Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

A STEADY BILLION.

We have had three successive record-breaking crops of wheat in the United States, the total for each of the last three years being larger than for that just preceding until the figures crossed the billion mark in 1915 for the first time in our history.

Perhaps we shall yet put the billion total on the records as the permanent mark for the United States. It was only by a gradual climb that we reached the half billion point, and when it was attained in 1882 and 1884 we slipped down from it at once and did not recover the lost ground for seven years.

Of course, we cannot now look forward to the enormous extension of acreage that swelled our wheat figures after the western states were opened to civilization, but it may be hoped that improved methods will do to some extent what new fields did before in the way of increasing the total yield.

This year, however, with only 550,000,000 bushels, we shall have to exercise prudence and must expect to pay high prices for bread, for the effect of war demands on our greatly restricted supply is bound to keep the market at high points during the coming winter.

CONSPICUOUSLY ABSENT.

The absence of horsedrawn vehicles at public gatherings these days, which in times gone by brought many horses and buggies from all over the country, is conspicuous enough to attract attention and comment.

Not many years ago it was said that it was only a question of a few years until the horse would disappear. The horse has not disappeared, nor is he likely to. Instead his value has risen and his worth in certain classes of delivery service, on the farm and in the army was never more generally recognized.

Nevertheless, no one can deny a revolution in transportation methods has taken place. Along the main thoroughfares of every city there pours an almost continuous stream of motor driven vehicles.

The proportion of horse-drawn vehicles is small, and in the evening one is unusual enough to attract a second glance, or a word of comment. The same change is taking place in rural districts. Hitching racks have given way to parking spaces. Country livery stables are fewer and the places of many have been taken by garages.

If you are opposed to borrowing an umbrella for these late summer showers you might make a compromise with your conscience by borrowing the amount necessary to buy one.

A 75-year-old husband in Missouri spent only a dime a year on his 72-year-old wife, and she wants a divorce. Perhaps she's just made up her mind that he's stingy.

Congress may not be able to adjourn by September 1, but it will not be because most of the members are not willing to get into the campaign game.

More than 1000 kinds of sausage are known in Germany, but it has never been reported that there is more than one kind of sauerkraut.

Counterfeit dentists' certificates are reported to be on sale in Chicago. The punishment should not be painless.

Austria is said to be hinting at a separate peace. Austria evidently isn't keen for that last ditch stuff.

WOMEN ON RECORD.

Whether the National woman's party acted wisely, from the political point of view, time will show. But it at least put itself on record. The conference did not indorse the candidacy of Mr. Hughes although it commended his stand for women's suffrage.

We hold that the question of conferring the right of suffrage upon men and women should remain exclusively a question to be determined by the people of the states and we again recommend that the question of suffrage to women be submitted in 1917.

There can be no doubt as to the democratic position or that of the president.

In spite of additional expenses due to the war, the street railways of Vienna, owned by the city, paid into the Vienna treasury during the first year of the war the sum of $466,900. The report for the fiscal year in question shows that, whereas the city-owned street railways employed in normal peace times 12,368 persons, they lost 5,700 immediately to the army and 1,704 later, and were obliged to fill the vacancies largely with women.

An eastern doctor says one's regular diet should be varied with fruit. The Oregon plan is to vary it with a dish of loganberries in the morning, a piece of loganberry pie at noon and a glass of juice in the evening. That ought to please the doctor if he ever hears about it.

Japanese manufacturers have many agents traveling in the Central American republics seeking to extend the sale of Japanese goods there, according to information received by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce in Washington. One of the lines being pushed is Japanese matches.

This year's wheat crop, it is officially announced, will be sufficient for home consumption, and there will be enough left for normal export requirements. So the people who want us to export wheat to them had better get normal.

The official announcement from Washington that the end of the heated term is at hand is cordially welcome everywhere, and all that it will take to make us believe it is a little summer weather in this section of the United States.

Gasoline prices dropped two cents in New York a few days ago, and the contagion will reach here in due time. So perhaps you might as well take the money you had left after your vacation expenses were paid, and buy a car.

The inquisitive subscriber at Rockwood wants to know what this strange rural credits measure is. Well, it's a law that will allow farmers to deposit squashes at the bank as security, or something like that.

If you are opposed to borrowing an umbrella for these late summer showers you might make a compromise with your conscience by borrowing the amount necessary to buy one.

Just the Thing for Diarrhoea. "About two years ago I had a severe attack of diarrhoea which lasted over a week," writes W. C. Jones, Buford, N. D. "I became so weak that I could not stand upright. A druggist recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The first dose relieved me and within two days I was as well as ever." Many druggists recommend this remedy because they know that it is reliable. For sale at Gresham Drug Store.—Adv.

The official organization for handling trade between Germany and Russian Poland, now occupied by the German armies, consists at present of seventy Chambers of Commerce. It has published a report stating that the total value of sales effected between German and Polish firms through the organization has been more than $2,380,000. The organization has appointed 200 agents to represent German firms in Poland. To aid in teaching the touch system of typewriting or piano playing there has been invented a horizontal shield that is worn on the nose and supported from the ears like spectacles.
