Mothers and Noses.

There is nothing intrinsically wrong with noses in general and nothing in particular wrong with mothers. Nevertheless, the combination is unpleasant to the point of being disagreeable. A mother is a necessity and a genuine comfort in other respects, but in her solicitude for the well-being of your nose she is a nuisance. It is probable that you could get along very well with your nose, even though you are a very small fellow, if you had it all to yourself, and it is possible that you could, in a short time, forget that you had one. A mother never permits her small boy to forget that he has a nose. It seems that she is utterly unable to forget it herself, and that for some reason she feels responsible for it. Every small boy is tempted to wish that he had a mother who did not know that he had a nose, but there never was such a mother. Every mother of every small boy is forever conscious of noses and, worse than that, she is forever wiping them.

Of course, if you are a mother, you will not agree with this. You will say that noses have to be wiped. But if you are a small boy or if you ever were a small boy you will know how it is. You are reminded of your nose the first thing in the morning and are suspicious that it is being trifled with after you have gone to sleep. It is a matter of controversy very frequently during the day. If you are out with your mother for a morning walk and happen to meet one of the neighbors, your mother is instantly reminded that she should be wiping your nose. If you stop to make friends with a dog there is the same humiliating result. If you meet another woman with another baby, each mother is moved by the same impulse and two noses are wiped and two babies are made miserable.

It may be, if you ever were a small boy, that you were led to believe in a silly game in which a facetious larger person pretended to steal your nose. Perhaps you were much pleased with the game and gleefully imagined that your mother would be foiled at last. Of course, the game was no good, and your mother found your nose exactly where it had always been, and things went on as badly as ever. It is, no doubt, amazing to the small boy how larger people go about on friendly terms with their noses, often apparently unconscious of them. That is the way things are. Big people don't have little people's troubles and little people don't have big people's troubles and each think that theirs are much worse than the others. However that may be, it does seem as though mothers could let the small boys and their noses look out for themselves once in a while.

Emory Andrews, of Syracuse, N. Y., who weighs 250 pounds, saw a pheasant on the ground, pursued it and finally caught it by making a flying tackle. After he recovered his breath friends told him that the open season on pheasants had not begun and Mr. Andrews therefore had to give his bird to the zoo.

The first job held by William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, was that of a newsboy selling the Macon Morning Telegraph. His next job was that of a farm laborer.

GRESHAM PEOPLE AND HAPPENINGS

Martin Lennartz was down from Pleasant Home yesterday on business.

A baby boy was born on Saturday morning to Mr. and Mrs. George Shelley of Springdale.

Rev. E. A. Leonard will preach at the Baptist church next Sunday both morning and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Allen, of Redmond, visited over Tuesday night with Mrs. Myrtle Meyers.

Capt. C. O. Branson and wife, of Melrose, spent the day today with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Coe.

Miss Mabel Burch left today for Elk City, Oregon, to resume her duties as teacher of the school.

A baby boy was born on Sunday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Hughes, who live on the Duley place at Linemann station.

Miss Fay Webber, of Milwaukie, who has been visiting Miss Vivian Hevel and other friends, returned to her home in Milwaukie Tuesday.

Mrs. C. Merrill and daughters, Birdine, Ethel and Olive spent New Year's day in Portland the guests of Mrs. Merrill's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Nye.

Mrs. Charity Smith expects to leave this week for her usual winter visit to her daughters in Kenniwick and Walla Walla, Washington. She will be gone for several weeks.

W. C. Burch and family spent New Year's day in Portland the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Lockwood. Mrs. Lockwood is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burch.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Lauber entertained on New Year's day Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Stager of Portland and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wahl of Pleasant Home. Mrs. Stager is a sister of Mrs. Lauber.

Mrs. C. H. Lane suffered a stroke of paralysis early this morning, which affects the whole of one side. She is receiving medical attention and hopes are entertained of her complete recovery.

W. R. Burke has been spending the past week in San Francisco visiting his wife who has been staying there for several months past. Guy Jones is in charge of the store during Mr. Burke's absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Hevel entertained their friends at a 500 party last Friday night, five tables being played. The house was profusely decorated with mistletoe, brought from Lebanon by Orland Zeek. A delicious lunch was served.

W. E. Beegle was seriously injured yesterday while unloading coal at the Columbia brick yard. He fell and badly wrenched one of his legs, but no bones were broken. His physician says he will be confined to his home for a week or more while recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Todd of Ridgefield, Washington, came down to spend the holidays with their parents, Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Todd and F. A. Halliday. Mr. Todd has returned to his farm at Ridgefield. Mrs. Todd and the children are remaining for a longer visit.

The masquerade dance given at Regner's opera house on New Year's night was largely attended and an enjoyable time was reported. The first prizes were awarded by the judges to Jean Lorenz of Portland, and a young lady from Gilbert station. Second prizes to Jack Hamlin and Mrs. E. T. Jones.

Seventeen young people spent a most enjoyable evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Lauber on Tuesday evening, the occasion being something in the nature of a goodbye party for Emil Lauber, Jr., before his departure to Portland to work. Games occupied the most of the evening and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Orland Zeek and three children, who have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Leslie for the last ten days, returned Wednesday to her home at Lebanon. This is Mrs. Zeek's first visit to her home since moving to Lebanon four years ago. Mr. Zeek was here for Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. Zeek are on a large stock farm six miles southeast of Lebanon.

Mayor George W. Stapleton and family were out for the week-end and until after the regular council meeting Tuesday evening. Mrs. Joseph Haley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stapleton, is still in Good Samaritan hospital, where she has been for several weeks, but is well on the road to recovery. Mr. Haley came down from Nelson, B. C., to spend the holidays and will remain for a few weeks.

The regular meeting of the Tuesday Study club will be held at the library next Tuesday evening, beginning at 7:45 o'clock. Mrs. Jas Elkington will present a paper on the Legislative Department of the Federal Government. Mrs. G. W. Kenney will discuss the Legislative Department of the State Government. Roll call will be answered to by current events.

At a recent meeting of the City and County Medical society, held in Portland, Dr. J. M. Short, formerly of Gresham, was elected president by a large majority. The position carries with it marked honors. Dr. Short's many friends in Gresham and vicinity will rejoice in the recognition given him by his associates.

Mrs. A. Hughes entertained during the holidays Miss Marguerite Barden, art teacher in the Newberg high school; Miss Louise McDonald of Missoula, Montana and the latter's cousin, Jennings Suter of Portland, city editor of the Oregon Journal.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Shoemaker had as guests on New Year's day the latter's sister, Mrs. Stanley Arnold and baby Doris and aunt, Mrs. Minnie Donahue of Portland, Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Leonard and Grandma Hudnut.

Miss Pearl Durst is suffering from grip and is at her home in Portland. The library is being cared for by representatives from the main library.

In Duma's novel, "Le Vicomte de Bragelonne," he introduces the story of the man with the iron mask, as being the brother of Louis XIV. This, however, has been proved the mere invention of Voltaire, who created the story in one of his romances. While many still believe the mysterious stranger was Charles I of England, historians claim he was but an obscure Italian political adventurer known as Count Matthioli. Yet to this prisoner was accorded great deference.

"I haven't so many brothers, but so much brothers," is the description Mrs. Frank Snyder, of Bellefontaine, O., gives of her three brothers. Their total height is nineteen feet six and one-half inches. J. P. Marshall, of New Decatur, Ala., is six feet five inches tall; John A. Marshall, of Willis, Va., is six feet seven and three-fourths inches, and P. O. Marshall, of Girard, Ill., is six feet five and three-fourths inches. Their combined weight is more than 600 pounds.

Perhaps the most remarkable ground on which a man has been exempted from British army service by the tribunals is given in the case of the curator of a butterfly collection worth $250,000, owned by a wealthy coal mine magnate and destined to be turned over to the public some day. Professor Poulton, of Oxford, said that to leave the collection without a competent head would be a national disaster, and his opinion prevailed.

Japan occupies a prominent place among the countries of the world in the possession of mineral springs rich in radium emanations. These are found exclusively in granite regions.

As a precaution against conflagrations resulting from the fires of excursionists, several stone fireplaces have been erected in Swope park, Kansas City, for public use.

Recent observation made in northern Norway indicate that the average display of aurora borealis takes place at a height of from sixty to sixty-five miles.

The germ theory dates from 1862. The Dutch Indies in 1915 produced 1,400,068 tons of petroleum.

Mendoza, Argentina, has 75,000 people.

The Habit of Taking Cold.

With many people taking cold is a habit, but fortunately one that is easily broken. Take a cold sponge bath every morning when you first get out of bed—not ice cold, but a temperature of about 99 degrees F. Also sleep with your window up. Do this and you will seldom take cold. When you do take cold take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and get rid of it as quickly as possible. Obtainable everywhere.—Ad.

Farm Loans Available.

Arthur Langguth, agent of the State School Land Board in Portland, with offices at 606 McKay building, announces that he has plenty of farm money to loan in sums ranging from $250 to $5000, on approved security at 6 per cent.

A vegetable oil-extracting plant has recently been installed at Leon, Nicaragua. The machinery consists of three presses, one plate press and two curb presses, all operated by hydraulic pressure from a steam engine of fourteen-horse power. The capacity of the plant is 2,500 to 3,000 pounds of seed a day and the materials treated will be castor seed, coyol palm nut, peanut, coconuts, talchote, burillo, wild almond and cottonseed. The machinery was bought from a Richmond, (Va.,) company.

More than 20,000 tons of wood flour, valued at $300,000, are used annually in the United States in the manufacture of dynamite and in the manufacture of inlaid linoleum.

Since the beginning of the European war American diamond buyers have shown a revival of interest in the diamond fields of Brazil; which have attracted a considerable number of buyers. The Brazilian garimpeiro, or native diamond miner, has seen prices rising steadily under the competition of the foreigners.

The United States is the world's greatest importer of hides and skins despite the fact that it raises more cattle than any other nation except India.

Punch bowls of molded ice, with delicate flowers incased therein, are being turned out for social functions by some ice manufacturers.

To All Students of Public and High Schools

The small deposits made by the members of the Christmas Cash Club on January 2d aggregated $3.90.

Estimating on the same basis for a period of six days there should be on deposit at the close of the first week $23.40. We anticipate that the weekly deposits should increase each successive week ten per cent over the preceding week.

Assuming our calculations to be correct what sum will the club have on deposit ready for distribution at the end of the fiftieth week.

For the best analytical solution of the above problem made by any student of the public or high schools, under eighteen years of age, without assistance, and received at our bank before the close of business Wednesday, January 10th, we will credit One Dollar on the Christmas Cash Club membership in any class the person winning may select.

Professor E. F. Goodwin, E. S. McCormick and Miss Mary E. Good will kindly act as judges.
