FRIDAYS

VOL. 3, NO. 51

GRESHAM, MULTNOMAH COUNTY, OREGON, FRIDAY, AUGUST 25, 1916

$1.50 PER YEAR

OUTCOME OF CELEBRATION WAS SUCCESS

Tuesday evening's celebration in honor of the completion of the hard surfacing of Main street and the completion of the county road systems was all that its promoters anticipated.

All arrangements had been completed and everything was in readiness for the carnival when the P. R. L. & P. company's band and the speakers arrived.

The streets were brilliantly lighted, also the improvised stand on the Ely block, while numerous evergreen decorations were placed along the two blocks that had been roped off for the occasion.

Mayor G. W. Stapleton made an address of welcome, reviewing the incidents that led up to the improvement of the street and roads, and welcomed everybody. Everybody on this occasion being about 2,000 persons who lined every available vantage point along the walks and in autos that crowded the other vacant spaces.

Mr. Stapleton was followed by George S. Sheppard, John B. Yeon, A. Benson and O. W. Tarr. All spoke in glowing words of the great improvements that had been made and predicted a greater interest in the future of eastern Multnomah in consequence.

A pre-arranged diversion was created when Harold C. Jones, a member of the Portland Business Men's club, attired as a typical old-time rube drove up in a one-hoss shay and interrupted Mr. Yeon with a tirade against modern street improvements.

He mounted the platform and told how the farmer in olden times was satisfied with corduroy roads and ox teams, and scored the present methods of transportation in unmerciful terms. He was unceremoniously jerked from the platform and in the excitement a dummy was substituted for him and burned at the stake with appropriate cheers from the excited crowd.

The evening closed with a free watermelon feast and street dancing to the music of the band. The evening was ideal and the whole program was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

WOOD-VOGEL NUPTIALS WEDNESDAY EVENING

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wood on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Wood's daughter Miss Edna Vogel and Mr. Lynn A. Wood of Portland, being the contracting parties. Miss Cherry Conroy sang "I Love Thee", after which Rev. Mr. Harmon, of Montavilla, performed the ceremony. About fifty relatives and friends attended.

Many beautiful and useful presents were received. Those who assisted in serving were Miss Helen Hoss, Miss Miriam Brown, Miss Gladys Michel and Mrs. Mary Wood. The young couple left for a short trip to the beach with the best wishes of their many friends. Upon their return they will reside in their own home at No. 23 East Seventy-sixth street, Portland, Oregon.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS, PROBABLY POISONED

Fred Glockner, a hardware merchant at Sandy, was unaccountably missing from his home on Wednesday last and was later found by a search party lying unconscious in a field on the bluff road.

M. A. Deaton headed the searching party and brought him home where medical aid was summoned and he was later taken to a Portland hospital.

Reports this morning state that he is still unconscious and shows indications of having been poisoned, but whether by accident or intentionally is not known. There are strong hopes of his recovery.

The celebration of the opening of the railroad to Marshfield is one deserving the attention it is receiving. It is a state affair, a part of a great program in progress to reach the state a network of railroads reaching all sections. Whatever helps one section, helps all sections.—Albany Democrat.

FAVORS CONSTRUCTION OF MT. HOOD LOOP

The scenic loop around Mount Hood from Hood River to the Barlow road with its gateway to the Willamette valley through Gresham, is receiving attention again.

Resolutions in favor of the immediate construction of the link road connecting the Hood River Valley with the Barlow road, forming a loop around the base of Mount Hood, have been adopted by the Commercial club of Hood River.

The resolutions indorse the recent application of the Oregon Highway commission for aid under the Federal aid road act and ask that work may be begun this season, since funds now are available for the desired improvements to be made. The resolutions further ask that $70,000 be devoted to the object of removing dangerous grades on Ruthon and Eden hills on the Columbia river highway in Hood River county.

TWO NOTED DIVINES TO VISIT GRESHAM

Dr. Carl G. Doney, D. D., president of Willamette University, will speak at the Methodist Episcopal church in Gresham next Sunday, August 27, at both morning and evening services. This will give the Gresham people a chance to hear Dr. Doney and we hope the young people especially will take advantage of this opportunity. Dr. Doney's subject for the evening service will be especially for young people.

Dr. F. B. Ford, district superintendent of the Salem district of the Methodist Episcopal church, will be with us for the fourth quarterly conference on Tuesday evening, August 29, at 8 o'clock. This being the last meeting of the kind for this conference year it is very important that all the officials of the church attend that meeting.

Dr. Doney will also speak to the young people at the Epworth League service which begins at 7 o'clock.

The evening service is a union service of the churches and will be held in the Methodist church.

CANNERY EMPLOYES GO UP HIGHWAY

An excursion to Multnomah Falls by the employees of the Gresham cannery on Wednesday was a very pleasant affair.

About forty-five, including the superintendents and other workers, made up the party. H. E. Davis gave the use of his auto truck and several other machines were secured for the trip. The occasion was so thoroughly enjoyed that it will be made an annual feature after the rush season is over.

It does not occur to newspapers urging on strikes that capital can go on a strike the same as labor and when it does it just simply quits and suffering or hardship await results.

SEA WAVES AND OCEAN BREEZES

When Miss Hester Thorpe rounded up her flock last week and steered them down to Seaside she promised to write to Outlook a letter for publication today. Here it is, under date of August 23.

Dear Pop:—Now, when one writes news for publication he don't as a rule address his readers as Dear Pop, does he? But I'll tell you—I'll write about everything I know, which isn't very much, and you can do as Dean Collins does, catch a "gleam through the mist," so to speak, and then translate it to fit your readers' intellect—not mine, for I haven't any.

Well, let's see: We came down on the Georgiana to Astoria, stopping at all sorts of little villages on our way. Down at Astoria Ethelyn Rick met us and took us to her sister's to lunch, after which we came by jitney to Seaside. This resort has four main streets, one reaching from depot to ocean, and another crossing it at Seventh street. All are paved, but Broadway is like a trail at a fair—nothing but amusement places.

Since coming here we've danced, skated, bowled, skee-balled, gone to movies, walked to Gearhart—we got a ride back, though; been in the ocean and the tank, and it seems to me we walked all over creation. But our most popular amusement is to eat, sleep and spend money—also growl at each other.

Tomorrow morning we go clam digging at 4:30. Forgot to say we were rowing yesterday; also that Ethelyn Rich is an ex-Astoria nose team girl, and ran both times we did there three years ago. We've taken

SMALLPOX AUTO IS SHUNNED BY MANY

Some people with accommodating instincts own automobiles and it is the rule of the road for one motorist to help another in case of a breakdown, but the rule does not apply where the stalled machine has a cargo of smallpox patients, judging from an experience yesterday of City Health Officer Wolf.

He was on his way to the smallpox hospital at Kelly Butte, with two smallpox patients when his machine stalled and he was unable to get it started. He endeavored to solicit a tow from passing machines, but each time the negotiations fell flat when the other driver learned the stalled machine had a load of smallpox. It was nearly an hour before Dr. Wolf was able to find a driver who was willing to tow the patients to the hospital.

Attention is again called to the special open meeting of Gresham grange tomorrow evening when arrangements will be completed for the fair exhibit. All interested are invited.

SANITARY MARKET HAS NEW OWNER

Adolf Tietze has sold the Sanitary Market to Ed. Bauman, of Portland, who will take charge tomorrow morning. His announcement of proprietorship will be found elsewhere in this paper among the advertisements.

Mr. Tietze and family will leave tomorrow for a trip to Raymond, Washington, where they will visit with Paul Hoetzel and family, who are operating a bakery there. They will return by September 4th and take up their residence at Lents and may go into business again. They will be in Gresham during fair week for a day or two.

MISSING DAVIS GIRL NOT LOCATED YET

H. B. Davis, 424 Second street, Portland, will pay $100 reward for the return of his 14-year-old daughter, Gladys O. Davis, who disappeared on August 4. She was then visiting her grandmother at Fairview.

The statement of Mrs. Grant Shaw, of Fairview, who declares she saw the girl leave Fairview by train on the afternoon of August 4, in company with an Italian section hand, is the only clew to her disappearance. The father believes that she was lured away by the Italian. Information on the case should be given to H. M. Dukes of the Juvenile court.

all kinds of pictures and will continue to till we run out of films.

This morning Reta and Evelyn washed. It was a big one, too, "cause we are awfully dirty, so needed it. Tomorrow Ethelyn comes down to spend the rest of our stay with us. Since here we've met Mr. and Mrs. Kenney, Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. John Metzger, Floyed and Walter, Miss Mildred Foster of Joring; also Iness Knox and mother, Opal and Hazel Camp of Oregon City, Grace Quick, Rose Elwood, Eulu Nystrom and two Johnson girls from Powell Valley; and maybe one or two others, but I can't think of them now.

I received the money order sent per request. You see Marguerite and I like to bowl and it costs a lot to do it every week.

It's just noon now and we expect Olive Olsen and her bunch, so I'll wait till evening mail to send this and I'll write a postscript to this and let you know. See? Also, I'll be able to tell you if I've received the edits we wrote for. We are going up to the Lewis and Clark salt cairn today. Must see it, you know.

Say, send us a Friday Outlook, 'cause we'll be here till Sunday noon, you know. Well, I'll close and put in the postscript.

P. S. The girls send their love to all. Willa has poison oak; not bad, though.

P. S. No. 2. The Olsen bunch hasn't come yet. It's 6 o'clock now. Received the money to buy eats with. We took our trip up to the salt cairn and went up the beach till we were about to go around the head, but the water was coming in so we went home.

INSTITUTE CERTIFICATE FOR THREE DAYS' EFFORT

County School Superintendent A. P. Armstrong has notified all the school teachers of the county that an opportunity will be afforded them to hear different phases of school work discussed by some of the leading educators of the northwest. He says: "A series of meetings will be held in Portland, on September 1 and 2, for the benefit of city teachers. I have arranged for the attendance of rural teachers, and shall interweave the work of the two days mentioned as a part of our institute.

"A special program will be offered for rural teachers, on August 31, in Central library hall, located at Tenth and Yamhill streets. Attendance on that day, and for the two following, will earn for you an institute certificate.

RETIRING PASTOR IN FAREWELL SERMON

Rev. F. H. Freund will give his farewell sermon at the German Evangelical church next Sunday morning at 10:30.

Mr. Freund organized the Evangelical church in Gresham about eight years ago and has been its pastor ever since. He will have his successor installed in about two weeks. He actually resigned his pastorate about a year ago.

Mr. Freund is president of the District conference, comprising Oregon, Washington and Idaho and will devote his entire time hereafter to the work in that territory. He will go to Spokane next week.

FINAL TRIBUTE TO MRS. S. J. CARPENTER

Mrs. E. M. Carpenter died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. M. Lake, near Gillis, on Saturday morning last. As Sarah A. Shay she was born in Butler county, Penn., on May 15, 1833. She married E. M. Carpenter at her home on April 2, 1853, moving soon after to Wisconsin where they lived about six years. They came to Oregon in 1874 and settled at Pleasant Home where they made their permanent residence. Mr. Carpenter died October 22, 1914.

Tea children were born to them of whom five are yet living. They are Mrs. E. C. Holmes, of Los Angeles; A. W. Carpenter, of Pleasant Home; Mrs. Katie Coss, of Portland; Mrs. C. M. Lake, Boring, and George Carpenter, Pleasant Home.

Funeral services were held in the Adventist church at Gillis, on Sunday last, Rev. C. J. Cummings, officiating. Interment was made in the Douglass cemetery, where the remains of her husband are resting. Numerous floral tributes were brought by a large gathering of sympathizing friends who felt the loss of a life long neighbor and in that way gave a tribute of their remembrance.

The pall bearers were M. H. Wheeler, Lee H. Ball, J. M. Hillyard, W. J. Hillyard, James McBain and George Tacheron.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to all who so kindly gave us their unselfish assistance in the care of our mother during her illness, and for their sympathy and donations of beautiful flowers in our bereavement.

Sons and daughters of MRS. SARAH A. CARPENTER.

Municipal Markets.

The operation of municipal markets, many of which have been established within the last few years in answer to public demand for bringing producer and consumer closer together, has been attended with varying success as shown by a summary in the National Municipal Review. During the last year Baltimore has maintained eleven such markets under the supervision of the city controller. The total expenses were $91,484.62 and the total receipts from licenses, rents, etc., were $75,390.72, showing a large net loss. Extra charges not usually made against city markets, however, are included in the expenses, and it is said if these charges were deducted a profit would be shown. Portland, Or., has three markets, one of which is of unusual character. Stalls in this market are of wood and fold up when not in use. The market is in the heart of the retail district along 100 feet of sidewalk and railroad space. The market is a financial success. The city will soon have paid for the cost of permanent buildings and expects to have an income of several hundred dollars a month from its operation.

Philadelphia has two market buildings, one of them 169 years old and the other 129 years, which the bureau of city property recommends be remodeled or wrecked and replaced with modern structures. It takes the view that the markets have been of service in cutting the cost of living, and favors their continuance. The municipal market of Jamestown, N. Y., represents an expenditure of $11,905, which, according to a report of the mayor, will be repaid in less than three years from the profits. Weekly market attendance at Jamestown totals 10,000 people. The cost of produce has been reduced 56 per cent during the last year. Eight city blocks are set aside in Wilmington, Del., for farmers' wagons, and sales are made from the wagon at the curb. Only farmers and truckers are permitted to guard sanitary conditions. The municipal market at Columbus, O., earned 7 per cent dividends at $249,233.36. Receipts over all expenses were $18,569.95. An increase in gross receipts over the preceding year and a reduction in expenditures was shown.

At the municipal cold storage plant in Cleveland lockers may be rented by private families as well as by retailers, so butter, eggs, cheese, etc., may be bought when cheap and stored for future use. Great savings can be made on other foodstuffs if stored in quantities. The municipal refrigerator is said to have been a potent factor in reducing living costs in Cleveland.—Indianapolis News.

Remember the Cat.

One of the serious problems every summer is the relief or merciful elimination of pet cats which have been left in town by their owners without provisions for their care. Many a man or woman in whom mercy to all living creatures is a matter of instinct or training, will make the plans for the summer absence from town without giving a thought to the welfare of Tom or Tabby. This peculiar form of heartlessness—unconscious in most cases, it must be said—is the result of an erroneous belief that the cat, of all domestic animals, is a self-supporting member of society; that it is a forager, amply able to take care of itself and find a well-stocked larder in every alley.

The faulst of this belief is demonstrated by the experience of the agents of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals every summer. And yet the old and cruel people who would be profoundly shocked by the results of their own thoughtlessness, if they were to be confronted with them.

The dog is seldom exposed to the danger of starvation during the absence of his owner. He is, in most cases, a far more intimate friend of his owner than the cat. Then, too, the dog is far more frequently than the cat a possession of greater or less money value. For either of these two reasons, he is usually well provided for if he is left at home.

When you are making your arrangements for the summer absence from the city, remember that the family cat will be exposed to unnecessary suffering unless provisions are made, either for its sustenance or for its peaceful departure to the cat Nirvana.
