THE LENTEN SEASON.

The lesson of the forty days of Lent lies in the observance of the laws by which society is governed, although they are of much less importance than the spirit that animates the lesson and the ideal that inspires and leads it.

So, if society is to be clean, pure, elevated and noble there must be a rigid—and to many it will seem cruel—enforcement of the social law on all who rebel against it.

Those who feel that society is a sacred thing can have no doubt as to their duty, and those who realize that it is a necessary thing can have as little.

Personally, we cheerfully accept as true all that the ad writers say about the beauty of the coming Easter bonnets, but our attention is concentrated upon the market quotations on the remnants of last year's crop of Irish potatoes.

It so happens that not one of the ninety at Salem thought to introduce a bill against tipping. They probably remembered how happy it makes a man to be thumbscrewed out of his money by the gentle waiters and hat boys.

Hogs are bringing the highest price in fifty years, but the painful truth is Oregon prefers to buy many tons of pork, when she might be raising enough to supply the whole Pacific coast.

The owners of the Kentucky distilleries have offered all their plants to the government in the event of war. They sure make the stuff that would put an enemy out quicker than anything else.

Bone-grafting isn't the great science that it is cracked up to be. It is being done right along in varying sums, and the victim never sees the bones again after he once grabs loose of them.

If the advice is worth anything we would suggest that a Potato Thief association be formed in this part of the state, with a Chicken Thief association for a trailer.

"We cannot afford to send a single man across the Atlantic to fight," says Bryan. Well, send the married men. They've had more experience.

Lillian Russel says that successful actresses eat very little. That accounts for their acquisition of wealth in these days of the h. c. of l.

A little more of this week's weather and the fuel business will boom again, despite the advent of the gas company's invisible fuel.

If you don't know how the Flubdubs can afford an auto, don't let it worry you—probably they don't know themselves.

Spring styles in seed catalogues and women's hats are in, so now all the weather man has to do is to make good.

Take on the calories just as the doctor tells you, but don't get the heat units in the collar.

event of war, will be turned into a military training camp.

It will be observed that in these instances it is the institution that speaks. Even if it were the undergraduate body, young, impulsive, adventurous, whose voice were raised in eager demand for action, it would be a fine, significant thing—just the sort of a thing to be expected from healthy American youth.

The business of the schools is to fit young men for responsibility as well as to provide them with opportunity. And among these responsibilities is that of the individual to the nation.

We owe not only something to each other as individuals, and something to society, but always there is our country to which we are under personal and direct obligation, and which at times demands the supreme sacrifice.

It is said congress is now ready to speed up legislation. Sure. With but seven days of the session remaining there will have to be some speeding or George, Harry and Pat will have to remain over and become the ornaments of an extra session.

The meeting held at Union High School No. 1 Monday afternoon by Mr. Scheffer and County Agriculturist Hall, demonstrating means of trapping moles and preparation of the skins for market, was very interesting, and was well attended by the farmers.

The Methodist Ladies' Aid society will meet at the parsonage, weather permitting, next Wednesday, February 28. Lunch will be served. A good crowd is desired, as matters of importance will come up for consideration.

The entertainment, which was to have been given by the Hillsview school on Saturday night, has been indefinitely postponed, on account of unfavorable weather.

When you have a severe headache, accompanied by a coated tongue, loathing of food, torpid liver, vomiting of partly digested food and then bile, you may know that you have a severe bilious attack.
