BUYERS' WEEK.

For six days commencing August 7, and ending August 12, the people of Oregon will be given the greatest opportunity of their lives to lay in a supply of all kinds of reasonable merchandise in the city of Portland at prices which cannot be surpassed at any other time nor in any other place in the state. The occasion is to be known as Buyers' week.

It is not a new idea, nor is it the first of the kind to be held in Portland. The occasion is the climax of half a century of effort and is now in operation in practically every big city in the United States. Portland is doing what all the other cities of its class are doing—making an effort to sell to the people of the whole state during one week what they will need for months to come, and in some instances lifetime conveniences.

The plan is not to sell goods much cheaper than at other seasons except at retail, but buyers to certain amounts will be refunded their transportation. All visitors from a distance will get a fare of one and one-third for the round trip. Practically every merchant in the city is making special preparations in the way of goods and prices for this sale, and those in need of anything from a dishpan to a complete outfit for a home, or from a pair of hose to a complete clothing outfit, shoes and all, will find their opportunity to lay in merchandise at the very lowest possible prices.

Now, the idea of this article is not to advertise Portland, for the merchants down there will attend to that without any outside assistance. Our sole aim and object is to urge upon the country merchants to be prepared with merchandise and prices to meet the competition. A concerted movement in the matter of displays and announcements of the very lowest possible prices for everything that is on sale would doubtless tend to keep a great portion of the money at home.

It might be urged that a buyers' week in Gresham or in the surrounding towns be held in advance of August 7th. That matter is a question for the merchants themselves to decide, but if they wait until the last minute their expected customers will be attracted by the glowing advertisements from Portland and make up their minds to go there for their purchases.

The several houses in Gresham dealing in special lines can easily step in ahead of Portland with their announcements even should they decide to offer their reductions at the same time. Portland is reaching out for all the trade of this section, regardless of the fact that it sells the same goods wholesale to the dealers here. The idea should be to "beat them to it."

ABOLISH FREE SEEDS.

Recently, by a vote of 33 to 21 the United States senate adopted an amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill abolishing free government seeds. It is to be hoped the senate conference committee will sustain the amendment when the bill is reported back for passage. This disgraceful little item of political graft has lived long enough.

And when the Outlook expresses its contempt for it, no one must understand that it objects in the slightest degree to the expenditure of a generous sum to introduce improved varieties of seeds among the farmers of the United States.

But let the experts of the department of agriculture working in connection with the state and federal experiment stations, through the county agents and others so qualified, attend to the distributions of these seeds so that the scientific benefit of such distribution may be realized. Let the seeds be purchased for the inadaptability to soils and climates with a view to improving agriculture—not purchased in bulk from the lowest bidder and with no reference to their age or to soils or climates.

The "congressional" seeds are distributed by congressmen for political benefits, and are allotted to all alike, and city congressmen who have no agricultural constituents have been known to sell their share to rural representatives for what they would bring.

The present method of purchasing and distributing seeds is dishonest and scandalous. The senate ought to insist upon its amendment.

FACTORIES WANTED.

The Outlook's Portland correspondent tells us that there are great factory sites standing vacant on the peninsula and that one man who represents 400 acres is willing to give half of them to others who will build and equip manufacturing there.

There is no denying the fact that the peninsula has vast factory facilities that may become more valuable and ideal whenever the Columbia slough is dredged out. There are other vast tracts all the way to Troutdale, and in other places, where their owners would give generously of their land to have factories located; but, somehow the factories don't come to be located. There must be a reason why they do not.

Everyone realizes that just now, while the war in Europe is still in progress, that new factories will not be built with the cost of raw material at such a high figure; but after awhile the war will end, there will be many men already here without work and many more will come. Then will be the psychological time to build factories here and run them profitably.

Just what kind of factories would be the best for this part of the northwest no one has dared to intimate. But it would seem that the great railroads entering Portland could direct factory builders here. Such men should be urged to come and be assured of good treatment in the shipment of their commodities both in the raw and finished state. There is room for them, for all the men they can employ and for the other lines of enterprise that would follow.

We cannot escape the thought that in the day when all the girls are holding down genteel jobs and all the boys are professional men, it is going to be hard to snapshot a girl with a frying pan in her hand or find a boy doing a lively stunt in the garden patch. By that time the Japs will be holding down the drugery occupations.

"You can't love your friend and do him an injury," says Billy Sunday. We had a father who loved us and he came very near tearing our pants off several times a week, and at a time when pants were scarce in this neck of the woods. But that was in the old pioneer days and times have changed.

A New York soldier in a Houston hospital is receiving bunches of fresh flowers every day from Houston girls. We mention the matter to let Oregon know that her boys are safe while in Texas. If they get sick Texas will mother them, sister them and sweetheart them back to health.

If some arrangement could have been made to shoot all that rainwater into the Bull Run pipe it would have helped some in keeping the meters going a little harder; which would have made joy in the heart of Commissioner Daly, Portland's meter advocate.

An exchange says that every girl should be like Hetty Green. If there were about 1999 just like her all the wealth in the United States would be absorbed by them and it would be hash and the wash tub for the rest of them.

No doubt but many of the boys at the border would like to come home, but the Mexican situation has now reached the point where it would be disastrous to make another blunder.

We have an intuitive fear that we are about to fatten our blunder average in the Mexican trouble by taking too much stock in Carranza's promises.

It is a good thing that Russia is such a big country. Otherwise it wouldn't have room to stow away all those prisoners it says that is taking.

This is pretty good weather, too, for checking the melting snows in the mountains and allowing the flood to run itself out to sea.

MOTION PICTURE CENSORSHIP.

The moving picture shows of Portland are again in the throes of agony because their owners have no appeal from the board of censors appointed by Mayor Albee. They are endeavoring to have the ordinance changed so that a rejected film may be reviewed on appeal to the courts.

The movie proprietors may be right and probably have some grievances, but the growth of the motion picture business has increased the demand for censorship. The viewing of films with the object of rejecting those that do not come up to standard depends for its practicability on standard adopted. It has been found in certain cities that the quality generally required of legitimate stage productions should also be required of the motion picture houses. Censorship of the theater is seldom necessary, but when it is, the ends seem to be achieved with comparative ease. The reason that there is more trouble in passing on films is possibly that there are fifty motion picture houses where there is only one or two theaters.

In Portland nearly all of the many picture theaters have shown a willingness to improve conditions by the careful selection of pictures, especially for children. The theory presumably is that adults desire opportunity to see anything that the producers may believe that there is money in. The contention of the Portland movie men seems to be a just one and if not granted will be but another item in the struggle now under way to abolish commission form of government.

LOSS TO FARMERS.

Incalculable damage has been done the hay and fruit crops by the rains of the past three days. Practically all the grass has been cut and about half of it is yet unshocked. Unless the sun comes out good and hot there will be very little hay in western Oregon this season.

Fruit picking is at a standstill, with much of the berry crop getting too soft for use. The damage in that line cannot be computed.

As to potatoes, the blight is upon many patches already and a few days' hot sun will show its ravages. In the meantime it would be wisdom for every potato grower to make preparation for spraying, as by that means only can great loss be prevented.

Gresham had the only good-weather chautauqua week so far this season. This fact should be remembered when making up your chautauqua itinerary for next year.

Hood River apple crop promises to be the best every this year. Billy Sunday is rusticating on his ranch there and teaching them how to be good.

The political campaign is so dead just now that we fancy the candidates have to pinch themselves every day to realize that they are running for office.

Biliousness and Stomach Trouble.
 "Two years ago I suffered from frequent attacks of stomach trouble and biliousness," writes Miss Emma Verbyke, Lima, Ohio. "I could eat very little food that agreed with me and I became so dizzy and sick at my stomach at times that I had to take hold of something to keep from falling. Seeing Chamberlain's Tablets advertised I decided to try them. I improved rapidly." For sale by Gresham Drug Co.—Adv.
