THE BORDER BOYS.

Some little time ago, the country was informed that married men with families dependent on them would be released from the National guard and permitted to return to their homes.

This is interesting reading, and makes one wonder what President Wilson meant when he wrote that the soldiers were at the border for the purpose of protecting the country.

Perhaps this little query will interest one Villa and his associates. Possibly, too, it will stir the visibilities of Carranza, who is demanding the recall of all American troops from Mexico.

TRAINING FOR PUBLIC SERVICE

The latest number of the Reed College Record, published this week, outlines a four year course of study designed especially for students preparing for public and social service.

Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid. This month is not a wilderness of woe; the mercury which lingers near 100 in the shade, in time will drop to 55 below.

THE COST OF SHOES.

From New York comes a report that shoe salesmen who of late have been led to hint to customers that prices were as high as they would be, and that a reduction might be looked for, have been called on the carpet by heads of the houses which they represent.

Nothing of the kind has been reported on this coast, probably because the salesmen have been instructed to make contrary representations for financial reasons.

The reasons given for advancing prices of shoes is, of course, scarcity of leather due to the European war. That war, as Mr. and Mrs. Ultimate Consumer discovered to their dismay some time ago, covers a multitude of increasing prices.

Dengue fever is reported on the border, but it is only a mirage of fear. That is to say it isn't hal; as dangerous as a bloodthirsty Mexican, for it only gives you a glimpse of death when death isn't there at all.

We seem to be rapidly approaching a time when the citizen who desires a few cartloads of dirt to grade his lawn will have to pay a dollar or two more per load, on account, as the seller will gravely inform him, of the war in Europe.

Incidentally, one is led to wonder what has become of the scheme, recently promulgated, to make ours a wooden-shod nation. It is just possible, of course, that the effect of the war in Europe on the American lumber industry has thrown insurmountable obstacles in the way of that scheme.

There must be, within the realm of invention, discovery or development, some acceptable substitute for shoe leather—some material which war does not corrupt and which age does not wither nor custom stale.

We prophesy that if this European war continues another year, and the price of footwear maintains its present rate of advance, next summer will find fashion very much on the barefoot order.

QUITE A DIFFERENCE.

We observe that editorial opinion throughout the country, concerning Uncle Sam's prospective purchase of the Danish West Indies, is not so much opposed to the purchase as staggered at the stated price.

The negotiations have been carried on at a high rate of speed, which leads some commentators to suspect the presence of a "nigger in the woodpile." Others, while inclined to the opinion that we need the islands for national defense, hold that we need ships, guns, ammunition and men even more, and that we might better put $25,000,000 into that form of defense than into the purchase of more territory.

Ever since 1867, when Secretary Seward acquired for the United States from Russia, the territory of Alaska for $7,200,000, this country has been looking for bargains whenever any real estate propositions came its way.

Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid. This month is not a wilderness of woe; the mercury which lingers near 100 in the shade, in time will drop to 55 below.

President Wilson will be notified of his re-nomination on Sept. 2. He probably suspects that he has been renominated, but in order to make things come out right, the committee will take along the blue prints when it visits him and make affidavit to them being correct.

The inquisitive subscriber at Rockwood wants to know why some women think a lazy foreign count surpasses an energetic American. What we answered was, why do some wives think a fuzzy little puddle surpasses a dimpled baby.

A picnic advertisement announces: "No ants, fleas or mosquitoes." It seems to us, as distant memories fall upon us of half a century ago, that an insectless picnic would be something like cucumbers without salt and vinegar.

Perhaps in view of the paper shortage, and in the interest of their readers, the sixbestseller writers could be induced to make them shorter. Ditto, the Sunday newspapers might be asked to cut down two pages, at least.

Dengue fever is reported on the border, but it is only a mirage of fear. That is to say it isn't hal; as dangerous as a bloodthirsty Mexican, for it only gives you a glimpse of death when death isn't there at all.

The Georgia legislature has enacted a law granting women the right to practice law. Women can practice law in Oregon, but few of them do it.

Wheat is being held for $1.25 a bushel and we are afraid the Oregon corn crop won't ripen this fall. But perhaps the breakfast food concerns have a big surplus stored away somewhere.

If we rightly understand some of the arguers, they favor a system of banks that will enable people to borrow money whether they have collateral or credit, or not.

In such weather as this it is, of course, more than usually easy to boil water. But it takes a little fire because 95 in the shade is not quite the boiling point.

A noted writer says that the fear of snakes is born in some people. In many cases, no doubt, but in some we have known of the fear is wholly acquired.

The Globe-Democrat says St. Louis has three men in congress. That's the only parallel between St. Louis and Portland. All the other odds favor our town.

One drawback about being a loafer is that during these insufferable hot days you've got to keep on loafing just the same.

Some men buy runabouts because it takes so much near beer and cigars to run a touring car.

Some men will go to baldheaded doctors for a prescription to cure bald heads.
