Anything stretched is likely to be thrown into vibration, or made to tremble, by the force of the air blowing against it. If it vibrates so fast as to produce the air waves that our ear can hear, then that is what we call sound. This is what happens to the telegraph wires when they hum; and if we put our hand on the telegraph pole we shall feel that the wires vibrate strongly enough to set the whole pole to trembling, too. When the air is quite still you will not hear the telegraph lines humming.

Four flat steel cars were required to carry a huge steel girder from Steelton, Pa., to Chicago. This girder, which was for use in a railroad bridge, measured 131 feet nine inches in length, and ten feet six inches in height, and weighed ninety-eight tons.

MULTNOMAH GRANGE HOLDS GOOD MEET

The members of Multnomah grange met in their hall at Orient last Saturday and held a very interesting and instructive all-day session. R. L. Anderson and wife were elected delegates to the state grange, with Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Wheeler as alternates.

The program included music by a quartet composed of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Alder and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Duke. A solo by Miss Louise Fritz. Mr. Bell of the Sandy grange spoke against the division of Clackamas county. Mr. Alder spoke on the care of the orchard. Other speakers on agricultural subjects were Mr. Barber of Pleasant Valley, Mr. Duke and Mr. Bell. Mr. Worsley of Clackamas county spoke on the road bond issue and T. J. Kreuder of Lents on the food of the order. Pauline M. Pease of Portland gave an interesting talk on food values, which was much enjoyed by the housewives.

TROUTDALE

Arthur Surber was taken to the Good Samaritan hospital Saturday, with a bad case of appendicitis.

The story of Ben Hur, illustrated by stereopticon slides, will be given at the Masonic hall next Saturday evening, under the auspices of the Troutdale Parent-Teachers' association.

Arthur VanDeWalker passed away at his home here early this morning, after an illness from heart trouble. The funeral will be held at the residence Thursday at 2 p. m. An obituary will appear later.

The Cummins children are all well of the measles now and there are no more new cases in this community.

Mrs. Barlow, of Tacoma, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Frank Boscoe in Troutdale.

The Troutdale Ladies' Aid meets next week Wednesday afternoon, April 4, with Mrs. John Burdine. A good many magazines and newspapers were brought in last week, but there is a good deal more waste paper which they hope to have donated.

Mrs. Geo. Lumsden has received favorable reports from her brother, Jack Wells, who has been dangerously ill with appendicitis in a Roseburg hospital. Mr. Wells is recovering nicely and plans to visit here soon.

SCENIC

Mrs. Sophia Young and daughter, Iva, of Elmwood, Wis., who has been visiting the former's sister, Mrs. J. R. Duncan, left Thursday to visit another sister at South Bend, Wash.

Mrs. J. R. Duncan entertained the Cottrell Ladies' Embroidery club Wednesday. The club was well represented. A delicious lunch was served and all expressed themselves as having had a very good time.

Mr. Strader, a Portland attorney, recently bought a six-acre tract of land including the property formerly belonging to Mr. Hyde. Mr. Strader expects to make this his home and will move his family out here in the near future.

Resolutions of Condolence.

Whereas, The great All-Wise Ruler has entered the home of one of our sisters and taken away the beloved husband,

Sacred Concert at Pleasant Valley.

A sacred concert will be given at the Pleasant Valley church Sunday, April 1 at 11 a. m., by Portland singers. There will be no charge. All are invited.

No capital city has changed its name so often as Constantinople, which was originally known as Byzantium. In B. C. 658 this name was discarded for that of Byzantium, which remained in use until the capture of the city by Septimus Severus, who rechristened it Roma Nova. On making it his capital, Constantine the Great endowed it with his own name, and it is still known as Constantinople among western nations. This name, however, is ignored by the Turks, who since they obtained possession of Constantinople have preferred to call it Stamboul.

THE CHURCH OF TODAY

By A. THOMPSON, A. M., Ph. D.

We cannot but regret the lack of union in christendom, the existence of so many sects, having their origin in some newly desired form of government; others originated in the desire to emphasize some particular doctrine that was deemed fundamental; others again thought the existing churches had not the right name, and so they adopted one in harmony with their views. These divisions have been a source of weakness, by creating jealousies and preventing universal co-operation in the great work in which all are interested.

The tendency today is towards organic union, not because of an increased fraternal spirit, but rather because of the operation of the first law of human nature—that of self-preservation. Many once flourishing denominations are losing their grip, and they see no salvation except in union with other churches of similar form of belief. All over the land in city churches, in rural congregations, the ministers are complaining of empty pews, and lack of interest in religious matters. Every effort is being put forth to change conditions.

Some rightly blame counter attractions, such as the picture show, and the automobile as being largely responsible.

I heard a discussion on this subject lately, when one good, earnest brother suggested a return to Bethlehem—to Calvary, to old-fashioned methods, assuring the brethren that the pure gospel was not being preached, we must preach the terrors of the law; the hell that awaits the sinner in the language of our fathers. In a conversation I had later with this brother I frankly told him that I believed the need of the church, today, was not a return to a dead Christ, and an empty tomb, but ever forward to a living Christ who is leading His church on to victory.

We are slow to realize that we are living in a world of thinking beings; our schools and colleges are turning out large numbers of young people who are taught the correct use of language; who easily detect errors in logic, as well as errors in language.

They are taught to think, to reason, and the church cannot hold the masses of our young people, if they have to sit and listen to a lengthy sermon possibly plagiarized from some famous minister of the long ago. Recently I attended a religious service, where the minister, a man of the old school, emphasized the fact of the Divine Immanence, and that He is Infinite Love; and that His mercy is everlasting; but assured his hearers that unless they joined the church, they would be damned; for, said he, "The wicked shall be turned into hell with all the nations that forget God." He did not know that hell—sheol—signifies the grave, the hidden place. His sermon was lengthy and alarmingly fiery; while I listened, I found myself, half audibly, quoting the 118 Psalm, "O, give thanks unto the Lord; for he is good, and his mercy endureth forever." He pictured the end of the world; it was a bloody assize; a sentencing of prisoners; the clang of the prison door; and it was Jesus the friend of men who was the judge; the very same Jesus, whom the Pharisees called to judge the guilty woman, when he uttered those memorable words, "Neither do I condemn thee, go and sin no more."

To me, the gospel means the glad tidings of salvation; not the bad news of damnation. I thought if hell exists, God is there; and his qualities of mercy, love and kindness are there ever outpoured, and if he is everywhere; the God who is light, and in whom is no darkness at all, then, even in hell there can be no night—no blackness of darkness if God be there.

One of the main reasons why people are careless about the church is, that they are dissatisfied with what they hear. Today men care little for doctrinal discussions; they are tired of formulated creeds; they care less for imaginary pictures of heaven and hell; the crass delineations of the character of the Infinite God they totally discard.

Men are living beings, they want the preacher to help them to live here, and now; they realize that society must be regenerated, that God is the friend not the enemy of the race; they demand the relegation of the religious nomenclature of a past credulous age to the museums of antique lore; and the use of the terms of needless life, without figure or metaphor. We are living in a democratic age; the people realize that the work of a minister is a divine work; but equally so is the work of the teacher in the public schools; here is moulded the character mental, ethical and spiritual; the work of the father and mother in the home in the training of their children is new conceived to be a work divine. So is the labor of the physician as he ministers to the body and wages war against the demons of disease. All true work is as divine as the work of the minister—it is not a competitive work; the world of activities is not arrayed against the Christ and his Father, but science, art, industry, are today falling into line to combine with the teachers of morals and religion to usher in the golden age when God shall dwell with men. He, the only potentate; and humanity one common brotherhood. The ministers who cannot interpret the handwriting on the wall; who cannot adjust themselves to new spiritual conditions must falter by the wayside. Not backward but "Onward Christian Soldiers" is engraved on the banner of every wide-awake, active church in the land.

In conclusion, I would say that the demand for clerical and religious readjustment to modern conditions is not put forth by hypocrites and sinners, as many ministers would have us believe, giving this as an excuse for their mental indolence and inability to cognize the needs of the day; lent by the purest and best, the devout, earnest souls who have the interests of the church and the kingdom of God at heart. Let us remember that the heart of the infinite is set on the world's deliverance from every and all evil, but it will never be won by the offer of a bribe, be it the heaven of heavens; nor by the dire threat of eternal burnings.

Today the world is larger than it was once conceived to be; God is greater; man once conceived to be a worm, is now recognized a son of God; not a child of the devil. Many indeed are prodigals, but our Father waits and longs for our return. In the past credulity linked with superstition have been the interpreters of God's message to man. These twin falsities gave birth to a host of errors; demology, angelology, manology, bibliology, witchcraft, together with a host of monstrosities now relegated to oblivion.

If the ministers of our churches, will grasp the true conditions as they exist today they will truly execute the great commission given them; to go out into all the world and make disciples of all nations, ushering in the kingdom of our God and of His Christ.

The end.
