Probably one of the most brutal acts ever committed was that of Wassael Warovlosky at Allentown, Pa., on March 3. Because his little daughter accidentally destroyed his pay check he cut both her hands off on a chopping block. She died from loss of blood and her mother fell dead from the shock.

TROUTDALE

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barry and two children came out from Portland Friday for a week-end visit with Mrs. Barry's sister, Mrs. Geo. Lumsden.

The postponed Parent-Teachers' meeting will be Thursday, March 15, at the schoolhouse.

The Parker family is well over the measles now. Ellery Cummins is well also, and the three younger Cummins children are well broken out. There seems to be no new cases.

Guests at the celery gardens Sunday were Mr. McGinnis' brother, H. T. McGinnis, with his wife and children.

The Troutdale Ladies' Aid met with Mrs. C. I. Thomas last Wednesday. Plans for the activities of the spring and summer were outlined. Refreshments were served. Those present besides the hostess were Mesdames L. A. Harlow, C. I. Raker, John Burdine, Ruth Brink, Lee Evans, H. F. Parsons, N. S. Parsons, Morris McGinnis, J. R. Knarr, Wm. Crawford, Miss Olive Wilson and Mrs. Hall of Portland.

Misses Edith Balys and Violet Fountain were week-end guests at the Jay Bailey home.

Little Helen Landan is ill with pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Van DeWalker have moved this week from Mrs. Wright's home to the house recently vacated by the C. I. Raker family.

W. P. Benedict suffered a stroke of apoplexy Monday, and is in a serious condition at his home here.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the many friends who have shown kindness and sympathy during the long illness and death of our beloved husband and father, and for the beautiful floral offerings and we are particularly appreciative of the help given by the Gresham Odd Fellows lodge. Mrs. Ella Hensley and Children.

BORING

A surprise shower was given to Mr. and Mrs. Hans Larsen on last Saturday night, by about thirty of their friends in the neighborhood. A jolly evening was spent and refreshments were served. A number of nice wedding presents were left by the guests.

Rev. Thos. Atkinson, of Bridal Veil, has been appointed pastor of the Methodist church here, to serve until conference next September. Rev. Mr. Atkinson preached two good sermons at the church last Sunday and will preach each alternate Sunday, both morning and evening.

A meeting has been called of the women of the community for the organization of a Ladies' Aid society, at the home of Mrs. Hans Larsen, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30.

ROCKWOOD

H. Hoffee and family have returned from Salton, Washington, where they have been visiting with relatives for the past three months. Mr. Hoffee has resumed work in Ed. Osburn's blacksmith shop in Gresham.

Mrs. Walpert has rented her place to Mr. and Mrs. Byron from Woodburn, who have moved in.

Ruth Wallin, who has been suffering with measles, is about recovered. So far as is known, there are no other cases of measles here.

For Sale.

PLEASANT HOME

All are pleased with the promise of having library books distributed in the neighborhood. Miss Pearl Duret of the Gresham Branch library will be at the station each Tuesday from 2 to 3:30 p. m. for the purpose of issuing and exchanging books. She will be assisted by Mrs. Martin Lennartz.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Lane and family of Portland visited Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Wihlon Sunday.

The Misses Gertrude and Ruth Ickler, Dorothy and Leon Caddy visited Lena and Harry Cooley Saturday evening.

The Sunshine club will give a St. Patrick's program at the M. E. church Saturday, March 17. The main feature of the program is "Mrs. Wiggs in the Cabbage Patch." Everybody come. A good program will be given and the admission is exceedingly low.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Witters and Mrs. H. Wihlon visited Mr. and Mrs. J. Ickler, Sunday.

Miss Dorothy Caddy spent Sunday with the Misses Gertrude and Ruth Ickler.

Joe Staffenson spent Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Wihlon.

Mr. and Mrs. Boggarston and family have moved on their rented farm at Cottrell.

Martin Lennartz is building a silo on his Fir Grove farm.

Miss Edith Hale is home on a visit.

All Stayed at Home.

The night was cold and the snow was deepening. A good night it was for burning the biggest logs and inviting the best friends to sit beside the fire. No sooner were the dishes out of the way than the man of the house brought in a big knotted chunk of a log that started the fire leaping and crackling and roaring up the chimney at the wind and snow outside. Then, comfortable in slippers and old clothes, he proceeded to call them up. He did not call them in. They would not come in. That is, they would not come out. The list of friends grew long, but in response to new invitations came the same old responses. "Sorry, but my wife has been out all day and it is too cold for her to try it again tonight." "Sorry, we were planning to have a little company ourselves." "Sorry, but I got home late and am a bit tired tonight."

The man of the house closed the telephone book and came back to his leather chair. His wife collected the evening papers and the latest magazines and her newest tablecloth and her last piece of crochet, and drew her wicker chair up beside him. They were comfortably settled and beginning to be rather glad that the friends had been so unanimously engaged at home when their own telephone rang. It was another friend, one that they had not ventured to call because he lived an unreasonable distance from the farthest car line. He said that they had a wonderful wood fire and a good bit of stuff in the house to eat, and he wondered if they would like to come out for the evening. The man of the house fumbled and stuttered and said that he would ask his wife, but that he was afraid she wasn't quite up to it that evening. He did ask her. She certainly was not up to it. "What's the matter with our own fire?" she asked. "I'd like to go all right, but it is so very pleasant here. I wish they could come in and see us. It's so far to that car line, and its miles up that hill to their house."

The man of the house returned to the telephone and managed, somehow, to transform his regrets into an urgent invitation that the dwellers on the hill come in and sit by his fire. Of course, they would not. That was the way it was all round, and everybody stayed at home that winter night. It may have been because everybody was selfish or because nobody wanted to flounder through the snow, but it was, more likely, because of the simple and everlasting truth that our own fires are best.
