BUYING ON CREDIT.

The American plan of buying "on credit" always involves a loss, but so far there has been no adequate remedy proposed to prevent it.

There is little doubt that buying on credit—along with other extravagant methods of modern merchandising, such as free delivery, delivery on approval, and so on—has been abused.

Where credit is available there is always a temptation to buy more than is actually necessary or to buy more expensive goods than if cash were paid.

Of course the weather man is entitled to a credit mark for keeping the blizzards away this winter.

The Rev. Thomas Moreaux, director of one of the French observatories, says that we are at the beginning of an epoch of very hot summers and very cold winters.

Some accounts are never paid, and this loss also is finally made up by those who do pay.

THE OREGON SYSTEM.

Agitation for the revision of state constitutions is spreading all over the United States except in Oregon.

But in Oregon it is different. Here we save the cost of a constitutional convention and amend our constitution every two years by means of the initiative.

Sometimes our work in tinkering is quite beneficial. For instance, the equal suffrage amendment. Then again there is a broad streak of sanity made manifest, as when the people voted down the single tax amendment last fall.

Perhaps some of the motorists who have been arrested since the first of the year for wearing old number plates were merely ashamed to put a new number plate on an old car.

The only thing that is hard to understand in regard to those Americans in Germany who are so anxious to come home now, is why they didn't come home long ago.

Hogs at $12.00 a hundred pounds will tend somewhat to help along the vegetarian movement, but what will potatoes at $3.50 and onions at $7 do to the vegetable eaters?

It is getting along to the time of year when the cold storage "egg question can be crated up and marked. "Not to be opened till Christmas."

Cheer up! The floods of oratory in the legislature have all been bottled up and are powerless now for another two years.

Making Alaska bone dry didn't put any breweries or distilleries out of business up there, but it ought to help some.

CHARITANS AND DEMAGOGUES.

If any suggestion would be considered by the people of any state it is the suggestion that both national and state constitutions be thoroughly taught in the schools along with history and other kindred subjects.

The Oregon system may not be ideal but we do not need a constitutional convention to make amendments. We can invoke the initiative at any time we choose to do a job of tinkering.

And now a bill is before congress to prevent launching any vessels for foreign owners. This act should kill shipbuilding as successfully as La-Follet's Seaman's act has killed American shipping and both industries would then be dead enough to satisfy the most radical politician and labor agitator.

We seem to be unable to learn just how many calories each edible food contains, but since the heat-producing element in food seems to be important we unhesitatingly favor that breed of calories found in a dish of Oregon strawberries and Jersey cow cream, about June ten times, when the mercury is ninety in the shade.

CURING DRUG HABIT.

The bone dry law makes us wonder if there is going to be a period, when all existing liquor in Oregon begins to disappear, that will necessitate giving medical assistance to the habitual users who will then be deprived of their artificial stimulants.

Such a condition always arises when habitual drug users are prevented from getting their cocaine, heroin and morphine. New York city has lately been compelled to establish three hospitals for their treatment, and in addition, to treat a great many at the inebriate farms and other sanitoriums.

It is feared by some that the bone dry law will turn many of the hard drinkers to the use of drugs which are comparatively easy to get.

There are already so many users that no law restraining the sale of habit-forming drugs will remedy present conditions much. There is danger, even, that the habit will grow and that drugs will be smuggled in while the illegal sale of liquor is being watched so closely.

But the victims must be cured if we are to have a sane and sober community. The appalling toll of habit-forming drugs is, because of the secrecy of victims, underestimated by the general public. A great many of them wear themselves to death trying secret remedies at home for the cure of some easily-cured disease.

London is promoting a "Buy Under the Flag" movement somewhat similar in its objects to our "Buy It Made in Oregon" association. Those Englishmen do not intend that any of their money shall go to anyone who is not in sympathy with the cause of the allies.
