FRIDAYS

VOL. 6, NO. 65

GRESHAM, MULTNOMAH COUNTY, OREGON, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1916

$1.50 PER YEAR

PRINCIPAL GOODWIN TELLS OF FIRST MONTH OF HIGH SCHOOL

Principal E. F. Goodwin has furnished the Outlook with the following high school notes pertaining to the first month of that institution:

At the close of the first month of school the total enrollment has reached 175 students. This is an increase of about 20 per cent. above the enrollment last year. There are 82 boys and 93 girls. Of this number, 107 live in Union High School District No. 2, and 68 come from outside districts in Multnomah and other school districts in Multnomah and other counties.

Outside districts are represented here by the number of students as indicated: Orient, 14; Rockwood, 14; Boring, 11; Fairview, 8; Lusted, 7; Troutdale and Cedar, 5; Cottrell, 3; No. 26 in Clackamas county, 3; Sandy High School District, 1; Victory, 1; and No. 17 in Washington county, 1.

There are 70 freshmen, 50 sophomores, 36 juniors, 14 seniors and 5 post graduates.

The school has added a commercial course to the curriculum this year and 27 students have registered in this department. The following vocational departments are now well equipped and doing excellent work: Manual training, domestic science and art, commercial, agriculture and music. The grade of work being done is suggested by the number of students enrolled in the following classes: Algebra and geometry, 160; English, 158; domestic science and art, 34; Latin, 43; German, 40; French, 6; chemistry, 16; physics, 19, etc. There are 14 boys taking manual training and 13 students enrolled in the mechanical and freehand drawing classes. The gymnasium is proving quite popular this year. About 60 boys and girls are enrolled in the physical culture classes.

The music department deserves special mention. Nearly every student in the school takes assembly singing once a week and several classes have been formed in sight reading. The girls' chorus meets once a week for practice and different choruses and glee clubs are being formed for the boys. The orchestra has been enlarged by two cornets and a violin and the members are enthusiastic in making it a fine musical organization.

The different classes of the school have been organized and the proper officers elected. The newest and largest class—the freshman—has chosen the following officers: Earl Andre of Lusted district, president; Cecil Gholson of Terry district, vice president; and Ruth Inglis and Thelma Metzger of Gresham district, treasurer and secretary, respectively.

The reception given the freshman class in the gymnasium last Friday evening by the sophomores was a great success and much praise is due the advisors of these classes, and the students, themselves, for the splendid entertainment provided. More than 100 students were present.

Free transportation is now furnished all students of the Union district who live at too great a distance to walk to school. Six automobiles are employed by the school board for this purpose and the drivers are subject to orders from the Board of Education and the principal. This new means of transportation is very convenient and satisfactory to all persons concerned. It should be extended to all outside districts who patronize the school, and the present automobiles should be supplanted soon by the Studebaker school busses or similar conveyances owned and operated by the school. At present about 110 of our students should enjoy free transportation. This number includes the enrollment from outside districts which will increase rapidly each succeeding year.

Every teacher is highly pleased with the present student body,—the best in Oregon—and the work being accomplished. Everybody seems to be busy, contented and happy. In a few weeks two or three school days will be set apart as "Go to School Days" and patrons and friends of the school will be cordially invited to visit the school in session and observe the regular work being done from day to day. We are always glad to have patrons and persons interested visit the school and stay as long as time will permit.

KELSO

The Kelso school took second prize in the Sandy juvenile fair parade Friday. The girls represented sunbonnet babies, and were all dressed alike in blue gowns with white sunbonnets. The boys were dressed in blue overalls, white blouses and straw hats. In the competitive program, in which ten schools took part, Kelso won fourth prize. The following took prizes for exhibits—Mildred Jarl received first prize for best general exhibit in her class. Lester Irvin won first prize for a cartoon drawing and Hazel Dunn won first prize on best dressed doll.

The first month of school ended Friday. The following pupils were neither absent nor tardy during the month. In Miss Yerkes' room, Edward Nelson, Ruth Baumbach, Dan Milan, Marie Baumbach, James Milian, Vernie Jarl, John Rice, Albert Hall, Anna Lind. In Miss Wikkinson's room, Nellie Harvison, Robert Milian, Anna Milian, Hazel Dunn, Eunice Jonsrud, John Canny.

The Parent-Teacher association will meet Thursday evening, October 19 at 7:30. The September meeting was postponed so election of officers will take place at this meeting. All are welcome whether members or not. Refreshments will be served.

There is a state traveling library at the schoolhouse where any person may get books on Mondays and Fridays, between 4 and 5 p. m.

John Jonsrud near Boring had the misfortune of losing his barn by fire Sunday afternoon, which started from a neighboring clearing. Little 8-year old Ethel Jonsrud had a narrow escape from the flames in the burning barn where she was when it caught. It burned so rapidly that she barely had time to escape. However, she was entirely unhurt.

Mrs. F. W. Canning had the misfortune of scalding her foot quite badly one day last week.

Miss Angela Canning began her school at Greenwood, October 2.

The site of the oldest property in Belfast, Me., was recently sold, passing for the first time in 142 years out of the Patterson family. This place, owned by William Patterson, one of the first settlers of Belfast, was famous as being the birthplace of the first white child in Belfast.

FAIRVIEW

The Parent-Teacher circle will meet this afternoon October 13th, at 3:30. There will be an election of officers and all interested are invited.

E. C. Morrison, cashier and book-keeper of the Sundial Feed Mill, received the sad message by wire from Yellow Jacket, Colorado, of the death of his father. The message was delayed and Mr. Morrison was unable to reach his parent's home for the burial.

Mrs. J. Stapleton and daughter Nellie moved to Portland this week. R. Hunter, city marshal, will occupy the Stapleton home this winter.

Mrs. J. Venable entertained her son, Mr. O'miller and family of McMinnville for several days.

Mrs. C. C. Cowles will entertain with an evening tea at her home Saturday, October 14th, for the benefit of the Methodist Aid society. Plans for a good attendance have been made. Young and old welcome.

Mrs. Clarence L. Stambaugh, of Astoria, will be the guest over Sunday of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Burlingame.

Regular services will be held at the Methodist church next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, when Rev. B. C. Brewster, the pastor, will preach. Epworth League will meet at 7 o'clock. All are invited to these services.

The members of the choir of the Presbyterian church will meet Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. D. W. McKay for practice.

Mrs. J. W. Benecke has taken up the newspaper correspondence work formerly done by Mrs. Grant Shaw. She is the regular representative of the Outlook for this territory. Important news items may be telephoned temporarily to Mr. Benecke and the Sun Dial Mill.

The Fairview library will be open to the public from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. each Saturday. Miss Pearl Durst of the Gresham library will have charge

Young's bay shipyards now have seven large ocean going vessels on ways employing 400 skilled workmen.

COMPLETE LIST OF STOCK SOLD AT JERSEY DISPERSION SALE

Mention was made on Tuesday of the successful dispersion sale of B. C. Altman's Jersey herd. It was largely attended by prominent stockmen from all over the northwest, and some good prices were realized.

Empress Lad's Margaret, Mr. Altman's famous cow which is a few weeks over seven years old and has taken the champion prize, was sold to K. McNeil of Grants Pass for $475. At that figure she was a bargain, as were all the other cows sold.

It will be noticed that some of the animals went for a remarkably low figure. They were young bulls, less than a year old, but equally as promising as the older ones. Jacoba's Irene Prince, leader of the herd, was sold to John H. Taylor of Montesano, Wash., for $115. Thus it will be seen that the yearlings brought a fair price, although they were good bargains from the breeder's standpoint to their buyers.

Following is a complete list of the animals sold, together with the names and addresses of the buyers and the prices they brought:

- Jacoba's Irene Prince, John H. Taylor, Montesano, Wash.—$115.

- Louise Belle, E. L. Hobbs, Cornelius—$70.

CANNERY RECORD OF 1916

Gresham's fruit packing cannery closed its season this week after a run of four months in which it put up 11,600 cases of assorted fruits that is all sold and nearly all delivered.

A visit to the cannery yesterday found two or three men busy at work preparing the few hundred remaining cases for shipment and loading them onto auto trucks for transportation to Portland. Everything will be closed in a few days. Fred Kaster, the process director, will leave tomorrow for Newberg where he will take charge of the fall pack in the Newberg cannery. He will not be lost to Gresham, however, as his services will be needed here next year and his work is satisfactory.

The fruit packing season this year began with cherries. Of this fruit only 200 cases were packed, owing to the almost total failure of the cherry crop. Of red raspberries 7000 cases were put up. Blackberries produced 1700 cases; plums 200; prunes 1000 and pears 1500. Of the total pack about 6000 cases were packed on contract for W. W. Cotton.

The total value of the pack will approximate $40,000. About $7,500 was paid for fruit to the growers of this vicinity for the remaining 5,600 cases over the number packed for Mr. Cotton.

As the figures given in this article are not in the nature of a report, but estimates furnished by Secretary Elkington the profits of this season's work can only be guessed at. From indications there is a gain approximating the profit on the work done for Mr. Cotton.

The packed goods will bring in an average of something over $3.50 per case. The estimated expenses of the work done this year will foot up $18,800, divided as follows: Sugar, $5,000; cans, $7,000; payroll, $4,500; hauling $800; incidentals, $1,500.

The stock began moving as soon as it was packed. Some of it went to Iowa, Illinois, Nebraska, California, and two carloads went to Portland, Maine. About two carloads have been sold to the wholesalers in Portland, Oregon.

The pack this year does not represent a half of the capacity of the plant. As an instance of what may be done it is stated 1400 cases were put up during a period of 48 hours, working double shifts. Mr. Kaster says the capacity of the plant is eight tons daily, or 400 cases.

Everything is favorable for next year and the association is figuring on some new machinery and a larger output. After the annual meeting in January the question of canning vegetables will be considered as there is an insistent demand for several kinds. There is a larger acreage of fruit and berries in sight and the output will certainly be larger in any event. The management is particularly anxious to see a large production of Evergreen blackberries, as there is a steady demand for them which cannot be met. They would prolong the canning season and will be taken in any quantity from ten pounds to a hundred tons.

This year's method of financing the business was entirely successful and can be adopted again. When a bank is ready to advance money on the pack it is an easy proposition to do business on any reasonable scale.

The car men of the northern roads threaten to strike unless they get a raise in wages. They are peeved because the Adamson law does not apply to them. Well, threaten to tie up the business of the country, that's what the other fellows did and they made their bluff stick.

Vehicles resembling light automobiles, but without motors, are used in some Swiss mountain resorts for a sport resembling tobogganing in snowless seasons.

DISCUSSION OVER PROPOSED FOUR PER CENT BEER LAW

It was the editor's privilege recently to attend a luncheon of the Progressive Business Men's club in Portland at which was staged a debate on the proposed brewers' amendment to the prohibitory law, which amendment is one of the measures on the ballot to be voted on November 7.

Speaking for the amendment, and one of its authors and chief supporters, was Col. C. E. S. Wood, a well-known attorney of Portland, counsel for the Weinhard brewery, and champion of many radical promoters and measures.

Speaking against the brewery amendment were District Attorney W. H. Evans and Attorney A. L. Veazie.

As there was no decision or vote taken on the weight of argument or the merits of the question, the so-called debate was rather in the nature of a discussion of the measure.

Colonel Wood argued for its adoption on the grounds of fairness to the local brewery interests, keeping the money at home—and on the grounds of what he called "true" temperance, that is making the milder drink—4 per cent beer—more plentiful, which he said would drive out the stronger alcoholic drinks.

He stated he was opposed to the saloons and hoped they would never return, but one of his opponents showed that Colonel Wood was among those who, two years ago, worked hard to retain the saloons and that the breweries were now, in anticipation of the adoption of their amendment, planning to establish bottle saloons in many localities of the state. Mr. Veazie quoted statistics taken from the Brewers' yearbook which showed that Colonel Wood's idea and method of securing "true" temperance did not work out in countries where beer was practically free or where the milder drinks were encouraged.

District Attorney Walter H. Evans, who is a candidate for re-election, and has done much to make the present prohibitory law clear, effective and satisfactory, pointed out the legal weaknesses and fallacies of the bill and the complications which would arise if it were adopted.

He made these definite propositions—

1. If this amendment becomes a law the brewer may employ as many agents in the manufacture, sale and delivery of beer as the demands of trade shall warrant.
2. The regulatory provisions of the prohibition law concerning delivery of intoxicating liquor will not apply to the sale and delivery of beer by the manufacturer.
3. The right to advertise the sale of, solicit orders for, and to distribute price lists of beer, will be abolished.

The Outlook has published the brewery amendment and made frequent references to it. Everyone should read it and know what he is voting for or why he votes against it. It seems to be loosely and poorly drawn. It is not an amendment to the present law but a constitutional amendment which would practically do away with prohibition until the legislature should prescribe regulations in accord with the new amendment.

Read again the above propositions. The first proposition is clear and needs no further comment. On the second, authorities hold to the effect that "may be" as used in the statute, unless it to the contrary appears, is construed as meaning in the future, so that the statement in the amendment to which regulations that are to be made at a future time and that such a statement will not carry any regulations that now exist by law into the amendment.

Further, also the regulation in the present prohibition law relating to the delivery of intoxicating liquors is found in Section 12, which requires the affidavit to be taken, and which prohibits the delivery by a common carrier unless the affidavit is made before the common carrier's agent. Manufacturers of beer heretofore have not been common carriers. Therefore, the beer maker can sell, if this amendment be adopted, without the formality of this affidavit, and if he assumed to administer it, it would have no effect in a criminal prosecution because a false swearing in it would not be perjury, since the beer agent is not authorized to administer it.

The right to advertise the sale of, solicit orders for, and to distribute price lists of beer, will be abolished. Another very important question is this—This amendment authorizes the sale of beer to any person or individual, and since there will be no regulations applicable to sales until the legislature meets and makes them, it may be possible to sell liquor to any individual regardless of age. It appears further that "person" would be interpreted to mean the artificial person known as a corporation, as an amusement concern or a hotel, then the question further arises, can it re-sell it? It is a principle of constitutional law that you cannot grant one citizen a privilege not accorded to another citizen of the same class or kind, and it may be determined that this would be in conflict with the federal constitution as class legislation, in that it permits a beer maker to sell and deliver beer while it would not permit the amusement or hotel concern to sell it, and therefore it is possible it might extend the privilege of re-sale to the corporation.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR BUYING CLOVER SEED

We can save the farmers money if they will buy their clover seed now. We have made arrangements with several Yamhill county farmers by which the farmers in this section can buy their clover seed directly from them. The price ranges from seventeen cents to twenty cents per pound, and at eighteen cents I have some samples of very clean seed. This same grade of seed you will pay the seedmen twenty-five cents or probably more next spring. Any person wanting to order seed now can see samples by calling at the county agent's office any morning. These prices are for immediate shipment.

The first issue of the monthly news letter from this office will be issued in the near future. It will contain seasonal hints, the results of some of the demonstrations which have been conducted this year, and an exchange column, in which will be the things for exchange which the farmers have, as well as the want and for sale department confining itself to things on the farm. If you have anything to sell or want anything as stock, machinery or seed you can get into the first issue by calling up Gresham 47 any morning.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE TO BE HELD TOMORROW

County School Superintendent A. P. Armstrong has made complete arrangements for a teachers' institute, to be held at the Gresham school building tomorrow, commencing at 10 o'clock. As many of the teachers of the county who can be here will be in attendance.

The president and other officers of the local parent-teachers' association of this district is invited to attend. A good program has been prepared. Mrs. Alva Lee Stephens, president of all parent-teacher associations of Portland, some fifty or more in number, will be present and explain the work as carried on there. She is an interesting and instructive speaker, whose splendid help in the good cause will prove valuable in many ways.

Miss Viola Ortschild, president of Portland grade teachers association, will address the institute, and discuss the work of the organization over which she presides.

We Have Them Now.
