss for the newspapers to have a little something to say on the subject of rural credits—or cheaper money, for they both amount to the same thing.

The first step toward securing cheap money is more of an individual matter than of legislation. And here, as elsewhere, the first step must be taken by the people themselves.

Such legislation as we usually rely upon to cheapen money and make it abundant fails to accomplish much. It is a mistake to expect outside capitalists to do for us what is within the range of our own achievement.

The first step toward an abundance of cheap money is the creation of capital by the people of any state, and intelligent thrift and enterprise are necessary. For instance, if Oregon farmers become thrifty and industrious enough to feed themselves, their stock and the urban population of the state, they will keep in this state not less than $50,000,000 annually that now goes elsewhere. This amount saved would prove the foundation of a supply of home capital that would revolutionize business, industry and agriculture everywhere in the state of Oregon.

Where did the outside capital we so earnestly desire originate? In the thrift of people situated probably not so advantageously in all respects as the people of Oregon are. The factory operatives and artisans of the east are our chief capitalists. They deposit their money in savings banks and by the savings banks it is lent at low rates of interest to the captains of industry and transportation.

The thrifty people who insure their lives in the old line companies concentrate in the money centers of the country hundreds of millions of dollars that is put to work in every possible wealth-creating way.

The farmers of Iowa, Illinois, Ohio, Wisconsin and Michigan are wealthy. They made their money and saved it, and it is at work doing a multitude of things that result in a greater growth of wealth.

Who are the capitalists of France and Germany? In the final analysis the peasantry and artisans. They toil industriously and intelligently, they avoid waste and save their money. They are paying out the vast sums of money needed to finance the greatest war the world has ever known.

Oregon wastes enough annually to constitute the foundation of an abundant supply of capital, and what it loses through unaccepted opportunities is beyond calculation.

Simple and prudent living, industry, thrift and an intelligent regard for opportunity might enable the people of Oregon to add to their supply of capital fully $100,000,000 a year. In ten years the capital thus accumulated would more than equal the present taxable values of the state. Then there would be an abundance of cheap money.

Capital is stored labor and labor is stored by setting apart day by day and year by year a little to safeguard the prudent toiler against the rainy day. When we demonstrate that we can create capital and take care of it, the outside capitalist will not hesitate to come to Oregon when he has the assurance that his investments are to be protected.

That new registration law is going to disfranchise many hyphenated patriots and some others, but then they still have the opportunity to become real Americans they have been thinking they were. The naturalization judges are never too busy to hand out the papers.

The St. Louis business man who gave his seven children $80,000 each on his birthday may have the glorious privilege of adopting a Gresham newspaper writer before his next birthday if he has another eighty thousand to spare.

Primary votes cost the public treasury about one dollar each, and, as in the case of most other public expenditures, the plain people pay the bills and the chosen candidates get the benefit.

A distressing feature of the "spring lingering in the lap of winter" scheme is that many persons are compelled to buy wood with the money they really ought to spend for gasoline.

A fine run of maple sap is reported in the maple sugar states, but out here we color the plain sugar syrup with mapleine and imagine we are fooling ourselves.

Boiling in oil was once a favorite mode of punishment in some countries, but that was before the by-products of crude petroleum became so valuable.

If General Pershing captures Villa and brings him to the United States he might get thirty days with a suspended sentence. Let Carrana catch him.

An eastern writer is in Oregon "feeling the political pulse." If he is an expert he will find quite a number of pulse owners here want an office.

It will be "peas at any price" for our dinner tables from now on. The California variety is in the markets at twofold a quarter.

Home-cured, smoked meats are getting to be such a rarity that we wonder where the wandering smoke-house is tonight.

Another evidence of prosperity is the unusual activity in Vancouver of marriage licenses within the past month.

The county will spend $2,000 on guideposts and signs this year, so why not have a Guidepost Day.

Next thing we hear from Villa will be the inquiry of who put fun in Funston.

Overcrowded street cars never do any damage to the company's profits.

Nothing Unusual.
"Better interview the Lady Eglantine," suggested the managing editor of the New York Daily Squash.

"Why, she's a hen. A hen can't do anything but cackle."
"Well, we've printed worse interviews. Go ahead."

PLEASANT VALLEY

Leland Moore made a business trip to Corvallis Monday, returning Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Hazel Lodge, of Washburn, Illinois, is spending a few weeks visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Campbell.

Ernest Olson, of Sellwood, paid a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Olson, last Saturday.

Mrs. Benj. Matthews, of Gresham, was a guest at the home of her mother, Mrs. Henry Troge, during the fore part of the week.

Mrs. W. G. Rogers was in Salem on business matters a couple of days this week.

Miss Lura Elwood, who has a position as teacher in the Stevenson, Washington, school, came down Saturday and visited over Sunday with her sister, Mrs. W. G. Rogers.

The stork paid a visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Young last Sunday afternoon and left a fine baby girl.

Mrs. Lewis Yan of Ridgefield, Washington, formerly of this place and known to her many friends here as Miss Mary Baxter, is the mother of a little daughter.

Last Sunday's storm, which did so much damage to the west and north of this place, passed over the northern edge of the valley but beyond felling a few large trees did no damage.

The Pleasant Valley Dramatic club will put on their drama "The Great Catastrophe" at Sandy next Saturday night, March 25th.

Pleasant Valley grange will convene in regular session at their hall next Saturday, Mr. Chamberlain of Corbett and other speakers will address the grange on the question of co-operation in buying and selling. A good program is assured.

HILLSVIEW

Mrs. Heacock, who has been visiting with her daughters in eastern Oregon the greater part of winter, returned home last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Look, of Lents, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Yunker Friday.

Miss Lydia Mueller, of Montavilla, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. M. Doryland.

Mr. Mueller is grafting for A. E. Forsyth.

E. L. Jackson and family, of Portland, have moved onto their place here.

Sunday School Convention.

The Multnomah County Sunday School association convention will be held at the First Congregational church, Portland, next Tuesday and Wednesday. There will be afternoon and evening sessions, good programs of music, discussions and business affairs.

Glycerine and Bark Prevent Appendicitis.

The simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-ika, astonishes Gresham people. Because Adler-ika acts on BOTH lower and upper bowel, ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. It removes such surprising foul matter that a few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. The INSTANT easy action of Adler-ika is astonishing.
